Ontario Grain Pool Soon in Operation

Nine Counties in the Province Organized During Last Six Months—8,000 member Sign Five-Year Contracts—Linked Up With Western Pools

Farmers in different parts of the world have sprung many surprises in a business way during the past 20 or 25 years.

Farmers' stores, farmers' clubs and co-operative companies, large and small, have taken a place in the farmer's affairs. Some still survive—some have gone out of business.

Many of our readers have heard about the achievements of the Ontario grain growers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta through their grain pools. Few perhaps have any idea of how this same marketing principle has been accepted by Ontario farmers.

MANAGER GOES WEST

It is only six months since the directors of the United Farmers' Co-operative Co., Limited, began a campaign, the object of which was to link up Ontario farmers with the general principles of pool marketing and the success that followed in the Canadian West. When the directors became interested in this new form of marketing, they decided to get first-hand information by sending their general manager, H. V. R. Hand, and the manager of the grain department, J. S. Jeffrey, west to make careful study and report on the feasibility of a grain pool in Ontario.

They have now returned after the trip to the prairie provinces. A report on the trip has been made for the directors, and it is believed that the directors are now planning to give all possible information about pool marketing and to place before Ontario farmers the opportunity of deriving what benefits come from this system of marketing. The services of J. Albert Hand, who had organized a grain pool in the Western provinces, were secured for the organization of a grain pool in Ontario, and the special energy to be devoted to the task.

NOW 8,000 MEMBERS

They have now 8,000 members in Ontario, reported Mr. Hand in the report of his trip. He has been in the prairie provinces for a few weeks, and he has been able to see the grain pool in operation. He has seen the grain pool in operation in the prairie provinces, and he has seen the grain pool in operation in the prairie provinces.

ENLIGHTENED EXPECTATIONS

When the grain pool was opened, Mr. Hand, "It was the intention of the directors of the grain pool that only four or five counties in the north western corner of the province should be organized in 1927. But the grain growers of other parts of the province had heard of the success of the grain pool in the north western corner, and they were anxious to have a grain pool in their own counties. The result was that the grain pool was organized in 1927 in 10 counties, and it has since then spread to 19 counties. The grain pool is now in operation in 19 counties, and it has 8,000 members.

PROPOSES CHAIN OF EMPIRE STORES TO FOSTER TRADE

Theo Feilden Plans Shops Which Would Sell Only British Products

Montreal—A scheme to establish a chain of stores, throughout Great Britain which would sell only British products and would probably mean a definite increase for Canadian trade, was hinted at by Theo. Feilden, director general of the empire trade league, and editor-in-chief of The Daily Mail, who addressed the Montreal Rotary Club recently.

A number of invited sign contracts, and then, but they were not to study the various clauses and hold themselves in readiness to sign later when a canvasser would call on them in the quiet of their own homes. A few insisted on signing, and the signing of the first contract was proclaimed with enthusiasm by the growers themselves. Since then over 100 meetings have been held and over 100 canvassers have worked in nine counties under a county or district captain. Mr. Burnell acted for ten days and later came back for another series of meetings. W. A. Ames, president of the U. F. O., addressed a number of the meetings. Many of the meetings took place in 1926, with an average of about 100. Pool principles and pool facts were presented in a quiet way. The growers themselves have organized 8,000 strong, banding themselves together in an effort to control as far as possible the marketing of their grain, eliminate unnecessary tolls between the grower and the consumer, to avoid a glut of the market with a consequent declining quotation at a season of the year when many farmers must deliver their crop in order to meet pressing obligations, to regulate the receipts of grain to the best time to sell and to get better terms from financial and transportation concerns. Now they can deliver their

Trade "Supremacy"

London National Table: It is a strange freak of national sentiment that takes the form of what may be called statistical pride. People seem to take numerical measure of one of their country's activities, and compare it jealously with those of other countries. Those with the biggest numbers, or the biggest numbers per head, have won "supremacy" in some economic field. It means no more than this. American "supremacy" in the world's investment markets is not a thing to be hated or feared. If Europe can supply the same resources for the development of the world as before the war, the resources received from the United States will justify that development and raise the standard of living everywhere.

