Fur Farmer Buys Several New Animals

Mr. Frank C. Eagles, owner of the Springhill Fur Ranch, a few weeks ago purchased a few new animals called the "South American Beaver" or Nutria, to add another line to his fur ranching business. These animals are rather large, weighing about 25 pounds each and are of a dark brownish shade with a flat tail like the Canadian Beaver. They have beautiful finished fur, which is becoming very popular for the fur market and is receiving a large demand. They are strictly vegetarian and are prolific breeders, raising at least two families a year.

These animals are kept in large pens like foxes, and do not require a pond of water like our Beaver, but do need a plentiful supply of clean cold water during the summer, which is easily available from the springs on Mr. Eagles' ranch. They are a very quiet and easily handled animal, which makes it possible to let them run, if necessary, inside a guard fence at the ranch.—Flesherton Advance.

New System For Grading Eggs On March 1st

Eggs are getting into the white collar class of farm products. They will soon be afloat from vegetables, feeds and other products. In other words, with the establishment of a system of registered egg grading stations, as instituted under the recently adopted amendments to the egg grading regulations the marketing of eggs in Canada enters a new and improved phase. Eggs in future will be graded and packed according to Canadian Standards in registered grading stations only. These stations must comply with certain standards as to grading facilities, qualification of graders, and suitability of the premises for the proper candling of eggs. Each case of eggs must be identified by the registration number of the station. Provision is made for producers to grade their own eggs and to market them either in wholesale or retail channels or direct to the consumer.

A feature of registered egg grading stations is the requirement that they be operated in reasonably cool premises. Many producers in the past, realizing the importance of cool temperatures in preserving egg quality, have cooled eggs on their farms only to find the eggs handled in warm temperatures in the premises of the middle man. Operators of registered egg grading stations are asked to maintain a temperature on their premises at a point not higher than 67 degrees Fahrenheit.

There are other advantages of these stations. Under the old scheme, opinion was sometimes expressed that grading was done by persons not properly equipped or qualified. Under the new system, with qualified and properly equipped graders being responsible for all the grading of eggs for sale in Canada, many of the difficulties experienced by producers will be obviated. Another benefit will be that a more uniformly graded and packed product will be placed on the market. In the past, the marketing of a certain quality of improperly graded eggs, particularly in the larger terminal markets, has had an actively adverse effect on prices. Improperly graded eggs offered on those markets have sold at discounts and the lower prices established by the discounts have often tended to become the market basis. The quantity of improperly graded eggs on terminal markets will become progressively less as the principle of registered grading stations becomes gradually established, and the entire market will benefit as a result.

The result of the above will be that the old system will be entirely eliminated. No longer will it be possible to take eggs to the store and get a credit on the grocery bill. It means that some dealers will go out of the business of handling eggs altogether. Just who in Alliston will set up the facilities for handling eggs is not yet certain but they will help make themselves known before the new regulations come into effect.

egg grading centres will likely be made in these columns in the next week's issue of the Standard.

Soldier Brothers Write

Camp Sussex, Sussex, N.B., Feb. 2, 1941.

Editor, Markdale Standard, Markdale, Ont.

Dear Sir,—
May we be granted a little space in your interesting paper to pass on to your readers a little news about the locality in which we are stationed.

In a long valley surrounded by hills, on the north bank of the Kemebecasis River, our camp is situated. Across the river, which is about the size of the Saugeen, is the town of Sussex. Sussex is a little larger than our own Markdale. It is in the dairy centre of the Maritimes, being situated half-way between St. John and Moncton, which are about forty-five miles on either side. The town itself is quite neat and prosperous, most of the buildings being frame.

We have more snow than Ontario, while the temperature often runs below zero and remains there for a few days. The climate is subject to quite sudden changes, often going from one extreme to the other.

We wish in closing, to thank you very much for sending us your paper. We always look forward to The Standard coming with the news of our Markdale friends. Your paper does a great deal to shorten the distance between you and us.

Sincerely Yours,
Gars. G. L. and T. W. Thompson.

Chas. Lincoln Hears From Brother In England

Mr. Chas. Lincoln, who resides at Kimberley, received the following letter recently from his brother in England:

Dear Charlie,—
Thank you for your interesting letter and pretty card which arrived on New Year's Day.

After I had answered your last letter I lost your address and so could not send you a line for Christmas. I hope that the enclosed gloves will reach you safely with this letter and will be of use to you. They accompany my best wishes for 1941.

