How to play Bridge
AUCTION
and CONTRACT
by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 9
The normal hand at Auction and Contract is one that contains a suit of not more than five cards in length. Such hands are called normal hands because they are the usual hands, the ones that occur four times as often as the other types. Hands that contain suits of more than five cards are called abnormal hands, the ones that occur only one-fifth of the time. Hands that contain a suit of six cards are not particularly unusual but those that contain a suit of seven or more cards are the real freaks. Such hands occur very seldom but their proper bidding is both interesting and difficult. The following problem hands are "freaks" but interesting, because all contain most unusual features.

Hand No. 1
Hearts—K, Q, J, 7, 6
Clubs—None
Diamonds—A, J, 10, 9, 7, 6, 2
Spades—None

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one club. What should A bid with the foregoing hand?

AUCTION BIDDING:
A should bid one diamond. If overbid, he should continue bidding diamonds and not show the heart suit at all. There is no advantage in a shut-out bid of five diamonds. Z has a spade bid, he is more apt to bid five spades over a five-diamond bid than A bids one diamond and then bids the hand gradually. It is not advisable to show the heart suit because A's partner is more apt to assist hearts than diamonds and A's heart suit is not strong enough to trump clubs. If A's partner bids, A should bid a little slam in hearts or diamonds accordingly.

CONTRACT BIDDING:
A should bid two diamonds, a forcing bid over the dealer's club bid. His partner is thus forced to bid and, unless he bids hearts, A's next bid should be five diamonds. If the partner bids hearts or assists diamonds, A should bid a little slam in hearts or diamonds accordingly.

Hand No. 2
Hearts—A, Q, J, 9, 7, 4
Clubs—A, Q, J, 10, 7, 6, 2
Diamonds—None
Spades—None

No score, rubber game. What should Z, as dealer, bid with the foregoing hand?

AUCTION BIDDING:
Z should bid one heart and, if overbid, should show the club suit. This hand is different from the preceding one in that the heart suit is longer and stronger and the club suit is not so strong as the minor suit in hand No. 2. It is a hand, therefore, in which both suits should be shown if possible.

Weeds Prove Detrimental in Wheat Cultivation

Weeds on the land the year before a crop of wheat is grown appear to be more detrimental to protein than weeds actually growing along with the crops, according to studies on factors influencing the protein content of wheat made during the past nine years by J. C. Russell, county agent in Golden Valley County, North Dakota, says.

COMFORT for COLICKY BABIES

... THROUGH CASTORIA'S GENTLE REGULATION

The best way to prevent colic, doctors say, is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste. But remember this: a tiny baby's tender little organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged. This is just the time Castoria can help most. Castoria, you know, is made especially for babies and children. It is a pure vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. For years it has helped mothers through trying times with colicky babies and children suffering with digestive upsets, colic and fever. Keep genuine Castoria on hand, with the name:

Living Together

Learning the art of living together is the problem of the century in which we live. Class must live with class, race with race, and nation with nation. The developments of the century which has passed have brought people closer together. Lines of transportation and communication have been weaving a web about the world, so that people are closer together than ever before. No one must learn to live together.

CHEERFULNESS

It greatly conduces to the enjoyment of life to make it a rule and a habit to keep pleasant and cheerful matters on the surface—for ourselves and others—and to bury and forget, as far as possible, the troubles and fears.

Business
Business is business, but men are men.
Working and loving and dreaming;
Telling with hammer, or brush, or pen,
Hoisting, planning and scheming.

Business is business, but he's a fool
Whose business has grown to smother
His faith in men and the golden rule,
His love for a friend and brother.

Business is business, but life is life,
Though we're all in the game to win it.
Lies rest sometimes from the heat and strife
And try to be friends a minute.

Let's seek to be comrades now and then
And slip from our golden tether;
Business is business but men are men,
And we're all good pals together.

