After his death his eccentricities were described by a friend as resulting from glandular trouble which left him permanently with the mentality of a fifteen-year-old boy.

Chileans Use Nitrate To Aid Wheat Crop

Santiago. Chile.-Chileans at last have begun to practice what they preached-greater use of nitrate for fertilizer-and as a result this yea obtained a bumper crop of wheat Chilean nitrate thus has saved the country from footing a heavy gold bill for wheat imports.

Although Chile for half a century practically existed on her sales of nitrate to the United States and Europe, exporting as much as 3,000. 000 tons yearly her farmers rarely used it. This year 17,000 tons of nitrate were used by Chilean farmers compared with 4391 last year. The Caja de Credito Agrario (Agrarian Credit Bank) arranged for whole sale purchases and resold the nitrate to the farmers on easy terms. The state railways, co-operated with crdering facilities and storage space r

Barometro Economico, a publica tion of the State Statistical Bureau, estimates that the crop would have been even larger, because of the four fold increase in nitrate use, but for the exhaustion of the soil during the two previous years, when so little of the fertilizer was used.

WIFE'S DELIGHT AT HUSBAND'S LOSS 30 Pounds of Fat!

Here is something all wives of fai men will be glad to know. It is the experience of a woman whose husbane cently weighed 230 lbs. She writes: "I really feel I must write and tell ou that, after taking Kruschen Salt for nearly 3 months, my husband has got his weight down from 230 lbs. to 200 lbs. This has been achieved by nothing else but Kruschen. I am too heavy also, and I started taking Kruschen only three weeks ago. Already I have got down from 153 lbs to 14f lbs. We are delighted."

(Mrs.) C. Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to Switzerland, and other countries is by assisting the internal organs to on view. The stamp collections in perform their functions properly—reparticular are of unusual interest.

The Esigium collection depicts a vivid Dory of Belgium's agitated history.

London Inn May Go There are grave fears that the "Green Man," on Putney Heath, one of the most famous of London's old inns, will be pulled down and replaced earlier it was frequented by Jerry Abershaw, the noted highwayman and the last man to be hanged on Putney Heath.

On the heath William Pitt fought his famous duel with George Tierney, in 1798, following a debate on the manning of the Navy, and eleven years later Lord Castlereagh fought a duel there with George Canning. Swinburn came to Putney in mid-dle life, a quiet existence being necessary for the sake of his health. For many years he lived with Theodore Watts-Dunton at his house, "The

Newfoundland-Labrador Airway to be Opened London.-Twenty-five men, led by Major Christopher Draper, are to in-augurate an air line between the La-brador Coast and Newfoundland's newly discovered gold field. Major Draper, whose daredevil flying exploits earned him the title of 'The Mad Major," will run a passenger and freight air service between the new Klondyke and the Labrador Coast trading posts. The journey across ice and snow will take only a few hours as compared with three to six weeks by dog-drawn sleights.

The bullion will be carried in a arge machine originally built to carry bombs and torpedoes. This machin will be armed, for the dog trail between the goldfield and the trading posts is reported to be infested with desperadoes and hi-jackers and a ferced landing en route might result in a hand-to-hand defensive encounter. Among the Major's air exploits was a fight with Baron_von Richthofen, the famous German "ace." He has made hair-raising flights under bridges and arches, including Tower Bridge and Westminster Bridge. He won the Croix de Guerre during the war.

An early Norman structure, exca vated at South-Mimms, Middlesex, is said to be part of the castle of the de Mandevilles, which has been lost for 700 years. The discovery lends credence to the local tradition that South Mimms is haunted by the ghest of Sir Geoffrey de Mandeville.

Invisible Spectacles Made in London The person who has bad eyesight. but hates wearing frame, or pincenez lasses, now may have invisible specacles made for each eye.

This entirely new departure in optical wear is now on the market in London, Eng. Each eyepiece is a tiny, shell-like slip of glass, slightly larger than a dime, fitting directly on top of the cornea of the eye, under the lid, and adhering to it by suction. "Contact glasses" is the ame of the new invention. They positively cannot be seen, even at the losest range.

25 each, but prices vary according to the lens required. It is impossible, however, to just walk in to the opticians and buy a pair right away.

They are convoled only a way. They are supplied only to the pres cription of an ophthalmic surgeon.

The adoption of these contact glasses would be quite a delicate bus ness at first, each eyepiec, is gripped the suction of a little ribber bull which comes away when pinched, leaving the eye covered with the thin transparent scrap of glass which car not be felt, even with the eyelid The glass is withdrawn in a second by means of the rubber bulb. Supervised Play for Children Necessary New York .- The need for supervised playgrounds to build child health and character and to counteract juvenile delinquency was stressed by Franklin D. Rooseveit in a speech at recreation conference arranged by the city park department.

"A great deal has been said about the cost in taxes for recreational facilities for children," the wife of the United States President said, "When you pay for things that build up the child's health aand character, you are paying for constructive things in the future. We all know that a great deal of juvenile delinquency and crime could be prevented if more children sworn I had my watch in my pocket, were supervised in their play."

Youth and Idleness

No matter how strong the character a young man may possess, idleness provides an influence which is deteriorating, observes the Chatham News. Youth is the time for formulating opinions and habits which stick for life, and when a young man finds himself strainded on the very threshold of life, his opinion of things in general is not apt to be healthy one, especially if he is an bitious and anxious to succeed. This constitutes one of the greatest prob lems before the world today.
