CREAM

With spring approaching and another cream season at hand we again ask you for your patronage and in return we promise entire satisfaction.

During our time of operating the Markdale Creamery, on the begining as well as to-day, our aim was to give the farmers of the community a Creamery Service that cannot be duplicated.

Our system of receiving and gathering is so arranged that it is possible for every farmer to sell much or little, summer or winter, with the least time lost after the cream leaving your place until it is received for grading, thereby receiving best results as to grade, weight and price.

Our method of paying is the most satisfactory as we pay cash. All these privileges and advantages await any farmer who is not yet our patron. Give us a trial and you too will be convinced of the correctness of our claim.

If it is not handy for you to bring your cream to the creamery our truck will call as soon as the roads will permit.

For entire satisfaction sell your cream to

Death of Mrs. R. Galbraith

(The Meaford Express)

The death of Mrs. Robert Galbraith took place at her late residence, Sykes street, on Sunday morning, after an extended illness from lung trouble. Deceased had been bedfast since New Year's Day and bore her affliction with courage and a resignation that will reap its own reward.

The late Mrs. Galbraith was a resident of Markdale and came to Meaford with her husband and family about a year ago. She was a member of the United Presbyterian Church and attended when able to do so. Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by three sons and one daughter:—David and Andrew of town; Neil of Allenson, and Mrs. Russell Nash of town. A daughter, Mrs. Russell Frown, died here about six months ago.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon to Lakeview Chapel for interment at Markdale Cemetery. Service was conducted at the house at two o'clock.

Cooper - Calahan

The home of the bride's parents, Holland township, was the scene of an interesting wedding on March 12, at 6 p.m., when their youngest daughter, Eliza, was united in marriage to Clifford Earl Cooper of Toronto. The bride, who looked lovely in her dress of daffodil georgette over flat crepe with white kid shoes and hose, carrying a shower bouquet of white carnations and sweet heart roses, took her place beside the groom under an arch of evergreens decorated with tinsel, white streamers and weddings bell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. J. McCarten, minister of the United Church, Holland Centre, where the bride was organist. Miss Evelyn Harper, niece of the bride, played the wedding march. The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of green gold with olivine setting and to the organist a signet ring. After congratulations the guests repaired to the dining room where a bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all. Among the many beautiful gifts received was a mahogany mantle clock from the employees of the power house of the Canadian Kodak Co. of which the groom is a valued member.

The bride's travelling ensemble was a navy blue velvet dress with navy tricotine coat trimmed with grey squirrel and hat, gloves and purse to match. The happy couple left on the Thursday morning train and will reside in Toronto.

Shower for Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cooper

Before the departure of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cooper, for their new home in Toronto, about a hundred friends of Holland Centre and community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Harper to express the high esteem in which the happy couple are held by their many friends in this locality. After a short program of vocal and instrumental music and addresses, the bride and groom were called to take their places beside the table which hid from view a generous shower of beautiful and useful gifts until after the reading of an address by Mrs. McCarten, when Misses Marie Troughton and Dorothy Smith unwrapped the gifts and read the messages of good wishes. The groom responded in a very grateful manner to which the bride also added her appreciation. All joined in singing "For They are jolly good fellows," after which a dainty lunch was served, including a piece of wedding cake. The following is the address:

To the Bride and Groom Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cooper,—

Since "everybody loves a lover," it goes without saying that we all love you both and so we have gathered here this evening to share a little bit of your joy and perhaps add a little to your happiness by saying in many different ways that we wish you not only a happy life but a successful life, measured by the highest standard of success. We have had a premonition, Eliza, that some day we would lose you from our midst, but as we failed to take the necessary precautions to prevent this, we must abide by the consequences. During the years you have been with us, Mrs. Cooper, you have always been a very cheerful and active helper when called upon in the welfare of Holland Centre community. You have been faithful in the discharge of your duties as organist of the church and vice-president of the Young People's Society. We shall remember your cheerful smiles but we shall miss you from our gatherings. It leaves us more willing however, to see you go since the one whose life and home you shall share is still remembered in Holland Centre as one well worthy of the happiness you shall be able to add to his life. While we know you love each other as a happy bride and groom, looking with anticipation through the long vista of life, our prayer is that the experiences of the coming years may ripen that affection to a rich maturity surpassing the happiest hours that you have yet known and that the reflection of that love may be shed upon all with whom you may associate in life's activities. We do not mean to throw "cold water" on your bright prospects but we are bringing a gentle "shower" to-night that we hope may help to bring to maturity those cherished dreams of a happy place called "our home."

Signed on behalf of your many Holland Centre friends:

Dorothy Smith,
Marie Troughton.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Smith Showered

Tuesday evening was the time of merriment when the many friends of Mr. Alonzo Smith assembled to present him and his bride with two handsome leather rockers as well as numerous gifts, and convey to Mrs. Smith a hearty welcome. The following address was read by Miss Barbara Curry, while Messrs. T. Menarey, G. Perry and A. McGirr presented the gifts.

Rocklyn, March 5, 1929

To Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Smith,—

It has been our desire to gather here this evening with a twofold purpose: Firstly we wish to do honour to you in the recent event of your marriage by offering our very heartiest congratulations, and trust that this little twin trip through life may extend into years and years of happiness; may each year be endowed with health, prosperity and all that goes to make life worth while.

