Mrs. John Lee

After an illness of several months Mrs. John Lee passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sanford Ward, on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 20th. In May of last year Mr. Lee passed away and being in failing health the deceased went shortly after from her home in the village to reside with her daughter. Since that time she has suffered much and death was a happy release. Cancer of the stomach was the cause of death.

Her maiden name was Jane Mathers, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mathers, and 74 years ago she was born in Euphrasia. After her marriage to Mr. Lee they farmed on con. 9, Euphrasia, until retiring to the village about 13 years ago. She was a good neighbor, a kind-hearted friend. For many years she was an active and devoted member of Ebenezer Church and after coming to Markdale of Annesley United Church.

She is survived by seven sons and three daughters, namely: George at Regina, Sask.; Robert and William at Wadena, Sask.; Howard at Verdun, Man.; Elment at Louisville, Sask.; David in Markdale; Dunn in Euphrasia; Mrs. W. W. Dillon, who came home to assist in nursing her mother, at Sealac, Sask.; Mrs. Sanford Ward at Harkaway, and Mrs. Clifford Hutchinson in Euphrasia. Two brothers and three sisters also survive: Dr. Seth Mathers in New Ontario; David T. Mathers at Penticton, B.C.; Mrs. Chas. Thompson at Withee, Wis.; Mrs. Wesley Shore at Edmonton, Alberta and Mrs. Alfred McCauley in Owen Sound.

The funeral took place on Saturday to Markdale Cemetery. After a short service at the house a public service was held in Annesley United Church. Rev. H. S. Warren conducted the services and preached a comforting sermon based on the text "God is my Salvation; I will trust and not be afraid." The pallbearers were Messrs. W. T. Wiley, C. E. Armstrong, Thos. Freeman, M. Armstrong, L. Rapp and Wm. Summers.

Many beautiful floral tributes were placed on the casket by sympathizing friends and relatives.

Consolation

Not dead—oh no! but borne beyond the shadows
Into the full, clear light;
Forever done with mist and cloud and tempest,
Where all is calm and bright.

Not even sleeping—called to glad awakening
In heaven's endless day;
Not still and moveless—stepped from earth's rough places
To walk the King's highway.

Not silent—just passed out of earthly hearing
To sing heaven's sweet, new song;
Not lonely—dearly loved and dearly loving
Amid the white-robed throng.

But not forgetful—keeping fond remembrance
Of dear ones left awhile;
And looking gladly to the bright reunion
With hand-clasp and with smile.

Oh, no, not dead!—but past all fear of dying,
And, with all suffering o'er,
Say not that I am dead when Jesus calls me
To live forevermore.

Attendance Still Increases at Walters Falls

With three weeks of the Winter Short Course in Agriculture and Home Economics over, the roll in both classes continues to increase. This increase has been more noticeable in the Domestic Science Class.

In the First Aid and Home Nursing Classes conducted by Miss Morin of Toronto there are 66 girls enrolled and each day brought out many visitors as well. These classes continue until Friday, Jan. 29th, as well as the Domestic Science classes in charge of Mrs. J. H. Shearer, Peelo, Ontario.

Although the number of visitors attending the course in agriculture during the past week has somewhat fallen down, several new names have been added to the regular list, and the high average regular attendance has been still maintained and with interest.

The only special lecture of the week will be given on Wednesday, Jan. 27th, on Fruits and Vegetables, by Mr. Geo. Rush, Toronto. The afternoon session on Wednesday will be held jointly with the ladies' class.

History of Grey County is Published

The incentive and inspiration behind the extensive effort, which has culminated in the publication, in large, clear and attractive book form of "A History of Grey County" is the preserving and hallowing of the memories of those intrepid pioneers who came from their well established homes in the old world or in the lower part of the province to hew and carve out of the forest, homes for themselves and their families, at the same time laying broad and deep the foundation of honesty and integrity and diligence, upon which the county still rests.

Grey County's history, which will be placed on immediate sale in the book stands throughout the county, has been written by Miss E. L. Marsh of "Peasemarth," Clarksburg, one of Grey's pioneer homes, and who is well known as an historical authority as well as the author of a series of books, published by Nelson and Co., Edinburgh, and which are in authorized use in Ontario classrooms and other books and nature articles. In Grey County's history, Miss Marsh has written a very real and moving tale of the development of the county, picturing in its days of untrodden beauty, through the hazardous period of pioneering by the white man until to-day, when Grey County is noted for its agricultural eminence and its many progressive industries.

