TEA TIME TALK

(BY WILMA J. MARCH)

Thousands attended the impressive ceremony held in Toronto on July 4th, the American National holiday, when the Canadian mace, a symbol of Royal authority, was formerly returned by representatives of the U. S. government, with many dignitaries present. A permanent memorial in the form of two tablets was dedicated to the memory of the loyal soldiers of two countries who fell in battle at Fort York 121 years ago. The mace had been taken as a trophy of war from the Upper Canada parliament buildings, by one of the captors who stormed the fort. It was most fitting that it should be returned during Toronto's centennial year. President Roosevelt showed much delicacy in this act of courtesy, which breathed peace and goodwill. This symbol of power was brought to Canadian shores, as it was also taken away, on board an American battleship. The U.S.S. Wilmington lay at rest in the Toronto harbor, at peace with the world.

Soldiers and sailors of two adjoining countries marched together to the strains of Canadian and American military bands. Formation was made around the cairn, on which rested the memorial tablets, with the units presenting arms and the bands playing "God Save the King" and "The Star Spangled Banner" upon the arrival of Lieutenant-Governor Bruce and Hon. W. D. Robbins, United States Minister to Canada who also acted as representative of President Roosevelt.

Rear-Admiral W. D. Leaky presented the mace to Dr. Bruce, who represented the original owners. This act was done in compliance with the wishes of the United States Congress but the thought back of it, originated with the American President.

The Lieutenant-Governor requested the admiral to convey to Mr. Roosevelt, on behalf of all Canadian citizens, the utmost appreciation for their noble action. Dr. Bruce stressed the fact that the peace which has held two neighboring nations together for over twelve decades is surely a shining example to the world at large. The mace was received as an expression of goodwill and for a time will be placed on view in the arms department at the Ontario Museum.

Two memorial tablets were presented to Mayor Stewart as symbols of brotherhood. Mrs. W. G. Lumbers, Regent of the Municipal Chapter of the I.O.D.E., presented the tablet in memory of the defenders of Fort York. Mrs. Robert J. Johnston, honorary President of the National Society, United States Daughters of 1812, presented the tablet contributed by the society, to the memory of General Pike and all those in the American service, who fell in battle at that time. Mrs. Johnston reminded us of that mutual understanding brought about by Charles Bogot, the Governor-General of Canada and Mr. Rush, the Secretary of U. S.—in which it was decided there should be no warships on the Great Lakes. She also stated that, not bullets, but goodwill and peace across the longest boundary line in the world.

Mayor Stewart accepted these tablets with sincere thankfulness, voicing the hope that the arms of these two great nations would ever be pointed towards a common foe and never towards each other. Mr. Stewart also declared that the American ship in the Toronto Bay was an instrument which could be used as a power for destruction but instead on this mission was a power for goodwill.

The tablet dedicated to General Pike and his soldiers, was unveiled by Dr. Bruce, who stated that the ceremony recalled "historic events which shaped the whole course of development on this continent and determined its destiny." He also stated that it is the hope of the Canadian people that this peace will be perpetuated. Thus did our official representative remove the stars and stripes from the tablet.

Hon. W. D. Robbins, in unveiling the tablet in memory of the defenders of York, who fell during the skirmish mentioned the fact that victory or defeat were forgotten and only the unselfishness and sacrifice of the men of two countries, were remembered. The offspring of these brave men fought side by side in the world war. Mr. Robbins wished it to be remembered that the spirit of fair play and the wish for forgiveness was paramount in the unveiling of this symbol, as he withdrew the Union Jack from across its face.

Following these closing words, the buglers of the Toronto Regiment and United States Infantry bands, sounded their respective versions of the Last Post. Mayor Stewart asked that a few moments of silent meditation with bowed heads, be given in respect for the dead.

Brief addresses were given by representatives from various states and it was unanimously regarded as a day which would go down in history, as one given to international brotherhood.