Now please do not send me any little present later on as you say you will do. It is kind of you to think of doing so but it is very likely that it will be lost and that I won't get it. Liverpool, the port at which your letters arrive is often disorganized by air raids. One of my assistants lives there and she arrived home for the Christmas holidays in the middle of the worst raid they had had there. She arrived at 6 p.m. She lived a few miles out of the town; but after walking nine miles in the rain, which lit up the black out, she arrived at a house of a friend at 11 o'clock. The next day being Sunday, after Mass she started the five remaining miles home and arrived in late afternoon because of disorganization of traffic. She says that the Liverpool people are marvelous. Nothing scares or upsets them—the women, particularly. Those bombed out of their homes are cheerful and uncomplaining.

I helped at the Billeting Centre here and I thought the evacuees were marvellous. Many of them came from London with nothing but the clothes they stood up in. They did not complain or show signs of being upset. And yet their stories which I was obliged to ask for, were heart-rending. Some had not only lost all their homes and belongings but had seen their children and other relations killed before their eyes.

They have started a communal feeding centre here in Friar St., at which 1000 meals can be cooked at one time. The food is sold at cost price, as all the service is given free. I help there on Monday evenings. The other members of our staff help on other evenings. It is a great boon to evacuees who can get a cooked meal for about the price they would pay for the food uncooked. The trouble with them is that they have not means of cooking for themselves where they are lodging.

I dreaay you remember George Hamblin. He got married last week; so also did Joe Farr, but I don't suppose you remember him.

When are you getting married? Perhaps you have not met the right one yet. Most of those you were at school with are married and one of our girls, who left only two years ago, married an R.A.F. man of 27 last week.

We have been very lucky in Reading as far as air raids are concerned. Only a few bombs have fallen here and they killed no one but a horse and a cow.

We are still keeping summer time, which I suppose you remember we had from April to October before the war. In April clocks were put forward an hour and put back in Good night and many thanks."

Well I have no more news. I have not heard of casualties among our old boys except that Edward Herbert is a prisoner of war in Germany. Most of the boys join the R.A.F. or the Navy.

German planes are making a great noise overhead. They sound a lot too near to be safe. They are flying lower this evening it seems. Anyway, if you get this you will know that they have not bombed Carnarvon Road as I shall not be posting this until to-morrow.

I am more than glad that you are keeping up your religion. It is a good thing too that you belong to Culture Societies. You will get a good deal of interesting news and many ideas that way.

Well, with renewed good wishes that you may have blessings and opportunities in 1941.

Yours Sincerely,

Royal Scarlet Chapter Holds Installation Ceremony

The annual meeting of the Royal Scarlet Chapter of Walters Falls was held in the Orange Hall at Walters Falls on Tuesday, Jan. 21st. A good turnout of officers and companions were present. Companion Russell Dixon took the chair in the absence of the W.C. in C.
Bro. McMillan of L.O.L. No. 67, Bognor, was duly advanced into the Royal Scarlet Chapter. General business was discussed and the auditors' report showed a good balance on hand.

The following officers were duly elected and installed to their respective offices for the current year: P.C. in C., William Lemon. W.C. in C., Wilnot Clarke. E.C. in C., Mac Gardiner. Chaplain, Rev. H. R. Rokeyby-Thomas.

Scribe, Albert Gowan. Treasurer, E. W. Quinton. Marshall, Alvin Norton. 1st Lecturer, Howard Connell. 2nd Lecturer, Walter Lemon. 1st Conductor, Robert Dixon. 2nd Conductor, Clare Walter. Herald, John Lemon. Sentinel, James Hanna.

Short and very timely addresses were given by all newly elected officers.

Vandeleur Girls' Club

The Vandeleur Girls' Club held their January meeting at the home of Miss Irene Fawcett. It was opened by singing the theme song and repeating the Lord's prayer in unison. There were ten members and five visitors present and the roll call was answered by giving "A Prayer". Letters of thanks for treats received were read.

It was decided that the members make another quilt and tickets be sold on it.

The program followed with a paper by Dora Boland on "Courtesy"; a solo by Dorothy Kello, "Carry On"; a humorous reading by Miss Bowman and a contest put on by Pauline Hutchinson and won by Hazel Morrison and Doreen Boland. Hazel Morrison and Doreen Boland. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by the lunch committee.

In the morning and at one time the "black out" went on until 8.45 a.m. Consequently children cannot see to school before 9.30 a.m.

