McCrabb - Milson

One of the prettiest and popular girls of this vicinity passed over into the ranks of the married last Wednesday, when, at high noon, in the Chatsworth United Church, Miss Vera Milson, became the bride of Mr. Elgin McCrabb of Warton. Miss Vera chose to have a very quiet wedding, and so it was strictly private, only a few of the nearest relations of bride and groom being invited to the church, where the ceremony was conducted by Rev. Sidney Martin, M.A.

The church was prettily decorated with pink, white and mauve asters, a fitting setting for the fair young bride, who entered on her father's arm to the strains of the wedding march from Loehengrin, played by Mr. Peter DeGaris of Toronto. The bride wore a white georgette, white hose and shoes, and a veil caught with orange blossoms; and the bridal bouquet, butterfly roses with streamers and sweetheart roses.

Miss Kate Milson, who was bridesmaid, wore powder blue, crepe de chine, with grey felt hat, grey hose and gloves, her bouquet being yellow. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Frank McCrabb.

During the signing of the registers, Mr. DeGaris sang "O Promise Me."

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McCrabb motored to Owen Sound, returning in time to take the afternoon train for Toronto, where they took the boat for a trip through the Thousand Islands. The going-away costume was brown figured velvet, with hose and shoes to match, but in a harmonizing shade, with blue needlepoint coat.

They will live near Warton. The banner is pleased to be spokesman for a host of best wishes that will follow the young people to their home from this locality.

The Banner learns that to-morrow night (Tuesday, this is being written) Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bell, Sullivan are entertaining a number of friends to celebrate their fifteenth wedding anniversary. A little bird whispers that pretty and useful gifts are being procured, to be presented to the host and hostess before this reaches its readers.

Recent daily papers announced the appointment of Mr. Donald A. Cooper as lecturer in Mathematics at Queen's. Mr. Cooper is the son of the Mr. Cooper who was Principal of the school here at one time. He will assist Prof. Matheson, brother of Mrs. W. G. Wilson, who is head of the Department of Mathematics at Kingston's University.

The finishing touches are being rapidly added to the United Church, the decoration of which had not been completed at the time of the reopening. This week will see the last of the work completed. The porch has been tastefully decorated, the seats have received a new coat of stain, and the new choir-room and vestry have been made ready for use.

Mrs. Robt. Hogg, Holland, suffered a painful accident when washing on Monday, a needle penetrating deeply into the thick part of her hand. She pulled it out and discovered that the point was gone, hurried to Owen Sound and had it X-rayed, but the plates showed no evidence of a foreign body in the hand. "It is scarcely sore at all now," said Mrs. Hogg, when we called her by phone a few minutes ago.

The Chatsworth Bowling Club spent a very enjoyable evening in Owen Sound on Sept. 11th, when the members were entertained at a bowling match and corn roast by the Ladies' Bowling Club of North Owen Sound. The games were played on the North Owen Sound bowling green, and Chatsworth carried off the prizes. Mrs. George Currie winning the one for ladies, and Mr. McColeman the one for gentlemen. Those who went from Chatsworth were: Mr. and Mrs. Currie, J. Telford, Mrs. MacFarlane, Mel. MacFarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bell, Mr. and Mrs. McColeman, Miss Bessie Hamilton, Miss Teresa Dowd.

In our issue of August 22nd, mention was made of the huge wisteria in California, which has rooted and re-rooted, spreading until it now covers three acres; and fears were expressed lest the vine started at the Reeve's home might end by covering his orchard and lawn and Henry Hughes garage. Well, this particular wisteria seems to have a liking for indoors, perhaps it is afraid of our winters and is making ready. At all events it has pushed through between the sashes of the nearest window, and is lustily throwing up shoots towards the ceiling. It will be interesting to note what the inside foliage will do when that outside has been frozen.

The Anglican Church, Chatsworth, was closed on Sunday to permit the people of the congregation to go to St. Mark's, Holland, where harvest services were held morning and evening. Rev. Mr. Hurford, of Shelburne preached, exchanging pulpits with Rev. John Graham of Chatsworth, who is also Rector of St. Mark's, as well as of Desboro Anglican church. The pretty little rural building of St. Mark's was beautifully decorated with Autumn leaves, flowers, branches of dark green pine, garlands of red crab apples strung on strings, flowers, and even vegetables—cabbage, cucumbers and ripe tomatoes—whose decorative effect, when tastefully used, is remarkable. Not only did the St. Mark's congregation respond to the day of thanksgiving, but people were present from Walters Falls, Chatsworth, Holland, Centre and Berkeley, filling the church to the doors.

On September 13 in Winnipeg, the subject of intoxicating liquor was the chief topic of debate at the General Council of the United Church of Canada in session there. Bondage, prohibition, with enactment and enforcement of laws prohibiting the manufacture, sale or importation of intoxicating liquor, was laid down as a platform of the United Church.

News of a shocking disaster on the Georgian Bay came to Owen Sound with the arrival of the steamship Manitoulin on Monday night, carrying on board the prostrate figures of five men. It was then learned that at 3 a.m., Saturday morning the steamer Manasoo, ester ship to the Manitoulin, turned turtle, without a moment's warning, off Griffith's Island, and was immediately sucked into the waters of the bay. The men who were saved were chiefly those who were on night duty, and were able to swim to the boat's raft, flung clear in the overturn. They were: Captain Jack MacKay; First Mate Long; Pursuer Arthur Middlebro; other Fox; and a man named Wallace, who had chartered the boat for a run to the Manitoulin, and was bringing back on it a load of cattle. The exact number is not known at time of writing, this—were in their bunks and were carried down with the boat. A number of those on board were not members of the regular crew who had disbanded for the season, but were men picked up for the trip when the boat was chartered, hence the difficulty at this early date of learning their names. Along with those mentioned above on the raft was Engineer McCutcheon, who died, and whose body had to be thrown overboard to lighten the raft's load, his clothing being taken off to save Arthur Middlebro (son of Dr. Middlebro of Owen Sound) who might otherwise have died of exposure, as he was in his night clothes. The men on the raft, who could see the lights of Owen Sound during
