Murder at Bridge

By ANNE AUSTIN.

SYNOFSIS

SLAUDIES.

ita Selim is murdered durit party. Questioning the grant favestig that Ralph Hammond, in that is missing. Dunce asks

CHAPTER VIII.

"Oh, this is too horrible!" Kare Marshall meaned, as Penny Crai again slipped into Nita Selim's char and prepared to lay down her hand.

And it was harrible-even if vitally recessary-for these three to have to go through the farce of playing a bridge hand while on of the origina players was now lying on a marble cot at the mor me.

But he said nothing, for Trace Miles was already hovering in the Georway, ready for his cue to enter. Penny, or rather "Nita," as sh scemed miraculously to become, was saying: "How's this, Karen darling? as she laid down the ace and deuce of spades-Karen's trumes. "I hope you remember you are vulperable, as well as we are" Caroly: Drake remarked in a sorry imitation of her original cocksuredness-the of fersive optimism of a bad bridge play er who thinks she is really goodshe opened the playing by leading the king of clubs.

"And how's this, partner? A single ten in clubs!" Nita's imitator demand ed triumphantly as she continued to lay down her dummy hand, putting the lone nine of clubs beside trumps; "and this little collection of hearts!" as she displayed and arranged the ace king, eight and four of hearts; "and also this!" as a length of diamondsace, jack, ten, eight, seven and six slithered down the glossy black surface of the bridge table toward Karen Marshall. "Now if you don't make your little slam, infant, don't dare say I shouldn't have jumped you to five!

"This is where I enter," Tracey Miles whispered hearsely to Dunder then, at a nod from the young detec tive, the pudgy little blond man strede jauntily into the living room, prou of himself in the role of actor.

"Hello, everyoody! How's tricks?"
he called genially, loudly, but there was a quiver of horror in his voice

Penny was quite pale when sh sprang from her chair, but her voice seemed to be Nita's very own, as sho sang out merrily:
"It can't be 5.30 already! Than heaven I'm dummy, and can run away and make myself pretty-pretty for you and all the other great big men, Tra cey darling!"

Dundee's keen arral memory regis-tered the slight difference in the wording of the greeting as reported by this psuedo-Nita and the man she was running to greet. But he made no comment. His eyes were busy—taking in the mounting Jush on Tracey Miles florid, round face, the involuntary glances of repugnance exchanged by Karen Marshall and Carolyn Drake an the sudden brimming of tears in Lois Dunlap's kind eyes. How fondly she must have looked upon her protege carlier that afternoon!

But Penny, as Nita, was already straightening Trace; Miles necktie with possessive coquettish fingers, was coaxing, head tucked:

"Tracey, my ownest lamb, won't "Tracey, my ownest lamb, won't being played.
you shake up the cocktails for your foor litle Nita? Everything's ready on the sideboard or I don't know my precious old Lydia even if her pear. jaw does ache most horribly."

Then Penny was on her way, or rather on Nita's journey, to meet death, pausing in the doorway to blow a kiss from her fingertips to the fatusly grinning but now quite pale Tracey Miles.
Unobtrusively, Dundee drew his watch from his pocket, palmed it as he

GOLD Syndicate

REMENDOUS, development now going on throughout Northern Ontario pressage add boom of magnitude. New mips are opening up rapidly, winness are in the making. Forness await those who get into leaders in these new areas 15.

O ITST ANDING among these) areas is Tyrrell Matachewan, and the outstanding preferred property is ethat of Tyrrell Township McNeely syndiate. In the hands of pioneer mining men of repute, work has gone should steadly, until the property has shown all indications of a mine.

nine.

I HESE MEN have done initial work with their own money. To-day, with the element of risk method in the element of risk process. To day, with the element of risk method in the element of the elem

Clip the coupon below now for jescriptive circular and map.