The history is published on the authority of the Grey County Council and Miss Marsh's extensive work was in co-operation with an official committee, comprised of Mr. William Brees, sheriff, who replaced the late county sheriff, Mr. J. S. Wilson, on the original committee, Mr. John Parker, county treasurer, and the several wardens of the county. It is quite safe to say that few other counties have to their credit a similar achievement of such magnitude and completeness, that of recording in simple yet effective style the development of their county from the first advent of the white man, dealing also with his early contact with the Indians, who in many ways gave aid to the newcomer, and replete with tales of those early days, the tasks and the home life in the first little log cabins, the enterprise in forest and field, the beginning of educational facilities, the first religious services, the first flour and woolen mills, the first harnessing of the abundant water power, which the county affords, the establishing of the first mail lines and all the other innumerable details of life and progress, which, in their present perfected condition, constitute the very warp and woof of modern life and civilization.

While so complete and comprehensive in every way, the history is not in any sense a directory of the county. In its preparation the committee and author kept in mind the fact that history is a story of events and not a record of names. Prominence, however, is given wherever possible to the pioneers and to all matters of an historic nature.

The book is well printed and bound in attractive cover. The work was done by the Fleming Publishing Co. of Owen Sound. While there are a few errors in names, etc., yet for a work of such magnitude it is a credit to the committee, the author and the publishers.

Part one of the history is given to "The Forest Days of the County" and five chapters are devoted to the Indians, their legends and customs.

The second section of the history deals separately with the early histories of the townships, villages and towns. Each township history is a complete unit in itself, dealing with the first settlers and their brave struggles to establish homes, to protect their families from the wild animals and to clear and till land to plant the seed of the first crops. From these glowing pages, which have captured the brave spirit, the faith and determination of those early toilers, is realized, for perhaps the first time in such full measure, the struggle which brought about the prosperous agricultural and industrial life of Grey County to-day.

The history of Collingwood township tells how, when more land was needed as grants for United Empire Loyalists or military men or for settlers, who were going further into the forests of Upper Canada, the attention of the government was directed to this county of blue hills and river valleys. St. Vincent became the white man's home as early as 1825 and, with the exception of the famous potato crop of Mr. Rankin in Collingwood township, St. Vincent claims the first land that was broken for crop in the county. The chapter on Euphrasia and its villages opens with the interesting

Allan Bell Warden

At the opening session of Grey County Council on Tuesday evening Mr. Allan Bell, Reeve of Durham, was chosen as Warden for 1932. Mr. Dougald McDonald, Reeve of Bentinck, was the runner-up, the vote being 21 to 15. Mr. Bell has been a member of the County Council for several years and is well qualified to fill the position. It is seventeen years since Mr. Wm. Calder of Durham was Warden and the only Warden from Bentinck township was over forty-five years ago.

Information that Euphrasia was the name of an English officer's wife and it is said that it was after her that the name was given to the township. Another picturesque name in the township is that given by both pioneer and Indian to that magnificent valley of the Cuckoo. Doubtless this name was given, says the historian, because the sheltered, wooded valley had attracted so many of our beautiful cuckoos that in the nesting season the call, "Cuckoo! Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" would sound throughout the valley. The history of Artemesia contains several of the most romantic incidents of the entire volume, namely the story of the discovery of Eugenia Falls and the "gold rush," which brought adventurers from all quarters to camp at the foot of the great falls, quarrying the yellow metallic substance they mistook for gold and which was later pronounced to be worthless pyrites.

The outline of the early days of Osprey, which was surveyed by Charles Rankin in 1849-50, and which had among its first settlers a notable one in the person of Sir James D. Hay, Bart., describes the primitive methods employed by the settlers, who were guided there by the blazes on the trees through the dense forest. One of the pioneers contributing to the history of Osprey says: "Our method of making a living then was by chopping down the forest, piling and burning the trees. When we had five acres cleared we considered ourselves extensive farmers. The question of those days was not 'How many hundred acres have you clear?' but 'How many acres have you?' One man when asked this question replied, 'If I had the big elm cut down and the brush fence burned, I would have an acre.' The only way of baking in those days, the same writer says, was to put the flour in a bake kettle and cover it with coals. When the outside was baked hard, the centre could have been used for putty.

In succession follow the histories of Derby, Holland, Sullivan, Preston, Egremont, Normanby, Bentinck, Glenelg, Koppel, Sarawak, the towns and villages, etc., each one having its claim to immortality by the way in which the early settlers triumphed over difficulties and converted the land into prosperous and progressive communities.

Markdale, first East Glenelg, then Cornabus, is included in the chapter referring to Glenelg.

The third part of the volume sketches in a more general way the development of the county, commencing with the early sessions of the County Council. From these small beginnings came the erection of the present fine county buildings and the present capable administrative body. The old road lines and the coming of the railways is another subject of great interest, when comparisons are made with the present splendid avenues of transportation and travel.
