Canada's New Fort in Mediterranean

Malta Now Rivals Gibraltar in Strength; Rocky Island Has Air Field and Dry Dock

Recent improvements by the British Army and Navy authorities have made Malta one of the greatest naval and air bases in the world. The old fortifications were useless against the attack of modern aircraft and the British have completely altered the island's defences and land defences of the islands. To-day they are among the most formidable in the world.

A large military and civil airfield has been constructed at Hal Far, making another link in Britain's worldwide system of air communication. A floating dry-dock capable of accommodating the largest vessels in the world, as well as new refitting yards, large magazines and many other improvements have been completed.

Malta is the headquarters of the British Mediterranean fleet (probably the most powerful fleet of warships afloat, and is also one of the most important ports of call in the world). The last census showed less than 25,000 inhabitants.

Like its sister fortress, Gibraltar, Malta has a stormy history, being held successively by the Phoenicians, Greeks, Carthaginians, Romans, Arabs, Spanish, Italians and French. Since the Napoleonic wars it has been in the possession of Great Britain, which administers it as a Crown colony. Throughout all the centuries it has been coveted by all the maritime nations of the world. During the world war it proved of enormous value to the British as a naval and air base.

According to local tradition, the great Hannibal was born in Malta. But the island has greater claim to fame, as, according to the Bible, St. Paul and his disciples were shipwrecked here in A. D. 68. During his stay on the island, the great Christian crusader is said to have converted all the Maltese to Christianity. The spot where he is said to have landed is now called St. Paul's Bay.

When the British Mediterranean fleet returns from its cruises, Malta is always the scene of great antipathy. The British colonies resident here have a continuous round of parties, entertainments, balls and picnics. There is always a large excess of men at every social event when the fleet is in the harbor, and if a girl has the good fortune to be even moderately pretty she is lionized by the officers.

It takes more than a pair of garters to decorate the limbs of a Christmas tree.

When suspicion comes in at the door love crawls under the bed and eavesdrops.

"Six hundred acres of corn. That's some corn, isn't it?"
"Depends on whether I can—or bottle it!"

Jimmie (visiting his uncle in the country)—"Oh, Uncle George, your hired man is no honest. He let the cows drink water out of the trough before he milked them."

Many a man who can get by at home with a bit of help on his coat lapel is now trying to figure out how he can get a Christmas tree into the house without his children finding out about it.

Crisis in Russia Denied in Moscow

City Situation Unsettled, But No Unrest; Families Eased.

Moscow—Reports appearing in the American press of a crisis forming in the Ukraine, which had been denied here following receipt of the cables reports from the Soviet Government was in danger of the unrest were termed "absolutely unfounded and having no justification in fact."

George Lubarsky, chief agronomist of the Aerology, who returned from an inspection of the Ukraine, told the New York World correspondent here that he visited the districts most affected by the crop failure, in the vicinity of Kherson, Melitopol, Odessa and Nikolayev.

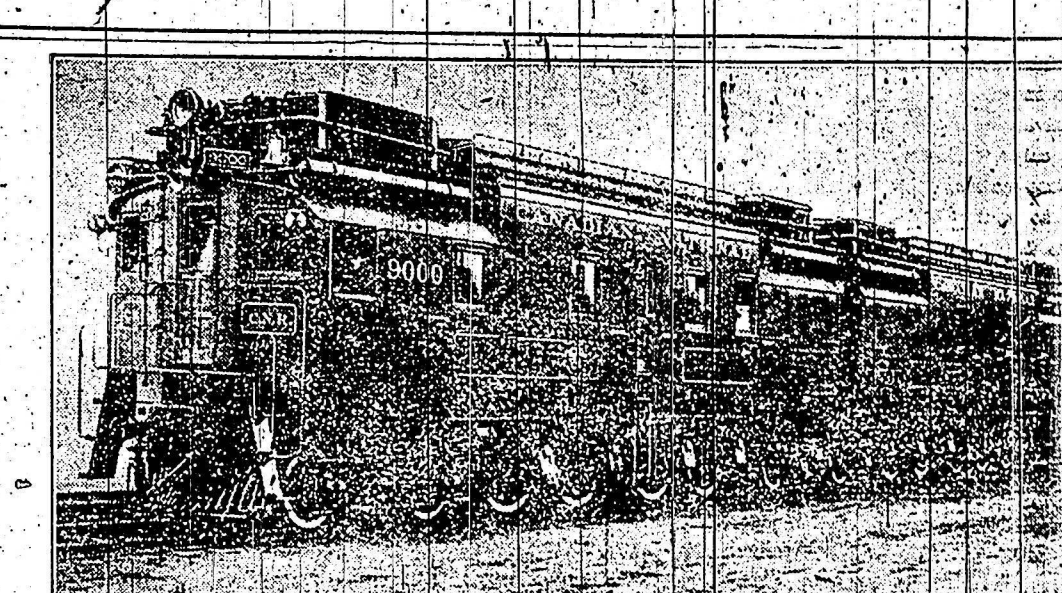

"The situation in the Ukraine was good. Satisfactory winter spring crops seem to be certain, and a more cheerful mood among the peasants. The condition in the towns is bad but not alarming. I saw no signs of unrest anywhere," he declared.

The Soviet authorities, Mr. Lubarsky said, took prompt action to ameliorate conditions, having spent forty million rubles for various measures to check the suffering resulting from famine and to alleviate the situation effectively.

Dr. Joseph A. Rosen, head of the Agronomy, the agency in charge of the Jewish settlement work in Russia, when interviewed, stated that there was no danger of famine, as the Government has distributed enough seed and food.

Canadian National Engine Oil-Electric Locomotive

Radical economy in operating costs forms the prime objective of the Canadian National Railway design in locomotives, representing a revolutionary departure from present standards and practice, which have been placed in service on the main line between Brockville and Belleville. This new locomotive represents a tremendous advance in the use of the oil-electric type of locomotive and forms a distinctive offering on Canadian engineers towards the solution to the transportation problems of this continent.

The new locomotive is the further practical application of the use of fuel oil in railway transport, which an oil engine is used to drive a generator for supplying electrical energy to the propulsion motors, and speed are obtained at costs far below those of coal-fired steam-driven locomotives.

The power developed by the oil engine is converted into electrical energy by the generator, which drives the traction motors geared to the driving axles, where it is utilized in developing traction effort and speed. The present gear ratio, which was laid out for high speed passenger service, the locomotive will develop an effort of 100,000 pounds during the accelerating periods. The electrical system of transmission utilizing fuel horse-power over a wide range of speed and tractive effort without a change of engine speed or shifting of gears.

Canada Receiving British Settlers

Substantially More Come Here Than Go To Australia

Toronto—Canada is receiving more British settlers than any other country as the result of aggressive public campaigns in the British Isles and the United States, declared Robert J. C. Stead, of the Federal Department of Immigration and Colonization, in a recent address.

"Generally speaking, every one wants immigrants as customers, but so one gets immigrants as competitors," Mr. Stead said. "The British and the United States are the only countries that are not only the search for immigrants, but also the search for immigrants. In formulating Canada's program of advertising for settlers, not only the country's physical resources and its business and industrial conditions must be considered, but also the psychology of the Canadian people toward the subjects of immigration."

"All these factors are taken into consideration, and as a result our advertising is directed exclusively toward obtaining settler settlers from the British Isles and the United States. There has been a good deal of clamor of late about Canada not getting its share of British settlers. Well we are getting more than any other country, substantially more than Australia, more than twice as many as all the British dominions besides Australia, more than twice as many as the United States."
