He made money
on the farm

If many a farmer retiring to a well-earned rest it has been said, "He made a lot of money on that farm." The fact is he made no more money than his neighbour, but he saved a great deal more.

Acquiring wealth is largely a matter of systematic spending and saving. Without a definite plan few men get anywhere. Hard work is not enough; the fruits of the work must be conserved.

Hot Shot for Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P.

According to the following from the Hastings Gazette, Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., may not have had the sailing just too smooth if her account is true.

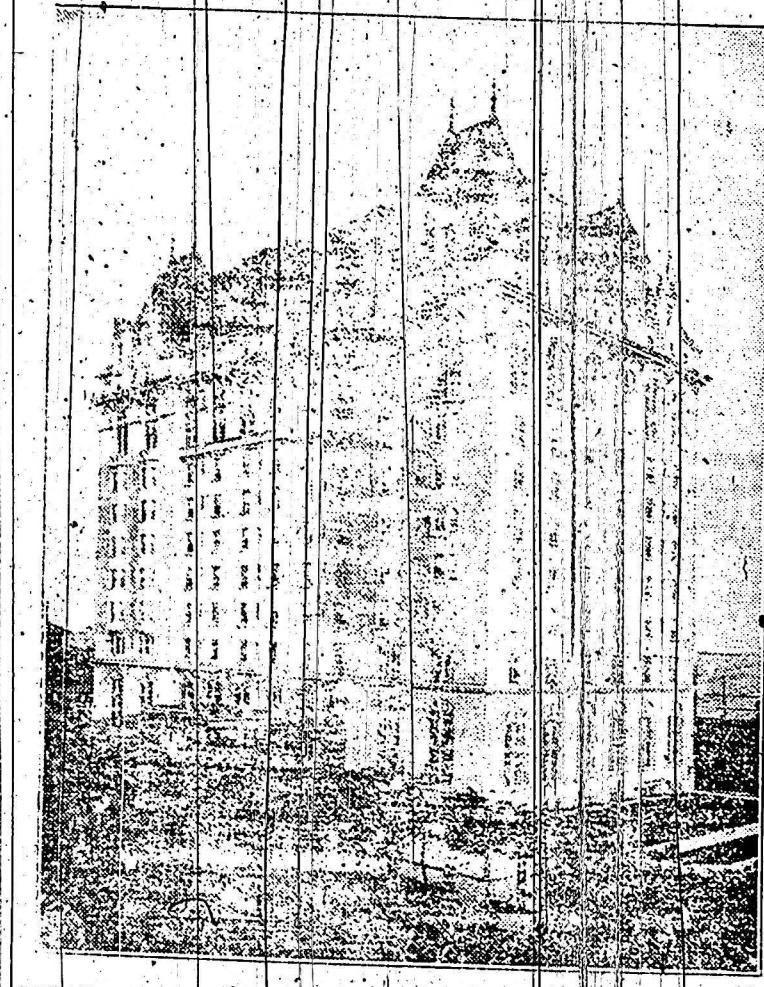

Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., in speaking before the Farmers' Club of South Mohaghan and Cavan on Friday last, made the startling and highly controversial statement that "Belgium had not been invaded, Britain would have given up conscription to enter the World War."

The women of Canada have certainly had an unfortunate first experience in the House of Commons. The most express sense of every loyal Canadian voter must be that the next election will sweep Miss McPhail into an obscure corner of the Commons, but will not be heard outside her home circle of intimate friends.

We thought we had heard all about the war. There would be no advising Agnes to read the "White Paper" containing the proposal to be brought before the other side's Foreign prior to the opening of hostilities. We don't suppose she could still her purpose to tell us what is making plain in "The Arts and Letters of Page," the greatest of the American Ambassador's to the Court of St. James'—by the way, this most interesting work is at the "Markdale Library." herself rethought some three or four days ago, from the scene of action, in a cage held down at the British Foreign Office and in the great Ambassador's of a great neutral nation. She has discovered that she makes more than the West-mountain tops of the riding. The war is certainly over, because, in my time, Canada was interesting, as it then pleased people to report. Canada is not interested in war. What we want is peace, and peace with a vastly greater amount of prosperity than exists at the present time.