Tyrrell Township McNeely

Syndicate,

171 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada Without obligation please furnish me, with full details of Tyrrell Twp. McNeely Syndicate:

ISSUE No. 30-132

noted the exact minute, then com

As Tracey Miles passed the first tridge table Lois Dunlap linked ber arm in his, saving in a voice she tries arm in his saying in a voice she tree to make gay and natural:

"I'm sailing along, Tracey. Simply dying for a sip of Scotch! Nita's is the real stuff—which is more than my fussy old Pete can get half the time and you know I louthe cocktails."

The two passed on into the dining recm, the players scarcely raisin, their eyes from their cards, which they held as if the game was real. Dundee, his watch still in his hand, advanced to the bridge table. Strolling from player to player, he took mental pretegraphs of each hand, then took his stand behind Penny's chair to o'serve the horrit!- ferrical playing of it. Poor little Penny! he reflected. She hadn't had a chance against that dumbbell across the table from her Fancy anyone's doubling a little slar bid on a hand like Carolyn Drake's!

Karen's hand trembled as she drew the nine of clubs from the dummy but Penny's fingers were quite stead clubs, to which Karen added, with a t ace of characteristic and rather clarming uncertainty, the eight.

"There's our book!" Carolyn Drake exulted conscientiously, but she cast

"Eake one more trick we set them."
"Fat chance!" Penny obligingly resconded, and Dundee, relieved, knew tat the farcical game would be played now almost exactly, and with the same comments, as it had been played while Nita Selim was being murdere! Thanks to Penny Crain!

Bridling and with a great show of triumph, Carolyn Drake then led the deuce of diamonds, to which Karen added the jack from the dummy, and upon which Karen shruggingly placed her king, to find the trick, as she had suspected in the original game, trumped by the five of spades, since Karer had no diamonis at all.

"So that settles us," Carelyn!" Pen-

No that settles us, Carolyn: Pen-vocemmented bitingly.

Her partner rose to the role she was playing. "Well, as I told you, I always double a little slam on principle. Besides, how could I know the would have a chance for cross-ruffin Besides, how could I know they in both clubs and diamonds? I thought you could at least hold the ace of dia-monds and that Karen would certainly have one, as I only had four of

"And the dummy sitting there with a string of six diamonds!" Penny re-terted; then, with a shrug, "Oh, well! Play bridge!" for Karen was sitting staring at her cail; helplessly.

"I-I guess I'd bitter get my trumps out," Karen—now almost a cusly. "I do wish-wish Nita wer playing this hand. I know I'll must it

"Good kid!" Dundee thought, and tock the liberty of patting Karen on her slim shoulder.

The girl-wife threw him an upward glance of gratitude through misty eyes, then led the six of spades, Mrs. Lrake contributing the four, dummy taking the trick with the ace, and Penny relinquishing her three.

"Let's see-that makes five of 'en in, since I-trumped one trick," Karen said, as she reached across the table to lead from dummy.

As if the words were a cuethey probably were—Judge Marshall entered the room at that moment. Judge Marshall, making a great effort to be as jaunty, debonair and "young for his age," as he must have thought he locked wher, the real game wa and a womanly tenderness:

"Hullo, darling! . . . I'm trying to make a little slam. I may have been foolish to bid, but Nita jumped me from two to five spades-

"Let's have a look, sweetheart." the retired judge suggested pompously, and Dundee gave way to make room for him behind Karen's chair.

But before the judge looked at his wife's cards, he bent and kissed her on her flushed, fair cheek, and Karen raised a hand to tweek his gray mus raised a hand to tweek his gray mus-tache. Dundee, with a raised eye-brow, querried Penny and the girl nedded shortly, conveying the infor-mation, grudgingly it is true, that this was the way the scene had really been played when there was no question of acting.

