Time - The Ten Commandmen were given in 1498 B.C. The words from Luke were spoken durin November or December, A.D., 29; the First Epistle of Paul to Timothy was written A.D. 65.
Place - The Ten Commandments were given from Mount Si i. The words taken from Luke were spoken in Peraea on the eas ern side of the Jordan River. It i not known exactly where Timothy was when he received this lette 17. Thou shalt not covet thy cover the neighbor's wife, nor his man-servant, nor his maid-servant, nor his ox. nor his ass, nor an ing that is thy neighbor's. This with slight variations, in Deut. 5 21. There is one great distinction between the laws of other people nd the Hebrew code as found i the Decalogue, namely, that among no other people do we find a law against covetousness. The con mandment "Thou shalt not covet sses beyond the domain of civi real of motive, desire and thought, where God alone is Lord and also essential meaning is "to set the heart on." very literally, "to pant fter." The sin, therefore, suggested by the word is very evidently hat of desire to possess something which belongs to another.

The Root of All Sin Covetousness includes in its own scope all social life. Out of disobedence to this command will spring sins that break every law written upon the second table of the law. The whole realm of human interrelation is disorganized and broken up by the dishonoring of the tenth commandment. Luke 12:13-21. 13. And one out of the multitude said unto him, Teacher, bid my brother divide the inheritance with me. This man's thing for him, not the teaching o

who made me a judge or a divider self as a rival to the magistrates o

15. And he said unto them. Take heed, and keep yourselves from all covetousness. For a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth. What our Lord was continually emphas izing was the life of a man; not what he possessed, but what he was. He came that we might have life, and that we might have it more abundantly. He declared tha life never consists of the things which one has, but of the things which one possesses in one own 16. And he spake a parable unte tain rich man brought forth plenti fully: 17. and he reasoned within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have not where to be stow my fruits? 18. And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my grain and my goods. Our Lord is about to illustrate the evil consequences of the sin of covetousness by one of his most remarkable parables (a parable found only in the Gospel of Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, be merry. Cf. 1 Cor. 15: others who may be in need. He says nothing about increasing his gifts to God, if he was giving anything to God. 20. But God said unto him. Thou foolish one. This night is thy soul required of thee. And the things which thou has prepared, whose shall they be? Truly Rich 21. So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God. Cf. Matt. 6:19; 2 Cor. 12

1. Tim. 6:6-8. G. But godliness with contentment is great gain. Paul tells us that true gain in life is found in godliness itself, together with contentment. The word rendered "contentment" signifies that elevation of soul above external earthly conditions which comes from a consciousness of God's pre-

we shall therewith be content. Pro-bably the word here translated "covering" refers also to the shelter of the home in which we live. 1. Tim. 6:9, 10. 9. But they that are minded to be rich. Fall into a temptation and a snare. And man foolish and hurtful lusts. The de sires in question are hurtful be cause they hinder true happiness Such as drown men in des and perdition. Those who set their hearts on being rich become involved in the meshes of wordlines: and sin; their movements are se fettered by cares and inordinate desires, and by artificial wants, that they are no longer free men. 10. SYNOPSIS: Boys Town is a refuge for boys, founded by Father Flanagan (Spencer Tracy). One of the newcomers is Whitey (Mickey Rooney) sent there by his gaugster brother. Whitey is belligerent and quarrels with everyone except six-year-old Pee-wee, who adores him. One day Whitey decides to campaign for the mayoralty of Boys Town, a "fat job" he calls it. BOYS TOWN

"A lousy joint?". "I didn't mean it. Say something, Pee-wee."

Suddenly, Whitey hears someone calling to him.
It is Per-wee, following him down the road. The little fellow begs him not to go but Whitey tells him to scram. Blinded by tears, Per-wee moves away and fails to see an approaching car. There is a horrible squeal of brakes and then all at once, there is Per-wee's unconscious figure in the road. Sobbing, Whitey picks him up.

"Pee-wee, lad, Pll keep the candy on tap."

A few moments later, Father Flanagan comes running down the hill with some of the boys. They all gather around Whitey, feeling that the accident is his fault. He hangs around for a while, trying to get into Pee-wee's hospital room but no one except Father Flanagan is allowed there. Now Whitey feels that there is no place in Boys Town for him. He starts off down the read

"Listen kid. Remember. No squawkin'."

Whitey is walking about aimlessly in the night. Suddenly, he hears a noise. A bank is being held up. The bandits dart out of the building and to Whitey's amazement, one of them is his older brother Joe. He calls out and suddenly one of the other gangsters fires. Whitey falls to the ground writhing, a bullet in his leg. Don't miss reading the powerful concluding evisade.
