Carlsbad Cavern Bats

The bats which live and hibernate in one end of Carlsbad Caverns, estimated at 3,000,000, have not been giving their usual spectacular flights recently, according to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Two reasons are advanced for this. One is that the extremely this especial purpose of the Royal dry weather of the past season has caused a scarcity of night-flying insects, the other is that they have been disturbed by work going on in a nearby guano mine. Occasionally, however, they stream forth in great numbers, their flight from the cave opening lasting for several hours. An interesting feature of the bat exodus This year the order will be is that although they always fly south when they emerge from the cavern they invariably return next morning from the morth.

. A group of men at a club were discussing something very earnestly, and the man from Aberdeen approached and asked the subject of the discussion. Will you join our Anti-Tipping Society?", asked one of the group. "We consider tipping is a degrading custom and have formed a society to put a stop to it." "Aye, I'll join," said the man from Aberdeen, gladly. "That's fine. The subscription is only a shilling a year." "Och-in that case I'll be thinking it'll be cheaper for me to t!p."

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten-are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for indigestion, nauses, heartburn, gas, sour stomach and headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years.

Insist on genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; a less perfect product may not act the same. The genuine is always a liquid—never in tablet form—and the name Phillips' is always on bottle and wrapper.

Up-State Farm Provides

$400 a Year in Family Food Albany, N.Y .- The typical New York State farm saves its owner about $265 a year on the family food bill, figured at farm prices, or nearly $400 a year at retail prices, Stanley W. Warren of the State College of Agriculture finds in the accounts of 514 farms.

Figuring the $62 worth of milk as double that cost at retail, he suggested that the farmers should use more than the average of seven-tenths of a quart per person daily. Only about a fourth of the families made their own butter, and each of these used about three pounds a week.

Poultry furnished $80 worth of food a year, each family using six oggs daily and three pounds of chicken weekly. Twothirds of the families kad home-grown pork, using about a pound a day, or $39 worth in a year. Besides garden vegetables honey, the typical family used thirtyseven bushels of potatoes and fourteen of apples and burned twenty-one cords of wood. But only seven of the 514 farmers took wheat to the mill and brought home flour as their grand-