Salads

With fruit salads, serve a salad with fruit and nuts, such as apples, oranges, and nuts. Toss with a dressing of green pepper salad, the filling held together with salad dressing, and line with salads that contain meat.

Potato and Tongue Salad

Cut into dice 6 cold cooked potatoes. Put through the food chopper enough cold boiled tongue to make 1 cupful, and 1 large onion and a half of celery. Mix all together and add salad dressing to bind the mixture.

ELEVEN YEARS OF PROGRESS

Those who took part in the starting of the first women's institute in England must have rubbed their eyes when they saw not long since the delegates from the successor of that first venture packing the Queen's Hall in London. From one institute to close on 4000 in eleven years is good going.

Brought to England from Canada, where 1897 had seen the beginning of the institute habit, these institutes have spread through the Dominions and are linked together throughout the British Empire. Scotland, ever independent, has her own rich institutes opening at Lötungburgh, Edinburgh, in 1917, and in 1920, totalling 500.

I have known women in the north districts walk miles of rough roads in any weather for their own institute. From the remotest shepherd's cottages and lonely hamlets they tramp in winter and summer alike. One finds these institutes in India, where Bengal has over 600, in South Africa, they give companionship to Dutch and English women. Australia has them in all her states. In New Zealand, where they originated, they continue to increase and to develop.

Their growth in England has been typically British. The first institute was in the majority of cases, given by a duchess, or the wife of a great landowner, or the wife of a squire; and naturally with such a foundation the building tended to be colored by that fact.

In many cases, as all who know the history of the institute in England will testify, the first institute took the form of the village institute, something to oblige the squire and doing it which and in some cases as would seem best to please him. In other cases, under other conditions and with other culture, the institute was the women's, without such distinctions or difficulties.

CANADIAN FLOUR PLEASES AUSTRIA

Makes More and Better Bread Say Bakers of That Country

The Austrian bakers have discovered that with the use of Canadian flour they can make more and better bread. The prohibition of night baking also favors the employment of fast-baking flour, says a recent edition of the Commercial Intelligence Journal, Ottawa. The statement was made in connection with inquiries as to the latest ratified trade agreement with the United States. Information given by the Austrian Consul in Montreal recently was to the effect that his country is particularly with regard to a treaty with Canada. This would increase the large amount of grain and produce which already enters the Austrian market.

Salads in Tomato Sauce

Soak and peel enough round, medium-sized tomatoes to allow one for each member party. Cut a slice from the end of each, and pour the juice into a bowl. The shells inverted over the juice, and the tomatoes placed in the shells. Dress with a dressing of mayonnaise and a little oil.

