OWL LAUGHS

(ON WITH LAUGHTER)

A sick call acts that way anyhow, but a man only when he is in love.

There are more opportunities today than there are men capable of grasping them.

THE CORRESPONDENT'S PLEA

If we could write the things we feel, could make imagination real! If pencil, paper, pen and ink had but the gift to make us think, we'd shed our studied attitudes, namby-pamby and platitudes, and write our missives just as though they went to people whom we know.

We'd scorn such terms as "even date" and "in reply we beg to state," "Regarding," would not be "in re," "Your meanings would be plain as day," "Yours truly" we would not "remain," from stilted phrases we'd refrain! How wild would our letters be in simple phrasing!

No "14th-just," or "30th-ult." Our readers' sense would insult! From floral bombast like "esteemed" our sentences would be redeemed. In homely words and simple style we'd write each letter with a smile. Oh! What a difference goodness knows.

If we could write plain English prose! Now go on with the story! And there was the Scot-Scot who wouldn't wear socks because they put too much strain on his garters.

Why one couldn't know he's got enough until he's got too much.

HOW DELICATE GIRLS ARE MADE STRONG

Rich, Red Blood Needed to Keep Up Their Vitality.

It should be borne in mind that pale, bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep and regular out-of-door exercise. But a lack of appetite and tired, aching limbs tend to hinder progress. To save the weak, thin-blooded sufferer, she must have new, rich blood, and nothing meets a case of this kind so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills not only enrich and increase the blood supply, they help the appetite and aid digestion, thus bringing new health and strength and transforming anemic girls and women into cheerful, happy people.

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of anemic girls is proved by the case of Miss Lucy Stoddard, Margartville, N.S., who says: "From the age of 12 to 15, I was in an anemic condition. I was very thin and nervous, had no appetite and had no desire to take part in the doings of those of my age. My mother got tonic after tonic for me, but they did me very little good. Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended and almost from the first they seemed to have the example of Miss Stoddard, feeling sure that the pills will renew her health. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mouse Ties Up An African City

A mouse paralyzed the electric power system of Johannesburg, South Africa, for three hours at noontime recently, caused a city-wide tie-up and brought injury to five persons. It poked its nose into a terminal box at the central power station. With a flash and a roar, a blinding sheet of flame shot out. Fifteen men nearby were scorched, three of them so badly they were taken to a hospital.

Some 15,000 workers on their way home to luncheon on fast express trains were brought to a standstill. All electrically driven machinery in the city went dead, and many of the workers living at a distance had to go without their noonday snack altogether.

The King Collects His Rent

At the beginning of the week, on the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, the Duke of Wellington went to Windsor Castle to present to the King the banner by which he pays his rent for the estate of Stratfield Saye. This estate was granted to the "Iron Duke" who won Waterloo, and his descendants in perpetuity, on the quaint condition that the holder of the title should present to the sovereign on each anniversary of the battle a banner which has taken the form of a miniature Napoleonic eagle standard.

Quintets of this kind are not uncommon survivals of other times. The Duke of Atholl holds part of his lands on condition that he presents a white rose to the sovereign when honored by a royal visit. Red roses have been given to the King by the owner of a house in Buckinghamshire when a monarch passes that way and the owner of estates near Aylesbury is under obligation in similar circumstances to furnish straw for the royal bed.

If part of the proceeding is that his Majesty should sleep upon straw, it seems unlikely that he will ever collect this quit rent.

Dancing Now in Revue Song

London Hit Tells About Girl Who Had Prince for a Partner Twice Removed.

London. The Prince of Wales can not often dance a waltz at his own expense. A bivouac allusion to the hunt, in a field, or at the dance, is the state of a ready laugh from him, and no resentment.

Now, an addition is most likely to be made to the stage, and it is the day of the play, which is with in the hands of propriety. Of course, if the Prince himself say he does not wish to be named, it is not for that he has not mentioned in any of his public appearances in London.

A very interesting story is told in the London papers of a dancing party given at the residence of a nobleman. When the Prince was a day or two in London, he was seen at the dance, and he was seen to be dancing with a girl who was the partner of the Prince of Wales.

