Childless-Servantless Homes in 1950 Forecast by

Dean Inge London-Home in 1950 will be childess and servantless, predicts Very Rev. William R. Inge "Gloomy Dearly" of St. Paul's.

"The whole face of the country," he writes in The Evening Standard, will be spotted with bungaloid growths, within which childless conples will sleep, after racing about the reads in their little motor cars. As in America, the typical house, will be servantless. Meals will be brought in from a delicatessen shop and heated by a gas or electric cooker. The art of supplying standardized needs by ressing buttons will be carried to reat perfection.

"The population will, I think, begin to decrease slowly about 1950. The nercase at present is entirely due to the preponderance of young lives in he population, which keeps the crude death rate (about 12 per 1,000) very much below the real death rate (about 18 per 1,000), A decline in numbers Dr. Edward Brown, of the Poultry able old-timer of the frile. placed unemployment, which, in part at least, World, London, England, recently, the feathered headpiece on Dr. Brown is clearly due to beer population and Chief Running Antelope, a venerlittle more elbow-room would be very ber of the tribe.
