

C. R. Itic and Party Kill Big Jack Rabbit

Dear Readers.—I took another ramble on the snow shoes on Saturday last and this time in company with Bert Metcalf. I tried to get Joe Richardson and Ed. Colgan to go along but they were both afraid to tackle another trip. When I asked Bert if he would like to go out to see Jerry McAssey he said "sure, as I understand he has some alfalfa that he wants to sell". We got off early in the afternoon and made good time. Bert can handle himself pretty well on the shoes and we had no trouble. After passing Barrhead we took across the D'Arcy and Wilson farms and soon landed at Jerry's place. He is pretty badly used up with rheumatism but was glad to see us. I hope he will be able to overcome his trouble and be restored to good health. Bert bought the hay he had to sell and we lit out for home again.

When we got into the bush on the McKechnie farm I noticed a big jack rabbit gnawing at a tree. It was so intent on its work that I was right up to it before it saw me. Just then

I noticed a gun lying beside it and looked about for the owner. The boot tracks ended at the tree where the rabbit had been at work and on looking up I discovered Jack Johnston perched on a big limb and in another tree close by Gordon Fraser. They had been chased by the jack and in order to get away from him were compelled to climb trees. Bert grabbed the gun and knocked the rabbit over just as he was about to tackle me. With Fraser's big knife the four of us were able to put the monster to death. I heard since that the two lads got Amos McClung to bring it in on the sleigh on Monday. Be that as it may they were mighty glad to escape.

Bert and I were home in time for supper and the little woman was not any too well pleased because I didn't bring a piece of the rabbit along. It was a dandy and must have made a great feed for the other two chaps. Don't say anything to Jack or Gordon about this as I promised not to tell you people about the affair.

I'm getting all set for the big ski meet on Sunday next and am getting Ben Walden to make me a pair of gliders. I'll be telling you about it next week.

BERKELEY

We congratulate Mrs. F. Stafford on the celebration of her 88th birthday this month and we are glad to say she is enjoying good health.

Miss McConnell returned on Monday to Dundalk after visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Walker, for a few weeks.

Mrs. Nesbitt of Dundalk visited her son, Mr. Norman Cook, and family over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Middleton moved into the Beighton house in the village last week.

Sorry to report Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson not enjoying very good health.

Don't forget to come and bring your friends to the Euchre and dance in the Orange Hall on Friday night.

HOLLAND CENTRE

The choral class held a social evening in the Town Hall on Monday night. After the usual practice games were indulged in and lunch served. A very enjoyable evening was reported by all who attended. The class is under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Buzza of Owen Sound. Mr. Carson Wheelton, our local butcher, is cutting and storing ice for the coming summer.

Miss Mary Cameron of near Berkeley has returned home after spending some time with Mrs. Jas. Kennifick, who has been ill, at St. Mark's. Miss Ida Erwin, who has been helping in the Price home, has returned home on account of illness.

We notice that glass windows were practically unknown in the homes of pioneer Canadians. Oiled paper was the substitute. It might be better if we had less glass windows these stormy days.

Mr. Edward Beatty of near Holford was a recent caller in the village.

We are sorry to note Miss Mary Hamilton of the Backline had the misfortune to fall in the kitchen while at her household duties and fractured her thigh. Her many friends will regret to hear of this and we wish her a speedy recovery.

We note that in 1836-37 railroads and locomotives were first introduced into Canada. Horses were used for a time as locomotive power. Our modern railway and locomotive may have trouble enough if old man winter still keeps sending us snow.

Mr. Garry Woyce is helping cut wood at the Quinn farm near St. Mark's.

Another set of picture slides will be shown in the Church here on Tuesday evening.

Just a month from Friday spring begins. Sounds good.

Miss Enid Bull of the Toronto teaching staff visited at her parental home recently.

Mr. R. L. Stephen, with Messrs. Percy Sims, Bert Adams and A. C. Stewart went to Toronto Monday to participate in the big bonspiel. In their first game they were defeated by a Barrie rink and in the second by Stouffville.

Extra men are being employed by the C. P. R. to clear the tracks of snow. Quite a number have already put in a few days and it looks as though more snow will have to be removed before spring arrives. It's a cold wind which does not blow good for some person.

The local curlers have just completed a competition in which a rink captained by Mr. R. L. Stephen were the winners. Another competition is being arranged in which thirteen rinks will compete. They have had a good season's sport with splendid ice during the whole season.

Thirty-two years ago this branch of the C. P. R. was tied up for nineteen days by a snow blockade. There was a tremendous amount of snow fell that winter and the banks along the railway lines were much higher than at the present time. This may be considered a real winter but there have been predecessors which still hold the record.
