The Grand Canyon

Beams of fair white paper have been covered with adjective-be-sprinkled accounts of its size, grandeur, and majesty; its myriad formations, its geological wonders, and its unbelievable depth of color. But one thing above all others strikes me every time I see it—and that is its silence.

The ocean—particularly when the breakers crash in white foam on a rocky headland—its magnificent, awe-inspiring, even terrible. The High Sierras, or the Rockies, with their vistas of craggy peaks and timbered slopes, are grand. The great geysers of the Yellowstone, the gaudy coloring of their deposits, are weird, fantastic, and unbelievable. But with all of them there is an appeal to the ear as well as to the eye. Their grandeur is not only visible, but audible. The ocean surges and crashes the pines sway in the winds that whistle through their branches, the geysers roar with a blast that can be heard for miles. Even in the depths of such great caverns as Mammoth Cave or Carlsbad one can hear, afar off, the faint splash of dripping water or the clatter of flying chips as a stalactite, centuries in the making, falls to the rocky floor.

But over the Grand Canyon broods a hush that is beyond human conception. The wind may sigh softly, or even shriek through the limbs of the gnarled pines and cedars on the rim, but no echo comes from the mighty gulf. The great crimson buttes and the scarlet capes that thrust out from the Redrock Wall seem to quiver in the midday heat; their colors soften and they draw back, ponderously, yet gracefully, in the evening shadows, or the clouds of a wintry morning. But it is all done soundlessly.—Hoffman Birner, in "Roads to Roam."

Bump!

Acting in a drama in a small provincial theatre, the hero had to spring from some rocks into a river at the back of the stage.

During one performance, the matron into which he had to fall was missing, and he crashed on to the boards.

He was equal to the occasion, however, and, jumping up, exclaimed: "Aha! So the river has frozen."

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation
When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made especially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

CASTORIA
CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

Keeping Guard in Scarlet

It is a bright sunny morning. At the Castle gateway the Guard is changing; the word of command echoes under the arch; a rattle of bushes greets the eye as the men march, marching all round about the Castle, dropping sentries and picking up sentries. You enter into the relief from ennui of the picked-up man, swinging into step with the others, also into the mood of silence, which envelops the man dropped, as his comrades' marching footsteps die away. Surely, if he happens to be of a patient, receptive disposition, it must be pleasant being on sentry duty up at the Castle. For instance, out there on the North Terrace "bosomed high in tufted trees" he can actually look down into the rock's recess!

However silly he must hold himself he can watch the winding river, the boats like water-beetles upon it, and the lively town down below him; the cars and carriages, the hawks, children, and dogs coming down the hill under the Cartier tower. He can see into the crooked streets which run out to the river where the poor swam, and the Italian organ-grinders and icecream men. Live. He can see, too, right out into the shire with its heavy elm trees; and there to the right a little way across the meadows, he sees Eton College, its dark brick towers and battlements. If he had very good eyesight he might even see, a speck, as, yawning and shutting up my book, I come to the window and lean out to enjoy the panorama which also contains him keeping guard in scarlet among grey battlements. —From "A Nineteenth Century Childhood," by Mary McCarthy.

Interlude

There is an hour, just after noon,
As lax and languid as the moon.
The wind is still; the naked street Sprawls out to bask in yellow heat.
House after house with blank blinds drawn.

Is like a sleeper's face at dawn,
And folk are vanished to their rooms
As though brushed in by phantom brooms.

Cold little ghosts, then, one by one,
Creep out to steep themselves in sun.
I step forth softly, all alone,
Into the hushed and golden zone,
And feel the wistfulness that thin
And reminiscent fingers spin.

As stones and walls reach out to yield Old secrets that the years have sealed.
And soon, as truth draws unto truth, Faint wisps and wraiths of my lost youth.

Steal round me, pleading for release
Into this world of shining peace, Scarce knowing whether they or I Have been denied, I turn and sigh;
Then go inside and close the door
Upon the days that are no more.
—Lori Petrie.

