Farewell to Rev. J. G. White

The Rev. and Mrs. White of the Anglican parish, in which the Centre is situated, were entertained to supper on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Farley. Later in the evening a goodly number of parishioners joined them in spending a social time which included the playing of familiar games. During an interlude Mr. George Hanna read the following address:

Dear Rev. and Mrs. White,—We, the members of St. Mark's congregation, have gathered here to-night to extend to you our good wishes for a delightful and prosperous sojourn in your new parish.

Your magnanimous natures have endeared you to the hearts of all your congregation. Those who by sickness were unable to attend church and hear your comforting and inspiring sermons have always been delighted and solaced by your frequent visits. Your lives have always been a living example of what a true Christian should be and we can only hope that we may, in some degree, be able to follow in the way that you have led.

It was with deepest regret that we learned that the Bishop had seen fit to move you to a new parish. But our regret was savoured with joy when we learned that your duties would be lighter there.

We know that we are losing, not only a conscientious and loving pastor, but also a true friend. We ask you now to accept this gift as a token of the esteem in which you are held by the St. Mark's congregation. Matthew Farley, William Erwin.

Mr. Farley then made the presentation of a purse and both Rev. and Mrs. White feelingly voiced their appreciation of the gift and their regrets at leaving the parish.

Lunch was served and the party broke up after the singing of "For they are jolly good fellows".