"I'm getting out my trumps, dar-ling," Kamen confided sweetly, as she "Good Lord, child!" her husband ejaculated. "And spoil your chance to ruff clubs in the dummy? ". Lead this!" and pointed toward the six of

"I wish you'd got a puncture, Hu-go, and hadn't butted in before this hand was played," Carolyn Drake sputtered. "That was our only chance, suppose, to have set them-

"Please don't mind," Karen begged "Hugo just wanted to help me, beause he knows I'm such a dub at bridge-"The finest little player in town-year from now," Judge Marshall en-couraged her gallantly. Smiling adoringly at him again. Karen took his suggestion and led the six of diamonds from the dummy; Penny covered it with the nine; Kar-en ruffed with the seven of spades, and Mrs. Drake lugubriously contributed the four of diamonds. "I-can go on getting my trumps cut now, can't I, Hugo?" Karen quavered, and at her husband's smiling Olypmic Beauty foolishly thought would take a trick -the jack of spades; the dummy gave up the deuce, and Penny followed with er own last trump, the eight. Karen counted on her fingers, own hand, then smiled triumphantly up at her husband. "Why not simply tell us, Karen, that the rest of the trumps are in your own hand?" Penny suggested caustic

Petite Resalle Grandjean Brown popular figure in the Los Angeles French colony, favored to win the olympic beauty show.

"I—I didn't mean to do anything wrong," Karen pleaded, as she led now with the jack of hearts, which drew in Carolyn's queen to cover-Carolyn an hener with an honor-or should I have played second hand low, Penny?'
—topped by the ace in the dummy, the trick being completed by Penny's

At that point John C. Drake march ed into the room, strode straight to Dundet and spoke with cold anger: "Enough of this nonsense! I, fo one, refuse to act like a puppet for your amusement!" (To be continued.)

Pigeon "Camera Man"

Carrier pigeons are being used in lermany to take aerial photographs These are often wanted for particular purposes, and to make them by means of an aeroplane is rather an expen sive business. By means of a wonder ful new miniature camera, pigeons ca be made to take the required snaps at trifling cost.

The method used is ingenious. Birds which can be relied upon to fly straight home to their lofts are select ed. They are then liberated so that the place to be photographed lies between the point of reler , and the

The camera has a time shutter which can be set to operate to within a fraction of a second. The speed at which particular birds fly is known from previous records, and it is found that they fly at an average height of about 500 feet.

The figures having been worked out, the camera shutter is set to operate at the exact moment that the bird will be crossing the place or the building released, and at the loft waits an as sistant who removes the camera. Experiments have shown that extraordinarily good photographs can be obtained.

Bon Voyage

Here's summer glory fleeding all the sky!

Let us depart, scarce knowing how nor why,
But driven forward as a ship is

Against high waves—hail New Found

Seek a new meaning for old Odys-

Oh! brave, adventurous morning spread your wings Radiant above the tangled drift of things. Uncompassed we, and chartless, take control— And fit each crumpled body with a soul!

-Margaret Sackville.

Worst Bug Year in Decade

Declares U. S. Statistician Springfield, Ill.—This is the most prolific bug year in a decade, says J. Surratt, Federal agricultural sta-tician. He warns the residents of Illinois cities that oat lice have spread from country road to city street to in-fest the eyes, ears, head and clothing of the townspeople.

One Matteon resident said he drave through a cloud of oat lice so thick they covered his windshield and he had to stop and brush them off.

Oat lice do no particular damage t rops, Mr. Surratt said, but they are only one pest enjoying a boom year Chinch bugs and Hessian fly, nemesis of small grains and corn, are flourish

Ain't Nature Grand?

Two small boys were hunting in the woods, and one of them stopped and picked up a chestnut bur. "Tommy!" he called excitedly. "Come here. I've found a porcupir

More Truth Than Poultry. "Eve," said the wise young subur permission, she led the king, Carolyn banite, "was the first chicken to ever had to put down what she must have ruin a man's garden."

egg!"

