Mr. A. R. Scott of Owen Sound has had a painful experience, resulting from an unusual accident. He was severely burned about the face when anti freeze, which he was putting in the radiator of his car caught fire. Mr. Scott was trying to find out how far the liquid was from the top of the radiator and in doing so lit a match. Holding it close to the opening, the liquid immediately caught fire and the flame blew right into his face. His eyes were badly burned, particularly the right eye, and his face still shows the effects of the burns.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, con. 10, Arran, are mourning the loss of their little year and half old daughter Freda, who died on Sunday morning, having been scalded by boiling water the previous Friday. The little girl was playing about the kitchen on Friday morning when a large pan of water which was sitting on the stove, was upset and the boiling water thrown on the little girl's face, neck and shoulders. A doctor and nurse were sent for immediately and the child was kept living until Sunday morning when convulsions brought about her death. The funeral was held on Tuesday to Tara Cemetery. The sympathy of the community will go out to Mr. and Mrs. Miller in their sad bereavment.

In order to correct the further deformation of his hand Mr. Howard McAulay underwent an operation in Owen Sound hospital last week and had the bones straighened. Although an excellent job was done on the hand at the time of his accident last summer when the member was so terribly and painfully mangled in a planer, a couple of the bones became misplaced and were partly grown togther. These had to be separated and a nerve which was causing trouble located. The injury was the result of an accident in his planing mill last summer, when his hand became caught in the knives of the joining machine, resulting in the loss of two fingers on his left hand, besides badly lacerating the back of the hand. Mr. McAulay's friends wish him speedy recovery.—Flesherton Advance