Co-operation

The fastest horse in the world never wins a race without a jockey to guide him. The world's ring champion wins his belt by respecting the rules of his trainer. Every successful football team submits to the greater knowledge and experience of its coach. An candidate for president considers it wise to have a campaign manager. An army in action at the front must have a commander-in-chief. Yet quite frequently we see a worker who dislikes to co-operate with his boss.

Professor—"I am about to perform a very interesting chemical experiment. Should I do anything wrong, the whole class, including myself, might be blown through the roof. Kindly step nearer, so that you can follow me better."

An angler asked a fellow sportsman if he could tell him of a really good fishing ground.

"Yes," he replied, pointing to a path marked "Private." "Go along there until you come to a field marked 'No Road.' Cross it, and on the other side you will find a fence where there is a board which says 'Trespassers Will Be Prosecuted.' In the middle of that you will find a pond marked 'No Fishing Allowed.' That's the spot."

On Thames Shore

(Lines for the opening of the New Theatre of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.)
By John Masfield.

All things longed for in youth,
Beautiful things of truth,
Are found before we die,
If we but try.

This building that we see
So fair, once seemed to be Beyond all hoping for
Here, on Thames shore.

How many millions tried,
How many millions died,
To bring this change of heart
To England's art?

O happy you who are young,
Speaking the English tongue,
Whose art shall light and aid
England remade.

Engage our holy land
Made beautiful, made grand,
O young souls, what joy
For you and boy.

May this new home of yours
Give England what endures,
Beauty, wisdom and truth,
Forever yours.

O strikers here beginning,
What glory for your winning
The England none now knows,
Who wore the rose.

Leper Treatment in Australia

Isolation hospitals for the treatment of Australian lepers have been established in New South Wales (Little Bay), Queensland (Peel Island, near Brisbane), Western Australia (near Cockatoo) and the Northern Territory (near Darwin). At the end of 1929 there were 20 cases in residence at Little Bay, 64 at Peel Island, 10 at Western Australia and 23 in Northern Territory. During the year 1929 a total of 16 cases of leprosy was reported in Australia, of which 6 were recorded in Queensland, 1 in New South Wales, 4 in Western Australia and 5 in Northern Australia.

Robot Plays Role of Court Stenographer

Manchester, Eng.—A court stenographer is the newest addition to the growing robot army.

The machine consists of a steel tape on which every inflection of the voices of the judge, attorneys, clerk, witnesses and defendant is recorded electromagnetically, to be reproduced later as often as required.

The robot stenographer is undergoing tests in a court room here specially wired for the purpose, with microphones at the bench, the witness chair, the counsel's tables and the jury box.

"My parents left me a very good legacy. One was good constitution, the other was the necessity to work."—Sir Alfred Yarrow.

New Facts on Goethe's Ancestry

Sangerhausen, Germany.—The coming of the "Goethe year" of 1929, which brings on March 22 the 100th anniversary of the German poet's death, has given new impetus to research concerning his life and family history.

Up to a few years ago the oldest known ancestor of Goethe's was his great-grandfather, the blacksmith Hans Christian Goethe, who lived in Artern, in the Province of Saxony. Then the great-grandfather was discovered in the person of Hans Goethe, of Sangerhausen, in the Harz, but he could be traced back only to 1671. Friedrich Schmidt, author of a history of Sangerhausen, has now succeeded in establishing that Hans Goethe was born in Berka, near Sangerhausen, also in the Harz, and that he was registered as a citizen of Sangerhausen in 1657.

"No one is justified in accepting defeat until defeat is altogether complete."—H. G. Wells.

COULDN'T COMB HAIR

Crippled by Rheumatism

"I had been suffering with rheumatism for about 2 years, and about this time last year was laid up for 10 weeks. My hands and arms and knees were the worst affected. I could not get about at all. I could not wash my face or comb my hair. All this had to be done for me. At the beginning of this year I started taking Kruschen Salts every morning and I am pleased to say I am quite well now and able to see to my home and can go out in all kinds of weather without it affecting me."—Mrs. F. K.