Shorts

There is a average of two servants to every guest in a London "laury

Thefts of money from public tele shone call-boxes are stated to amount o about $1,125 a month in Gt. Britain "Easy travel convertation" subject of a special class held for adults by the London C 1. 17 Council.
Hotel salaries range from $1.25 2 reek for the pages up to $10,000 a rear or more for the manager, in Lon-

There are, in proportion to the population, far more pairs of twins born in the country than in the cities in Gt.

Gt. Britain consumed sweets in varithe population in 1930. Parmaids in London have a club of rade in 1930, as compared with £11,-Britain from 20.4 per thousand of the the Afric population in 1922, to 15.3 in the first like men.

uarter of this year. Breakages of crockery at a big Lon ion hotel will represent a loss of up to $250 a week. Broken glassware may represent another £2,000 a year Income tax is now paid in Gt. Bri tain by over 4,000,000 persons; of this concern (in a very weak measure, total, nearly 2,000,000 only became generally) for their own demise; a eyes on the remaining trumps in her liable on the recent alteration in the Working ten hours a day, a ner agricultural machine will cut forty three acres, threshing, cleaning, sort ing, and packing the grain in bags at

Customers may, if they wish, shave themselves with razor, brush, soap, and hot water and towels in a novel barber's shop recently opened in town in Tennessee, U.S.A. The four leading religions in point of membership, in Great Britain, are Auglicans, 26,550,000; Presbyterians, 4,025,000; Methodists, 3,602,000; and Roman Catholics, 2,820,000. Eight British towns - Boston

Bridgewater, Carmarthen, Grantham, Hartlepool, Lerwick, Margate, and Tiverton-hold the record for having no fatal street accidents last year. There is a long-forgotten Act by which any person who fits properly flanged wheels to his motor-car can drive it on any British railway, if the ehicle is of approved design. A newly invented protection against smash-and-grab raids ejects ammonia gas and explodes a smoke bomb, while a siren shrieks so loudly that it can be heard over half a mile away. Football is not a suitable game fo romen: this decision was made by the British Football Association eleven years ago, and they still stand by it to such an extent that women's matches are forbidden on the ground of any club controlled by the F. registered referees may not officiate at them.

Neighbour

She sits there at her window, Looking out, And you wonder what it is She's thinking about.

You know she isn't staring At any one thing. For nothing ever hannene There's just a row of houses Along our street, And just the kind of people You always meet.

I wonder what she's seeing That we can't see In such a quiet street

-Ferry Adams in The Chicago Tr

Against high waves—hail New Found
Land at last!

And in the wash and waste of untried seas,

Seek a new meaning for old Odys-

Delicious!

Serve Kraft Velveeta to your family oftener! Hidden in its tempting, mellow flavor are health-protective elements of many foods concentrated in rating is + + +

Science gives it a nutri-tional rating of plus, plus, plus! The Food Committee of the American Medical/Association approves it.

Get a package from your grocer today. Spread it, elice it, cook with it.

KRAFT elveeta

JUNGLE DWELLERS

By J. L. BUCK Collector and Trainer of Wild Animals.

When I captured my first anima alive, many years ago, the emphasi was almost entirely upon shooting and trapping. In time I was to se interest in animals turn from hunting with a gun to hunting with a camera The newest development is the scientific curiosity about the attitude and emotions of animals, which re-British War Office sirce 1919; cently has shown a marked increase now they are preparing a census of in many colleges departments of ani mal psychology have been founded during the last decade, and serious reous forms at the rate of nearly eighty-nine and a half pounds per head of some of the questions our interest prempts us to ask about animal be their own, with rest-rooms and sleep. I am not a scientist, but for more ing accommodation for members out years than I like to recall I have been of a berth. This club is now thirty collecting wild animals, studying them in their jungle home and in captivity. Gramophone needles represented an lin their jungle name and in capturity, and living with them on the ships in them of £69,000 in England's national which I transport them. And each noon in 1930, as compared with £11.