Secondly we have come to convey to you, Mrs Smith, the cordial welcome of our community and take this opportunity of extending to you the right hand of friendship, trusting that you will not feel "that you have gone over the hills and far away" but may feel perfectly at home with us and enjoy the many good times among this host of new friends.

And now Alonzo, we feel right glad that when your decision was made not to remain "the dusty old miller in the mill by himself," that you chose to continue making your home in Rocklyn.

Here you have been long known for your amiable qualities of character, kindness and readiness to help in carrying on the social life of the community. Your name has gone far in all lines of sports, to which you so willingly gave of your services and in the great game of baseball you have won fame as an expert "pitcher" but this time you have been entitled to "catcher" and have brought the splendid catch right home.

Realizing that all folk grow weary during the day's toil we ask your acceptance of these chairs with the feeling of good-will which prompted the giving, and—

May you often sit and rock
When each day comes to end,
And always think as you rock, rock, rock,
That these were from Rocklyn friends.

Signed on behalf of the General Sports and Community in general.

Mr. Smith, in a neat reply, thanked the donors for their gifts and assured all a hearty welcon to their home. The evening was spent in dancing.

Presentation

On Friday evening, March 8th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bennett, 8th line, Euphrasia, the neighbors gathered to make a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Clark, who are moving from the district. The evening was spent in games and dancing and lunch was served at the close. During the evening Miss Jean Walker read the address which follows and Mr. Gordon Bennett made the presentation.

Markdale, Ont., March 8, 1929

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Clark,—

We, your frends and neighbors, have gathered here this evening to spend a few short hours with you, before your departure from our neighbourhood.

Although you have only been in our community a short time, you have made many friends, and your departure will tend to leave a gap in your circle of friends here.

We are sorry that your new home is so far distant, you will not be able to attend our social gatherings, but we hope you will always remember us in your new home, and among newer acquaintances.

In conclusion we ask you to accept this slight token of our appreciation. Our very best wishes we extend to you.

Signed on behalf of the friends and neighbours.

Gordon Bennett,
Tom Woods.

"Moon of Israel"

To be Shown at The Princess Theatre Good Friday, March 29th

Also Saturday and Monday Evenings Following

SYNOPSIS

Israel was groaning beneath the age long yoke of the Pharaohs. This severity was not countenanced by Seti, son of Menoptah, Pharaoh of the Egyptians.

Menoptah insisted upon Seti's marriage with his half-sister, Userti.

One evening, accompanied by Ana, his friend, Seti witnessed the murder of an old man, a noble of Israel and he caused the murderer to be punished. Then it was that he met Merapi, Moon of Israel, daughter of the murdered nobleman. Merapi was sent to her own people in Goshen, where she was affianced to one Laban.

Seti journeyed to Goshen and listened to the complaints and grumblings of the people. One day in the desert he met Merapi, who had fallen and hurt her leg. He carried her back to her uncle Jabez and incurred the wrath of jealous Laban.

Accidently Seti defiled the tabernacle and was saved by the priest and Jabez from the anger of the people led by Laban.

On the way back, as his chariot reached a pass in the hills, Merapi came and warned him that Laban and other men were waiting to murder him. There was a fierce fight. Merapi saved Seti's life, and soldiers arrived in time to rout the Israelites. To save Merapi from the wrath of her people Seti took her to his palace.

Userti was jealous of Merapi and plotted with the priests of Amon-Ra to have her proclaimed sorceress. Challenged with the power of her God, she destroyed the image of Amon-Ra in his temple.

Doings such as this spread fast through Egypt, and Pharaoh was wroth and made the half brother of Seti heir to the Double Throne. That night Pharaoh died and Amenmeses became Pharaoh of the Egyptians.

Then Moses appeared in the land of Goshen, and he demanded that the Israelities be freed. Pharaoh hardened his heart, and Moses called down plagues from heaven, and the Egyptians were sore oppressed. Then Pharaoh let the children of Israel depart, but repented and with his horsemen and chariots went in pursuit. Urged by Merapi, Seti followed Pharaoh to warn him, but could not stay him. By the borders of the Red Sea, with the Egyptians in swift pursuit, Moses called upon his God and the waters rolled back. The Israelites passed in safely, then the waters returned and engulfed Pharaoh and his hosts.

Seti, who was now Pharaoh, slept dreaming of Merapi. Slaves who had fled spread the news of the disaster that had come upon Egypt, and the mobs in their anger seized Merapi the Jewess, to offer her in sacrifice to Baal. But the Lord sent a vision to Seti, and he rode through the night, so that he snatched Merapi from the flames, even as a rain put out the fire that licked towards her. So it was that Merapi, Moon of Israel became the wife of Seti, Pharaoh of All The Egypts.

Of course you don't, and nobody does because there is no geography in the investment of money. Like water, money always flows to its easiest level.

When the Bell Telephone Company needs new capital to extend its service it must compete with American utility companies which offer their new shares to shareholders.

If the Canadian company is restricted in this, Canadian investors cannot be expected to refuse greater attraction abroad and Canadian money will not stay in Canada.