The Tree

Unquiet of heart, I sat beside a tree
And slowly lost my own identity, And slowly put her dual nature on—
Of leaves in light and roots below the stone.
Words cannot tell the strange felicity Of pain laborious, digging down and down Till lost in cool assurance that a crown
Of beauty from the darker part of me Sprang, though it could not see.
—Geoffrey Johnson, in the Fortnightly.

There are a series of points giving slenderness to the skirt.
It's a youthful style, you'll always feel so happy to wear.
There are many other materials that will be charming for this dress, as crepe marocain that is well known to be a becoming silk for the heavier figure for it falls so well and is not too shiny. Transparent velvet and sheer woolsens are also good, as they haven't too much sheen which exaggerates bulk.

Style No. 3452 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust.
Size 36 requires 4 yards 39-inch with ½ yard 39-inch contrasting.

Owl Laffs

Customer—"Three of those apples you sent me were rotten. I am bringing them back."
Storekeeper—"That's all right, madam. You needn't bring them back.
Your word is just as good as the apples."

Resinol—"What makes you think you are qualified for a post in the diplomatic corps?" Cuticura—"Well I've been married for two years and my wife still thinks I have a sick friend I sit up with."

Buyer—"Let's play the game called "Building an Loan."
Seller—"How do you play it?" Buyer—"Get out of this building and leave me alone."

So That's It!
He—"I never saw anything like this side! Here I've been polling steadily for ten minutes, and we don't seem to have moved a foot!" She—"Oh Jack, I've just thought of something. The anchor fell overboard a little while ago, and I forgot to tell you. Do you suppose it could have caught on something?"

The hole in the apple means you have or have not had proteins with your fruit juices. It has been demonstrated too, that when a woman can have her own way she doesn't want it.
Most arguments would stop before they begin if each would base his opinion on fact and not prejudice.
Don't spread unauthenticated rumors, if only to be kind to your Adam's apple. Perhaps "two can live as cheaply as one" means that father and mother can live as cheaply as daughter. By the time we've solved today's problems we'll have a new set. Getting the critter prosperity back into the corral is every man's job.

A proud young father wired the news of his happiness to his brother in these words:
"A handsome boy has come to my house and claims to be your nephew.
We are doing our best to give him a proper welcome."
The brother however, failed to see the point and wired back:
"I have no nephew. The young man is an impostor."

Hubby—"Oh, pshaw! I left my watch upstairs."
Wife—"Never mind, it'll run down." Hubby—"No, it won't—there's a winding staircase."

Beauty Doctor—"Of course, madam, I remember lifting your face. And what can I do for you now?" Client—"I wonder if you could do something to lift my husband's. It fell terribly when he received your bill."

Landlady—"Isn't this a real good chicken?"
Boarder—"It may have been morally, but physically it's a wreck."

Crow—"Are you afraid of dogs?"
Howl—"Yes, every time I eat them I get indigestion."

Then It Happened
He found she'd used his razor
To open cans of snuff,
And so for a shoe brush
He used her powder puff.

Father—"Are there half fares for children?"
Conductor—"Yes, under fourteen." Father—"That's all right. I've only five."

Mr. Keck—"Do you believe that there is a higher power?" Mr. Peck—"My good man, I married her."

Floorwalker—"I notice that your last customer did not buy anything, but he seemed very pleased. What did he want to see?"
Salesgirl—"Me at eight o'clock."

Teacher—"If you subtract 16,000 from 700,000, what's the difference?" Johnny—"Yeah, I think it's a lot of foolishness too."

Simpkins—"Does your mother let you read this modern stuff?" Daughter—"Not if she gets her hands on it first."

Juggling Figures
Berlin—Dr. Finkelstein, a young Pole, who arrived in Germany recently, entertained and puzzled the Berliners no little at the Winter-garden vaudeville by adding up a column of figures more rapidly than anyone could read them, by learning billions and trillions by heart, in the flash of a second, and by doing many other things bewildering to the most learned mathematicians.
Dr. Finkelstein, writes a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, for instance, draws a chess-board of twenty-five squares and asks that someone may fill in the figures. He looks at it for less than a minute—his record time is fifteen seconds—and then repeats the twenty-five figures forward, backward and in spiral fashion. It is quite simple, he assures one.

