Chas. Tate has good reason to be thankful that he is alive to tell the tale of his narrow escape last Thursday afternoon. Charlie and Clarence Bryan were hauling some old cars from the rear of Bryan's garage to the dump east of the town. They were using a Fordson tractor to haul the cars and Charlie was doing the driving. Below the East Broadway hill they stuck in some soft ground. When Charlie applied more juice the hill they stuck in some soft ground. When Charlie applied more juice the tractor reared up, just as a fractions horse will sometimes do with its rider and fell over backwards pinning the and fell over backwards pinning the luckless driver underneath. Had the tractor fallen squarely on Tate he would have been crushed to death. As it was he was pinned firmly on the Electors of Holland his back on the ground and with Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having the oil and gasoline from the upturned tractor running over his face

Don't let the Martins get away from you!

"I'm sorry the Martins are moving away," said Mrs. Drummond to her husband. "It will mean that we are going to lose track of some very nice people!"

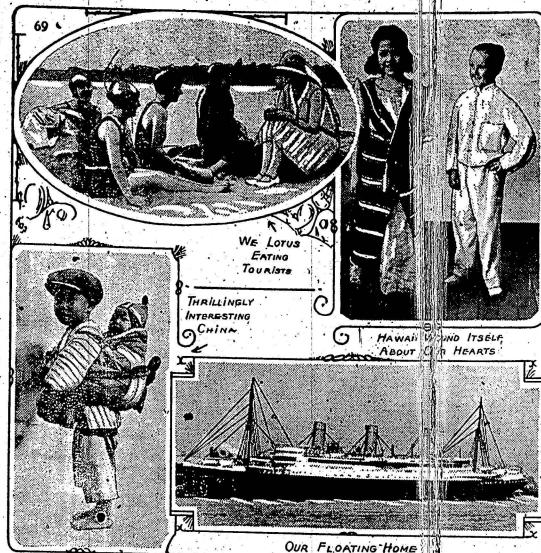

"I don't see why it should. If a good customer of mine moves away we follow him up by Long Distance. Don't let a little thing like distance separate you from the Martins!"

A great change has come over Long Distance tele-phoning. Now it is almost as rapid as local telephoning. You give Long Dis-tance the distant number and, in a great majority of cases she is able to make connection while you hold the line. The Long Distance operator will look up the distant number for you, if you don't know it, and tell you what it is.

Still better, give us a list of the friends or customers you are likely to talk with. We will add the numbers and return the list to you.