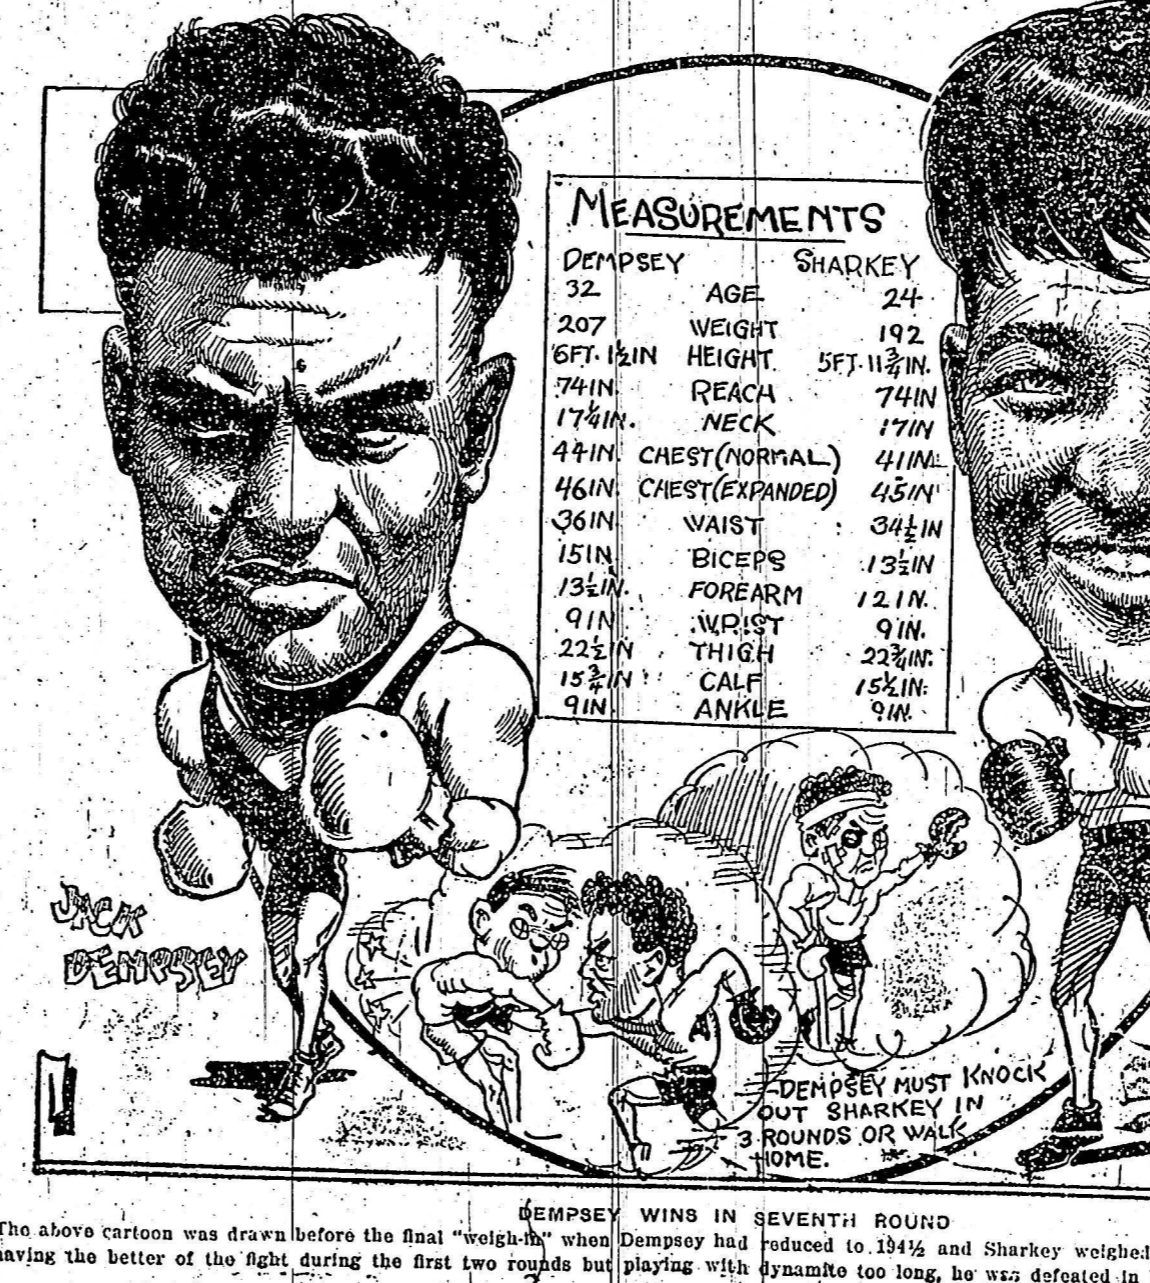

Pineapple and Potato Salad

Put canned pineapple in a bowl, and add about 1/2 lb. of potatoes, cut into small dice, and a little oil. Dress with a dressing of mayonnaise and a little oil.

Fried Tomatoes

Take some tomatoes, not too ripe and cut them into round slices. Heat up an egg, turn the slices in it and then fry in hot oil. Then turn them well in bread crumbs. Fry in a small quantity of hot fat or oil on a low fire. Serve very hot.