Rheumatism is associated with an excess of Uric Acid in the system. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid so as to render it easily being easily washed out of the system. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist nature to flush out this dissolved uric acid through the bowels and the kidneys. Other ingredients still prevent food fermentation taking place in the intestine, and thereby check the formation not only of uric acid but of other impurities which poison the blood and pave the way to ill-health.

PORCELAIN LANDSCAPES

Landscapes painted on porcelain, whether vases or still more plates and services generally, was a specialty of the Old Derby Porcelain Factory. It is true that we have beautiful miniature-like paintings of ports, seascapes, and hunting scenes on old Meissen porcelain. Conventional landscapes—mostly en cascade—on Sevres and other Continental china, and even charming little landscape vignettes and landscape backgrounds on Chelsea, Worcester, and Longton Hall pieces; but for pure natural English landscapes on porcelain, the first and most prolific producer was Derby. The greatest and most esteemed of the Old Derby landscape painters was undoubtedly Zerahiah Boreman (sometimes spelt Borman, Boardman, and Bowman in the old Chelsea account books).

When Wm. Duesbury of Derby bought and carried on the Chelsea works we find Boreman continuing to work for him, for his name appears in the old account books kept by the foreman, Richard Barton, as being the head painter at the factory at a wage of 5s. 8d. per day—that was in 1771. On the closing down of the Chelsea Works in 1784 Duesbury induced Boreman to come to Derby, giving him a fixed wage and long term agreement at the increased rate of two guineas a week. Boreman seems to have worked at Chelsea from some time before 1763 till 1784—then at Derby from 1784 to 1794. After that he returned to London and there he painted for Sims, an old Derby painter who kept an enamelling establishment and enamelled porcelain in the white for the china trade.

It is difficult to identify any of Boreman's paintings on Chelsea or Chelsea-Derby porcelain. There are certainly no such pieces decorated with the soft, subdued, charmingly painted landscapes which form his well-known work of Derby. Did he only paint the ordinary trade pieces, the services and the figures—the seals and the thimbles; and if so, who then was it painted the fine figure and bird paintings on the beautiful, rich and expensive vases?—From "Old Derby Porcelain and Its Artist-Workmen," by Frank Hurbutt.

Learn to be Silent

It is a great art in the Christian life to learn to be silent. Under oppositions, rebukes, injuries, still be silent. It is better to say nothing than to speak in an excited or angry manner, even if the occasion should seem to justify a degree of anger. By remaining silent the mind is able to collect itself, and to call upon God in secret aspirations of prayer. And thus you will speak to the honor of your holy profession, as well as to the good of those who have injured you, when you speak from God.—T. C. Upham.

Sorrow

Do you know what Luther said? "Suffer and be still and tell no man thy sorrow; trust in God—His help will not fail thee." This is what Scripture calls keeping silence before God. To talk much of one's sorrows makes one weak, but to tell one's sorrows to Him who heareth in secret makes one strong and calm.—Tholuck.

Rheumatism So Bad He Had to Quit Work

Albert Berger Not Bothered Since Relieved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Working Every Day Now.

"I had to stop working and stay in the house. I was two weeks in bed, when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I gave the Pills a fair trial, and they relieved me right away. My back is good and strong now, and I am working every day. I have never been bothered with rheumatism since. I recommend them for anyone suffering from Rheumatism, Lame Back, Sciatica, the blood very rapidly. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood stream and create new red blood cells, which is the reason they are so successful in combating such ailments. Equally good for all run-down or nervously exhausted people. Try them. At your druggist's. 50c. 773

Wood Fire

There is a sound outside the door
Of firewood dropped to the floor,
Of heavy wood and heavy feet,
And on the window driving sleet;
Inside we fumble for a match,
"Surely this one will make it catch!
It ought to catch! Yes, now it will!"
And, breathlessly, the house is still—
Then all the brasses in the room
Come out like fireflies from the gloom.

