The game was replete with thrills and tension ran high in the third period when the red light flashed for the eighth time to put Markdale on an even footing four to four. The goal was disallowed however, the goal umpire claiming that the puck had gone out through a hole in the back of the church attendance during the year. net, but he was over-ruled by the referee. Owen Sound made it certain a few minutes later by another year of winning the shield presentfine effort to round the defence and beat Dundas from close in. The Owen Sound lads showed more finish around the nets and cashed in on more of their scoring opportunities.

The Black Hawks and Rocklyn Won Friday

Death came very unexpectedly, at er a long illness, to David Squire Halbert, at Freeport hospital or Sunday evening, February 10th. In his 31st year, he was the son of Mrs. late Robert Halbert, of Mono Mills. Two brothers predeceased him number of years ago, one brother Joseph, being killed in action in Ocober, 1918, shortly before the closof the War.

The late Mr. Halbert came to Or angeville from Mono Mills at the age of 16 years and entered the employ of the late Jos. H. Hulse, funeral director, and while with him worked for and obtained his degree of licensed embalmer and funeral director. From Orangeville he went to Meaford and finally started in business for himself in Chatsworth and later in Owen Sound, where he was identified with Central United Church. His last employment, which he was forced to give up on account of ill-health, was with W. C. Town Oshawa, and while here he was a member of King Street United