The national birth-rate has fallen in in many emotions these creatures of the compared of the African wilderness are amazingly

WHEN WILD BEASTS FEAR. Curiosity; solicitude; kindly .pity; fear (ranging from shy timorousness to really dread); family feeling; shock at the death of other anima's; very crude sense of humor; memory; sometimes developed to a marvellous degree; insanity or extreme eccentricity, mental quirks which casus men would hardly believe to exist in animals; even a desire for revengeall of these are sure'y human traits, and all of these I have found in animals.

Fear, we are teld, is one of the most devastating emotions that preys upon men. Though fear certain:y shows itself in animals, I have neve felt that it harnesses their lives as it does the lives of many men.

As yet it is doubtless impossible determine, with our present psychelegic tools, if such an animal as the lion ever feels that fear called mental worry. I do not believe that he does mal fear has to do with physical safety or comfort.

A MOTHER'S GRIEF.

The ares back up my contention hat the chief fear of most animals is that the chief fear of n inked with considerations of safety I have met only two of the tribe-th Barbary age and the Fijian monkeythat did not have a terrific fear of snakes. The reason for this, of course, is that snake bite in most cases is fatal to monkeys and apes. The Bar-bar are and the Fijian monkey do not fear snakes, because there are cone in their habitats.

In one other situation the apes seen to overcome this extreme fear-when they live in regions where the wild hog abounds. This doughty creature regards snakes as prized dainties and usually eliminates them in the terrain er which he roams.

The monkeys or other apes appar ently note this carefully, for in such regions they become very bold in the presence of snakes and sometimes even kill them with sticks and stones. Some of the most interesting traits have encountered in animals con erns family affections.

A Rhodesian farmer whom I visited during one of my first trips to Africa kept a baboon as a pet in a commodious cage; and when its baby died a birth, he supplied it with a baby grass-monkey as the best substitute. It was an appealing sight, the ten-der solicitude of the large baboonshe was more than three feet tall— for the six-inch monkey. During the weks that followed I firmly believe those two learned to speak to each ther in babcon talk. Scientists probably would assert that there is no such thing. I disagree. I insist that there are several monkey dialects-as many as there are species of apes and monkeys-and my opinion is as good as that of any other thoughtful man who has lived his life with animals. At any rate, the farmer swore that At any rate, the farmer swore una-when the grass-monkey was taken temporarily from the baboon's cage and placed in a cage with other grass-monkeys his own kind could not under-stand his jibberings and seemed to record him as an alien. But when restored to the baborn the two chat-tered away, -seemingly most intelli-

That monkey had learned "babcon talk" as a baby and did not know the ore day, while trying to pull the grass-monkey through the bars of her cage, the baboon tugged too tight and Killed her little protege. Her deso-lation was pitiful. For a day she tried to nurse the monkey back to life. We made repeated efforts to get the baby from its foster mother and were net with snarls of rage. Bananas and THE CALLOUS LEOPARD.

The morning of the second day we placed another grass-monkey into the baboon's cage. The mother looked up sad'y, sniffed and turned away. This was not ner taty.

Near the end of that day we per suaded her to relinquish the body of her pet, but she still refused food and would not be comforted. A little later we offered her the other monkey again. Again she turned away. And then, at my suggestion, we tried something which may have saved the baboon from dying of a broken heart. We removed a bit of the dead monkey's flesh and rubbed this on the living one. Then we offered this youngster to the baboon again, and this time she took it. I have never I have always felt that she still re-membered that her foster child was dead; but I believe that we had suc-

iced tea is delicious

with the dead.

How do these creatures tehave in he presence of death?

What observation I have made o ons on the comparatively rare cocasions when I could glimpse the action of a living lion when its mate or companion had been killed, has convinced me that the king of beasts feels solici-tude at the death of his kind. This solicitude seems more intense whe the dead lion is his mate.

Though leopards also are of the cat family, I do not believe they are near-ly as affected by the death of their own as is the lion.

