In Memoriam

CORNFIELD—In loving memory of our dear son who passed away Dec. 29th, 1929.

We mourn for one we dearly loved For one we could not save. Beloved in life and mourned in death. Remembered in the grave. His loving voice we'll never forget Though years may pass away. The loss of him we sadly feel. As keen as that first day. When all is still and silent And sleep forsakes our eyes. Our thoughts are in that silent grave Where our dear Eddie lies. What happy hours we once enjoyed, How sweet their memories still. But they have left an aching void, The world can never fill. Sadly missed by the family.

APPRECIATION

The present publishers of The Standard have just completed ten years in charge of the business and we feel it our duty to thank all those who have contributed to the success of our venture during these ten years. When we took charge we had faith in The Standard and the community which it serves. We have not been disappointed in our expectations, although we have not been able to sleep on a bed of roses at all times. We have had our joys and our disappointments; our encouragements and discouragements; but taking all things into consideration we have real reason to return thanks for the patronage extended to us. Especially do we wish to thank each and all of our splendid staff of correspondents for their great help in making The Standard interesting for the readers. We take pride in the fact that we are able to carry news items from more of the centres in our territory than is carried by any other newspaper in a territory such as we serve.

Financially we have made some progress and this is the chief reason for the existence of any business. We have our weaknesses as every person has, but our chief aim has been, and will continue to be, to advance the interests of the community we serve. There are opportunities for the bettering of conditions and nothing pleases us more than to know that our neighbors—which includes all those in our territory—are prosperous and happy. May we again extend to one and all our sincere wishes that the near future will bring happiness, prosperity and contentment to one and all.
