Fruit Production In Peace River

Toronto Daily Comments on Latest Products of Northern Orchards

We recently called attention to the fact that several varieties of apples and erab apples have been grown for several years in the Peace River country. We spoke of a small shipment of these fruits received less and back ached, and I was feel from the Experimental Sub-Station Alberta. The Sub-Station is in charge of Mr. W. D. Albright, superintendent, and Mr. E. C. Staces B.A., M.Sc., assistant superintendent We now have a communication from the same source stating that the or chard production at Beaverlodge this year included five varieties of pinms year included are varieties of plums, namely, Prunns Nigra (Manitoba Wild Plum), Prunus Americana, Opata, Oka and the Tom Thumb Cherry, so-called. The Opata, Oka and Tom Thumb are really hybrids of the plum and sandcherry, but are of very fair quality indeed. "We of very fair quality indeed. So far as plums are concernabled growing and mixed farming, ed we have grown them before in sparing quantities, and a consider able number of Peace River settlers have done the same in this and pre- of the international boundary line vious years, though I hear of more and even of Edmonton, can produce numerous successes with plums this and ripen apples and small fruits of year than in previous years. One no mean quality. Agricultural Canoldier settler had about two bushels of very good plums. They grew on bush-like trees. Although there have been touched of frost this year commencing with the last night of August, and ranging down to 28 degrees F. on the night of September 19, these frosts have not killed any except the tender-er vegetables, and on October 4 a Sonvenir de Ciaudius Pernet Rose, which has been absolutely unpro-tected all Fall, had a beautiful cream bloom, while a Hugh Rickson Rose was opening a fine bud whose outer patals had been slightly frayed by temperatures. "I should be candid enough to state, however, that while such are the conditions on the brow of the hill, where our experimental work is conducted, an entirely differ-ent condition obtains at the slough half a mile distant and 107 feet lower. At that point the lowest night's reading during September was 17 degrees F. at the middle of the month. Such a difference will be puzzling to an Easterner, and is accounted for by the fact that in a dry clinate there is at times a pro-nounced tendency to inversion of temperature, by which is meant that within the limits of local topography the cold air settles to the ground a night with readings progressively less extreme as one ascends to a height of several hundred feet, be yond which we have presumably the usual prevailing tendency for the air to be rarified and, therefore, colder as the altitude increases. We have been keeping systematic records for several years on a slope with a fall