I once watched a leopard come acress another that had died from the effects of a poisoned arrow, and the leopard behaved with far more of the n personal contemplation of the than with the shock and concern that the lion displays in similar circur Elephants, on the contrary, display for a dead kinsman a concern a aproaches that of a human. ELEPHANTS ARE SINCERE.

I have heard it said, and I am in lined to believe, that the Indian ele phant coming upon a fallen comrade stops to strew leaves about his las esting-place. From the experience of tance with elephants in captivity as well as in their native wilds, I an convinced that most elephants do all that is possible to help a brother in his illness and that when death occurs they mourn sincerely.

Is there a well-developed memory in nimals?

One of the most interesting in tances of animal memory that I have ever had brought to my attention conerned a work elephant in Siam. Sam son was the name of this great ele Bangkok Company. All day Samson hauled great manogany logs, lifted them with his tusks, piled them in stacks as he had been taught. All day his Indian maheut middle and the future had been to be specified. day his Indian mahout guided him, clucked to him, comforted him, fed him, and tended him. There was a sense of companionship between the Indian and the elephant.

Finally, Samson was turned into the forest for breeding, and the ma-lout mourned his big friend. Three years passed-certairly ample time for the elephant to have forogiten the little brown man who had been his master. Then one day the mahou was injured while making a trip through the company forests. For two days he was missing.

On the third day Samson trudged into the lumber camp with the mahout slung over his back. The mahout had stumbled while walking through the woods, his gun had been discharged, wounding him so scriously that he resigned himself to death. At the end of the second day he had heard a band of elephants approaching and had expected to be trampled underfoot.

Dimly he was conscious of the fact that one of the huge creatures had halted in front of him. He felt a kindly trunk curl about him and lift him up to a broad back. And there he clung, while Samso eartly by his own memory of the ole oad, partly by what guidance his old ahout could give him, headed toward seeded in identifying for her the living company headquarters and safety for -London Tit-Rite

REVELATION.

The' I were bred in some unhallow'd Where no birds sing

Nor random 1 stals flutter from the hand Of timid daring spring; Tho' never had I seen the regal sun

But dwelt in livid darkness till it A web athwait my eyes;

Invade the skies

The' all my life had been a wintry night. Gloomy and dense,

Yet loving you I should know spring's delight And dawn's magnificence. -Lionel Stevenson in The Rose of

"She said on her wedding day that she'd go through everything for him." Well, I guess she has. I loaned him a ten spot this morning."

"I believe that in the future manual

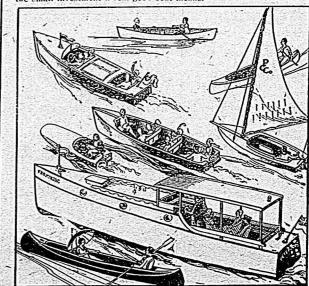

CAN YOU ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS ABOUT BABY? Why does a baby cry at night?, How much should he weigh?. When should he creep—walk—talk? How much food dues he need?. What makes him too thin—fat?, You will find helpful answers to many questions about baby inc "Baby Welfare." Write today for your copy. Use coupon below.

The Borden Co. Limited, 50 Powell St., Vancouver, B.C. Centlemen: Please send me free copy booklet entitled "Baby Weifare."

Pleasant waterways are within reach of almost everyone. A boat will give you and your family a lot of safe, healthy fun. Nature has provided everything for you but the boat and when you read our catalogue, which we will send on request, you will be surprised at the small investment a real good boat means.

We Build a Complete Line of Watercraft A SPECIAL OFFER FOR THIS MONTH

14 foot flat-bottomed boat, built of selected materials, pine sides, cedar bottom, square stern type, suitable for oars or motor. Regular Price $44.00 at factory.

Special Price-with oars, $36.00 freight paid. THE PETERBOROUGH CANOE CO. Limited. 298 Water St., Peterborough, Ontario

