One of Ontario's Best Investments

Highways contribute greatly to people's welfare and pleasure

By making transportation easy, Ontario's good roads foster business, assist the farmer and bring pleasure to hundreds of thousands of our people. Good roads are one of our best investments.

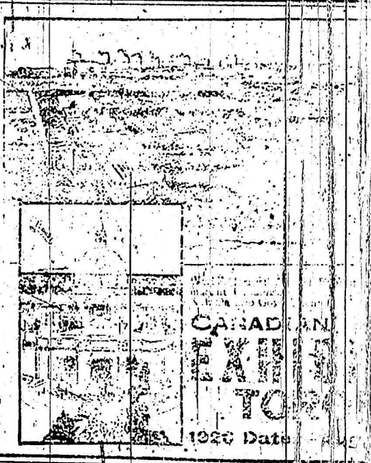
These roads have cost $120,000,000 of the people's money. Many more millions will be required to keep them in repair and to renew them. This money must come from those who use the roads.

You, as a motorist, are invited to take an interest in the highways. They are yours to use, not to abuse—yours to enjoy, not to destroy. Excessive speed grinds away road surfaces. Drive moderately and you will help to protect the huge investment which you and the other motorists have made in the good roads of your Province.

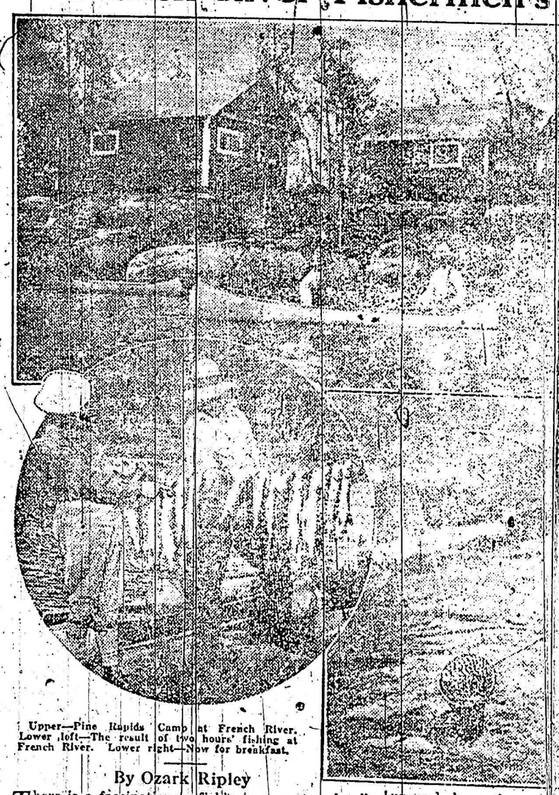
While confident that the majority of motorists will heed this request for co-operation in preserving the roads, the Government gives warning to the careless that the speed laws are being rigidly enforced.

THE HON. GEO. S. HENRY, Minister of Highways
S. J. SQUIRE, Deputy Minister

Issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.



French River Fishermen's Paradise



Upper—Pine Rapids Camp at French River. Lower left—The result of two hours' fishing at French River. Lower right—Now for breakfast.

By Ozark Ripley

There is a fascination to fishing new waters hardly equalled by the number of fish which are taken. Because every stream and lake has its peculiarities, a certain amount of study of local conditions is necessary. Successful fly and bait casting is study, especially when applied to bass and trout fishing. The man who devotes most time to studying a new lake or stream comes back home not only with fish but a perpetual mental picture of the resort he visited in the summer.

If everywhere the bait or fly caster went he took fish just as he pleased then the real spice of the visit to the waters would be lost. Nobody appreciates anything in this world which is easily obtained. The real core of sportsmanship is solving new countries, new waters and deriving most pleasure from the unexpected. Streams and lakes are living things and deport themselves accordingly. They may be full of all kinds of game fish and yet yield us nothing until we bow to local conditions and agree that they need sensible study.

The first musky I ever took on a fly rod was near Pine Camp rapids on French River in Ontario, the people vowed it could not be done. There were long hours before I succeeded and yet a little study brought some facts to my knowledge. Late in the evening I found that some of these big boys had a penchant for dropping over the little swift fall and preying on the wall-eyed pike which were so abundant below. The very first white feather minnow I cast after becoming possessed of this hunch connected me with a nice one that gave me a merry half hour following up and down the rapids before [illegible] credit.

In the lower Nipigon [illegible] ends its course in Nipigon Bay [illegible] cinated by the clear, swift water [illegible] I had with ordinary trout and [illegible] once in a while I could get one of the spotted fish rise along the [illegible] Canadian Pacific bridge. It [illegible] that these big trout were by [illegible] their special favorite was the [illegible] boring among the rocks [illegible] pleasure would there be in [illegible] brook trout with bait? There are bass lakes and bass streams. This applies the far South as well as the far North. Study [illegible] what pays. I had to observe and [illegible] my solution came to me [illegible] wants to fish in the very place [illegible] fisherman never ventures, and [illegible] bass feeding in these spots before [illegible] artificial offerings. As far north as Quebec to the big mouth waters of Louisiana the same thing prevails. Right away is [illegible] necessity for studying waters, the habits of the denizens and everything thereabouts which will make or mar