An A.R. warning has just gone, so I have been out to call in our cat. He came running home when he heard the sirens. They make a moaning noise; so many people call them "Moaning Minnie". I wonder where the planes are going now? They generally pass over Reading on their way. Last night we had a warning at 6 p.m.; "an all clear" at 8; another warning at 9; another "all clear" at 10.30; another warning at 11.15 and the "all clear" did not go until 6.15 a.m.

They bombed the west of England and dropped a few bombs near here enroute. I counted four, which seemed to drop a few miles away, probably at Arborfield which is a great military objective nowadays. It is very cold here also. But we have not had snow like you.

We sometimes give lifts to soldiers. Last Sunday we brought two Canadians from Wokingham to Reading. They said that they found our weather much worse than the Canadian winters because our cold weather is damp as well, but in Canada they said it is dry cold, which is invigorating.

My assistant master is in the R.A.F. Meteorological Office. He told me that he felt thrilled the first evening he read in the weather signs that a storm was coming and was then told to call home all the aeroplanes in a certain area. This he did in code and when the last plane landed in from Malta just before the storm broke, the pilot said, "Good night and many thanks."

Well I have no more news. I have not heard of casualties among our old boys except that Edward Herbert is a prisoner of war in Germany. Most of the boys join the R.A.F. or the Navy.

German planes are making a great noise overhead. They sound a lot too near to be safe. They are flying lower this evening it seems. Anyway, if you get this you will know that they have not bombed Carnarvon Road as I shall not be posting this until to-morrow.

I am more than glad that you are keeping up your religion. It is a good thing too that you belong to Culture Societies. You will get a good deal of interesting news and many ideas that way.

Well, with renewed good wishes that you may have blessings and opportunities in 1941.

Yours Sincerely,

John Lawson

Word was received here on Friday last of the death that day of Mr. John Lawson of this place. In September, with Mr. A. L. Walker also of Markdale, Mr. and Mrs. Lawson had gone to Branford to spend the winter months with Mr. R. C. Walker. About three weeks ago he fell on an icy walk breaking his hip bone. Since that time he had been in the hospital.

The late Mr. Lawson was a native of this locality and nearly fifty years ago was married to Miss Jennie Donnelly of Markdale who now survives. They resided here for a few years and then about forty years ago moved to Owen Sound. About five years ago they returned to Markdale. During his residence in Owen Sound Mr. Lawson was active in the work of Knox Church being an elder and a teacher in the Sunday School. He was a man of sterling qualities and was held in the highest esteem by a wide circle of friends.

In May 1898 he was initiated into Saugeen Lodge No. 327, I.O.O.F., and continued his membership during the years. At his death he was longer in membership than any other member.

The remains were brought here and the funeral took place from the Oliver Funeral Parlour on Monday afternoon to Markdale Cemetery. Rev. S. E. Annis had charge of the services in the parlour and at the Mortuary Chapel. Members of the Odd Fellows' Lodge acted as pallbearers, namely: W. J. Howard, Harry Shaw, W. S. Perkins, B. H. Walden, Robt. Down and A. O. Gillespie. The Odd Fellows' burial service was read by the officers of Saugeen Lodge.

Besides the relatives from Branford a number of old friends and neighbours were present from Owen Sound.

Wm. J. Russell

Dundalk lost one of its most highly esteemed business men on Sunday afternoon as death came to Wm. J. Russell at his home there. He passed away due to a heart condition although he had suffered a prolonged illness of several years.

The late Mr. Russell had been closely related to the business life of Dundalk for the past 38 years. He began his business in an implement shop and a few years later in the hardware and harness business in partnership with his brother. He withdrew from this business and for a few years operated a garage. Then he entered the grocery and feed business in which he was also successful until ill health compelled his retirement.

Deceased was born in Osprey township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Russell. He came to Dundalk in 1903 and that was when he began as one of Dundalk's leading business men. He served on the village council for seven years and was reeve in 1919.

Along with a host of friends that are left to mourn he is survived by his wife, the former Lottie Perkins, and by an adopted son, Leslie Russell of Toronto. He has three brothers also surviving, R. J. Russell and E. K. Russell of Dundalk and John Russell of Saskatoon, Sask.; also there are two sisters, Mrs. C. H. Fenwick and Mrs. Emerson Richardson, both of Toronto.

Deceased was a respected member of the United Church and had served on the board of stewards for several years.

The funeral took place on Tuesday at Dundalk. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Acheson and Mrs. Jack Perkins of this place were in attendance at the funeral.