Strong Man Ties Traffic

Lloyd H. Morrell, of Sydney, Australia, who prefers to be known as "Little Samson," the world's strongest man, weighs 107 pounds, and stands four feet ten inches in his riding boots. At Forty-eighth Street and Broadway, in New York, at noon recently, he allowed two truck horses, attached to him by chains, to pull East and West. For some seven minutes, the horses, responding to the whistles of "attendants," struggled vainly to gallop in opposite directions. Several thousand persons watched and traffic was suspended.

When the stunt was over and "Little Samson" had been duly photographed and congratulated, he made a short speech to the assembled Times Square throngs to the effect that he would be seen performing in vaudeville at the regular rates. "Little Samson," 26 years old, He attributes his strength to a balanced diet. "I eat when I'm hungry, but I eat the right things," he said mysteriously.

Sandino Flays U.S. "Crime"

Note From Rebel Chief Thanking Americans for Medical Supplies Received

Tells of "Extermination"

A grimy, weary rider on a mule fighting jungle beasts and suffering from tropical diseases, has succeeded in piercing the lines of the American marines to General Augusto Sandino with the first shipment of medical supplies, bought with American funds and has returned with a letter from the leader of the Nicaraguan rebels denouncing "the systematic extermination of a defenseless people by a country that is not officially at war, according to the headquarters of the Anti-Imperialist League, 29 Square, A copy of the purported letter was given to the press.

The shipment of medical supplies was sent from New York in the early part of March, in answer to a plea from General Sandino that "for want of bandages and medicines my wounded are dying like flies on the road." When the consignment reached Bryan Torrios, personal representative of General Sandino at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, a call was made for a volunteer to take it to Sandino, according to the story by Harry James, Secretary of the Anti-Imperialist League in New York. Dr. Gustavo Machado was accepted, Mr. James said.

General Sandino in his purported letter assails the "policy of aggression" of the Washington Government. The letter reads as follows:

Sirs: Members of the United States Section of the Anti-Imperialist League, 29 Union Square, Room 40, New York City:

"I am glad to inform you that I have received from the hands of Dr. Gustavo Machado what came to me in fulfillment as a representative of the Central Committee of the Hands Off-Nicaragua Association, a package containing cotton, bandages and other medicines to cure the wounds of our soldiers.

"We are especially delighted that you, honest North Americans, manifest in this manner your protest and disapproval of the policies of aggression that the existing Government of the United States is carrying on in Nicaragua.

"We know that the majority of the North American people is not directly responsible for the ferocious crimes that the marines commit every day in our country. Even to us came notice of the views of the meetings and public manifestations against the sending of the marines to Nicaragua. We well know the situation of the working class your country, also victims of the aggression of the exploiters, exploited by the same interests that are now fighting to enslave the people of Latin America.

"It is our conviction that if all the citizens would make heard their voice of protest, the opinion of the majority would be carried out. In opinion against the criminal plans of the Washington Government.

"We want to transmit through your army of liberation of Nicaragua to the anti-imperialist fighters of the United States for the sending of medicines, asking them at the same time that they should make known our opinion of the systematic extermination of a defenseless people by a country that is not officially at war in violation of the Constitution of the United States.

"With cordial greetings, I am yours for country and liberty.

"A. C. SANDINO (Seal) "Patria y Libertad."

Encouraged by the success of their first shipment, the All-America Anti-Imperialist League announced that it is planning to send more medicines to General Sandino as soon as possible.

Prince of Wales Now 34, Passes Birthday Quietly

London.—Britain, on June 23rd, wished the Prince of Wales many happy returns on the occasion of his thirty-fourth birthday, but in accordance with custom, there was no public celebration. The Prince himself passed a quiet week end at Sandringham, bettering his golf.

He closed his year with a short speech to students of the London School of Economics, gathered in a chilly wind on the new school building's roof, which later all were glad to leave for a dance inside. There he remarked to friends:

"I say, it was jolly cold up there." He danced with a number of the girl students, making his own choice of partners. Afterward the students gave him a carried ovation in the school's crest. This was the only birthday present he would accept, having recently turned down a valuable gift with the words, "I'm too old for birthday presents."