The big logs settle into place,
And vivid shreds of golden lace
Hang trembling on the blackened brick:
The eager flame, springing to lick
The shadows from the dusky wall,
Consumes them, too, and embers fall
And smolder in a molten heap—
Another log will make them leap
Into new strength and throw once more
A magic carpet on the floor.

What New York Is Wearing

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

Here's a clever, little frock favoring the smart idea of contrast so popular with the grown-ups this season. It can be long or short sleeves, just as you please.

A wrap-over side-closing effect makes it so individual.

Two shades of wool crepe is an excellent scheme for its development. Its inspirator combined a light navy blue with pale blue, so thoroughly French.

It's darling dress too for "dress-up" occasions fashioned of brown velvet with pastel-red crepe silk contrast.

Style No. 3272 may be had in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material with 1 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Another cute idea is green tweed mixture with yellow plain woolen.

It may be made of one material, if desired.

How to Order Patterns

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred); wrap it carefully for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Canada's Far North

Aids to travel by land, sea, or air have been developed by the Dominion Government in establishing meteorological and wireless stations. Thirteen wireless stations, four of which are Direction Finding Stations, are maintained through Arctic Canada. These are located at the following points: Resolution Island, Cape Hayes, Advance, Nottingham Island, Port Churchill, Chesterfield, Coppermine, Baker Lake, Hunter Bay, Herschel, Aklavik, Norman, Simpson, Resolution, and Fort Smith. The Dept. of the Interior co-operates in providing these aids to transportation and communication by the maintenance of the stations at Fort Smith, Resolution, Norman, Simpson, Aklavik, Herschel, Coppermine, and Chesterfield, in the Northwest Territories; Dawson and Mayo in Yukon Territory; and at Edmonton, Alberta.

Akron May Carry Huge Mt. Wilson Mirror

The U.S. Navy's airship Akron, the largest in the world, may be pressed into service to carry to California the giant 200-inch telescope mirror soon to be constructed in an Eastern workshop. When this mighty disk of quartz is completed, probably within two years, its transportation to the observing problem, says "Popular Science Monthly." It is too large to be carried safely on a train. University of California scientists have suggested that the Akron might pick up the mirror at the factory and deposit it on the still unselected mountain peak near Pasadena, Calif., where it will be used.

The Child's Point of View

It was when we were all quite nursery children—a long time ago, I am sure; two years since, at the very least—and it began, as nurse said afterward, because we would not play at proper games like other children. It partly that is our own fault, because Patricia always will, and, of course, it leads to squabbles; and, I dare say, I am often very aggravating, and Bobby is such a slow, argumentative boy, and Annie is as tiresome as tiresome can be, with crying over everything, and Paul is sometimes so very odd and obstinate. But I think it is also nurse's fault, because being the strictest person in the world, she will not let you do everything you might want to do.

We consider nurse a very cross person. It is all very well to say that it is we who are naughty, but we are not always naughty; and she is as stiff as the necessary tea-tray, besides being the same plain shape, and she wears the tightest and sternest caps that ever were seen.

I remember Bobby being put in the pound for saying, in a very serious manner, that he did not want to wish anything wicked, especially on Sunday. He said it looked so hard; her eyes were all strictish, but her Sunday caps were savage.

It may not be very agreeable to the feelings to tell about one's punishments, but it may have to be told all the same. Our large punishment is to be sent to bed, and our small is to be put in the pound, which is really grading things to be put there; it is much worse than a corner because a corner is lighter, and you can sometimes look over your shoulder.

We have heard of ladies tell a mother that nurse is a treasure, but she does not comb their hair nor put them to bed. But still we know that she is really very good. But the thing that we think the worst of all about nurse is that there couldn't possibly be any person in the world with less imagination than she has. She never could see what pleasure we find in sitting in a ring under the table and imagining things which she called telling untruths. She could not see what pleasure there was in sitting on the floor at all, because no one who has never made a practice of it can know how nice it is.

"Why you cannot sit on your chairs, instead of floors, like pagans in a pagan land, is more than I can tell," she used to say. From "The Gentle Heritage," by Frances E. Cromarty.
