It was Grey County, and in 1910 unsuccess decided also to hold the Sproule Cup fully confested the riding of South Competition in Flesherton the first Grey in the interests of the Libera party.

The late Mr. Calder was born in parents when a babe in arms to the well-known Calder home in Normanby. When a young man he came to Durham and went in business for himself. For years he conducted an implement and insurance business here but in 1900 with the formation of the National Portland Cement Company, he went out on the road selling stock for this concern. He later had considerable to do with the establishment of the big plant at Hull, Quebec. Mr. Calder later became president of the N.P.C. Co, here, and was general manager as well, a position he held for seven or eight years, and until the business went under, not being able to keep pace with the cheaper manufacturing costs of some of the larger and more advantageously situated companies. Some time dater he entered the coal business in en, with his extensive in urance interests, which he never relinquished, occupied his time fully.

Taken ill some nine years ago, the deceased went to Torontd and took treatment in one of the better hospitals there. He was given only a limited lime to live, but recovered, and while he has ever since not been as strong as formerly, by care he kept himself in remarkably good condition and was an energetic businega to the end.

About 36 years ago he was married to Miss Margaret Gradam of Paisley, who survives. The whole married period of their lives has been lived in Durham, where they are too well known o need any further introduction at our hands. Besides Mrs. Calder there survives a daughter, Miss Marion, at home, and son, Melvin A., druggist, in Walkerton, A son Wilfred, died in 1905, and another son, Roy G., was killed overseas in 1918. Besides his family he leaves three sisters, Misses Mary and Eliza in Durham, and Mrs. Jasper Smith in Normanby, and, one brother, Geo. Calder, in Holstein. To all of these the citizens of the town will extend sympathy in their sudden sad bereive-