As another year has ticked off without altering the colliate state of the Prince, the usual question, "Will he ever marry?" is being asked, but as usual he gives no sign which may be taken as an answer.

Education and the Bible

Martha Brock in the Leeds Yorkshire Post (Copies): Much is written and spoken about education; hardly a newspaper is printed that does not contain some reference to the subject. Yet these thoughts of God, and of man's life with which the Bible is inspired throughout, are the very ones which are omitted from present-day education, or relegated to a minor position in it. As in adult education, its sources seem to be the daily Press, a few weekly and monthly magazines, and a multitude of novels. Some further fodder for the minds of both young and old is provided by the cinema. But what place does the Bible take?

Cute in a Baby Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in a two-year-old and sometimes it lasts an untold fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or indigestion, and it always interferes with digestion. Plugging the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the baby a regular opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas or stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless; the rate is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on "Motherhood." Look for "Glad," if Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

Movies for Quebec

La Presse (Montreal): The Provincial Secretary thinks that Quebec will produce its own films dealing with the history of the French-Canadian race. Our history offers a rich choice of subjects more interesting than most others. The rough life of our missionaries and the pioneers of the heroic period, the military and political incidents, our habits and customs, the picturesque settings we can find, furnish abundant material. Only one condition is needed, that the people who produce our scenes of French-Canadian history shall be qualified to do so.

War Propaganda

Manchester Guardian (Lib.): In the last war a Government could send any lie it liked across the globe knowing that its success would depend on its being believed. It is now less easy to make a man believe anything. At the beginning of the war most of the lies in circulation were due to hate or semi-private enterprise. But as the war progressed Governments treated the lie as a key industry and made it one of their principal cares. Lying became a form of war service in every country.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS THE HOME DOCTOR

Baby's Own Tablets meet all the needs that exist in every home where there are young children. They are laxative, but do not grip. They are soothing, but do not contain one particle of opiate or other ingredient that can in any way do the slightest harm to the most delicate child.

Baby's Own Tablets reduce fever, relieve colic, banish constipation and indigestion, check diarrhoea, soothe the stomach and allay the irritation that accompanies the cutting of teeth. They quiet the nerves and promote health-giving sleep and repose. In fact they are as good as a doctor in the home, and one's mother has used them for her little ones she will be nothing else. Thousands of mothers bear testimony to this. Among them is Mrs. Hurst, Pine Falls, Maine, who says: "I was told to try Baby's Own Tablets by a friend who had used them for all her little ones and said she could not do without them. After using them for my baby boy, I quite agree with her and certainly think they are the finest medicine in the world for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The German Republic

London Daily Mail (Ind. Cons.): We are witnessing what looks like the opening of a new epoch. It is not only in Prussia and in the elections to the German Reichstag that the Nationalists and the military party have sustained a series of defeats. Even in Bavaria, which has always in recent years been a Nationalist stronghold, the Socialists have made great gains, though they are still in the minority.

British Royal Umbrellas Checked Like Commoners

London.—The King and Queen of England, like 40,000,000 of their subjects, are seldom seen without a canopy umbrella hooked over one arm.

Once one has encountered a London downpour he can sympathize with them. The precaution, however, has its disadvantages, for should one want to drop into a picture gallery to get out of the wet he must relinquish the umbrella and run the risk of losing the elusive metal tip which alone will enable him to reclaim it.

But, then, even the King and Queen take this risk. When they paid a private visit to an exhibition of art they the other day His Majesty's quick eye read the notice stating that all walking sticks and umbrellas must be checked at the entrance, and immediately insisted on surrendering his own and the Queen's in spite of curator's remonstrance that an exception would be made in their behalf.

A traveller was talking of having seen, in some foreign country, huge and large and powerful that two of them would drain a man's blood in the night. Sir John Doyle, to whom this was addressed, replied, "My good sir, we have the same animals in Ireland, but they are known there by another name, they call them hub-bugs."

Had Not Been Taking a Drink

"Had not been taking a drink," said a member of the Church of England, who had just passed a bottle of beer to a friend. "I'm an honest man, sir, I paid for my drink as I always do."
