Word of Precaution

· Keep Up the Milk Flow

With the price of grain low, and prospects fo uigher Cream prices, it is wise to keep up the flow of milk, which is often affected to a great extent by leaving milk cows out one or two cold nights. It is wise to stable the cows these cold nights, and we feel that you will be well paid for your trouble.

Owing to the natural decrease in production may we suggest that you sell your entire supply of cream to the home creamery, thereby saving unnecessary overhead, particularly when help is get ting scarce on account of Army Service.