A Home Product
The Globe (Toronto)—Tomato juice is a cool and refreshing appetizer, with wholly good effects. It contains the precious vitamins, as well as mineral salts, needed for a balanced diet, supplementing the carbohydrates of the "starchy" foods and the proteins of the meats. Moreover, tomatoes are a peculiarly Canadian product, cheap and plentiful. The popularity of orange juice, attractive as it is, but aided by the enterprise of the California orange growers, may be interrupted when tomato juice comes into its own.

Some people are inclined to mind their own business but lack the ability to do so.

Monday on the Common

(From The Countryman.)

Perilous trousers hung from pegs, Wave agile unrestricted legs, Whose flowing curves, repete and free,

Betoken a humanity
That rolls from bliss to super bliss
In some far rounder world than this.
An apron not to be effaced Flaunts stout if unsubstantial waist.

The sheet forswears the sober bed Whereon we might sleep like mad,
And in a strenuous delight Would have us bounce and bounce at night;

While pillowcases almost burst,
To beg us gambol with them first.

Abandoned dusters wildly ask When next at our appointed task,
We should not gravely dust the room, But dance and sing and wave the broom,
And whirl about our decent heads
Their flapping blues and flying reds.

In swift accord the ballet flows,
For liberated matter knows
The spirit of a singing bird.
The dishcloth's unaccustomed wings Beat to the tune the bedspread sings
In notes of red and green and white.

The clothesprops quiver with delight
That this is Monday morning, this Delicious, distended bliss.

Now let the mangle to its work:
Let bodies be austere and curt;
Let linen presses hold their sway—Here's to another washing day!

—Joyce M. Westrup.

DENMARK'S TOMATO CROP
Copenhagen.—One of the market gardeners from the island of Amager, which is known as the "kitchen garden of Copenhagen," has had a record year in the growing of tomatoes. He has sent 1,000,000 pounds to the market this season. In twenty years, Denmark's tomato production has increased from 44,000 pounds a year to 70,000 pounds a day, and this does not include those exported from Fyen to England. The growth has been so abundant that they have been sold at 35 ore—19 cents —a pound. One of the largest market gardeners has more than five acres of glass houses.

Kruschen as a Precaution

Many a man has misgivings about gout merely because his father suffered from it. Such men can take heart from the experiences of others. One son of a gouty father admits that he is not a total abstainer, yet he has already reached the age of 51 without a sign of gout. He thanks a regular daily dose of Kruschen for his freedom:

"My father suffered years with gout, and to keep myself free from the terrible complaint I now always take Kruschen Salts every morning and never miss. In fact, it is a part of my breakfast. I am now 51 years of age, and I have never had a touch of rheumatism, or signs of same. I am not a teetotaler, taking a glass of ale and a drop of whisky. —C. B. —" Here is a rather different case. This man was subject to constipation, and he saw signs that gout was in his system. But he used Kruschen with equal success—

"For several years I suffered from constipation, with constantly recurring attacks of biliousness attended by diarrhoea and sickness. I was also liable to attacks of gouty rheumatism, this being a peculiar affliction from which practically every one of my

Two years ago I commenced taking Kruschen—not in great quantities, but the dose prescribed, each day. I have now had a perfect freedom from constipation for more than twelve months. Although there is a predilection towards gout, I have been able to ward it off so far. Judging by my finger-joints, I should have been having very severe attacks, but there is no sign of any so far as my personal health is concerned."—W. A. H.

Gout is typical of dozens of ailments which science has proved are caused by impure blood. And impurities in the blood-stream are caused by insuffi-

WHEN
FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times
its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk

venting constipation, is the one sure remedy for its consequences.
Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating
many people suffer from sour
stomachs. They call it indigestion. It
means that the stomach nerves have
been over-stimulated. There is excess
acid. The way to correct it is with an
alkali, which neutralizes many times
its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method.
You will never use another when you know it.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for correcting excess acids.
50c a bottle—any drug store.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth. (Made in Canada.)
