Japan's War of Conquest A Daring Adventure, Says The New York Times

A small boy who was asked to describe the Pacific Ocean did so by writing on his examination pathe simple sentence: "The Pacific Ocean is vast." How vast 11 is few of us realize. The foreshortened maps are published to show in detail the relationships b tween the archipelagoes and the peninsulas of the Western Pacific and the China Sea ineritably tend to create a false impression that Japan's offensive against Singapore and the Dutch East Indies is being conducted in her own back yard. In a sense it is; but it is an enormous back yard.

Becaus ethe Far Eastern theatre ant to think it is very close to Japan, forgetting that our thinking is based on relative rather than actual distances. The Pacific is so big in fact, that islands situated at great distances from us do not have to be very close to Japan. For instance, Australia and New Zealand seem upon a casual glance at a map to be almost as close together as Jamaica and Cuba, yet it is a fact that they are sev eral days apart by fast steamships And Singapore, the main objective of Japan's extensive operations in the Western Pacific, is 3,300 miles from Tokyo, about the same as the distance from New York to Lon-

In undertaking a war of conquest so far from home, Japan has em-barked on a daring and perilous adventure. The task of keeping open her lines of communications to her distant battlefronts is one which will keep her naval forces busy. And always, as long as British and American sea power ex ists, those lines are threatened.

Canada Curtails Auto Production

New Order Direct Result of Shortage of Strategic Raw Materials

Clarification of a sweeping government order under which passenger automobil production in Can ada will be stonned within the next three months is expected to be given shortly by motor vehicles controller J. H. Berry.

Under the plan, Munitions Minister Howe announced manufacture will be discontinued as soon as existing inventories of aiready fabricated parts are assembled-by the end of March or early in April. Monthly production rate, mean while, must be reduced to one-half the 1941 output.

Mr. Howe also announced that creation of a "pool" of new pass-enger automobiles for emergency purposes will begin at once.

These veicles will be made available only upon obtaining a permit from the motor vehicles controller, and will be released only to individuals whose duties are of an essential nature and who require an automobile to perform them.

The new order was described as a direct result of an acute shortage of steel, rubber, and other strategic raw materials. "No further restrictions have as yet been imposed on truck produc-tion." the statement said.

Truck output was brought under last month in an order limited 1942 production of trucks under 10,000 pounds gross rating to 50 per cent of the 1941 total and trucks of 10,000 pounds gross and more to the number produced last year.

Huge Newsprint Shipment to U.S.

Canada's pulp and paper indus try will ship approximately $200,000,000 worth of newsprint and pulp to the United States this year, according to Harold Crab-tree, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. a recent address to the Toronto Graphic Arts Association, Mr. Crabtree said the shipment would bring much needed funds to Can ada, which will, in turn, be used for the purchase of armaments from the United States.

Time.—The spring of A.D. 27.
Place.—A wilderness, probably on the west side of the Jordan, though its location is not defin-Satan's Desire

1. "To be tempted of the evil." Satan's deep and constant desire, as the enemy of God, is to thwart God's purposes, to prevent God from saving men. and to make it impossible for the Kingdom of God to be fulfilled.

2. "And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he afterward hungered." We should always bear in mind that our Lord's temptation occurred imme-Lord's temptation occurred immediately after His baptism, that is, immediately after the hour He was officially anointed by the Holy Spirit to undertake his great ministry. The number forty frequently recurs in the scriptures in relation to circumstances not altogether dissimilar from this event.

3. "And the tempter came and said unto him. If thou art the son of God, command that these stones become bread." The tempter puts the matter in this form in order to invite Jesus to establish the fact by a miracle and in order to intimate that he certain-ly has the right thus to satisfy his hunger. Jesus was tempted to work a miracle in order to relieve his hunger. But he never performed miracles merely for his own benefit; they were all wrought to do good to others, and to attest his divine mission.

4. "But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." In each of the three temptations, Christ answers by quoting a passage from the Old Testament Scriptures. What is this word of God which we are to flash through all falsehood like the thrust of a gleaming sword? It is the word of divine truth; it is the word of divine promise, laying God's strengthening comfort upon the heart. Note carefully that the moment Christ wields the Word of God, Satan ceases a particular temptation.

5. "Then the devil taketh him into the holy city; and he set him on the pinnacle of the temple, 6. and saith unto him. If thou art the Son of God, cast thyself down; for it is written, He shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and, on their hands they shall bear thee up, Lest haply thou dash thy foot against a stone." Jesus stands on the lofty pinnacle of the Tower, or of the Temple porch. He is surveying the scene and by his side is the tempter, watching him. This was the time to act upon his trust. But so to have done would have been not trust-far less the heroism of faith-but presumption. Such temptation as was here presented to our Lord can occur in our own lives. Unity of Scripture

"Jesus said unto him, Again it is written. Thou shalt not make trial of the Lord thy God." Once again our Lord turns to the arm-ory of the Word of God. Only we enter into the unity of Scriture, as it balances, completes and explains itself, are we armed against error and delusion, excess

8. "Again, the devil taketh him tain, and showeth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them: 9. and he said unto him, all these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me." The one thing that Satan wanted was so simple to state yet so vast in its implications, namely that Jesus should fall down and worship him. Whom we worship, we serve. By howing down we submit to the one before whom we throw ourselves pros-trate. Should Jesus have bowed his knee to this monster of iniquity, then he would have come under Satan's power.

Two Principles "Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." This passage reveals the two fundamental principles dominant in our Lord's life, namely; an intimate knowledge of what the will of God is in any particular crisis of life, and, secondly, a determination to adhere to the will of God, no matter what the cost might he. When these two principles are dominate in the life of any believer, that life is safe from collapsing in the hour of temptation; that life will be one constant triumph, increasing strength and of abiding joy.

Russia's Second Line of Defense

The enthusiasm and skill of the Russian workers, who form the second line of the great Russian army pushing back the German troops, has been paid tribute to by a British broadcaster. Describing the setup of the Russian army he said that immediately behind the front line army there was the engincering and technical department, the railworker gangs and groups of others whose job it is to get into working order all means of communication, railway stations. bridges, and the most essential ser-

"They call them second line soldiers and they are filled with the same high spirit as their brothers in front of them," said the speaker. "The railways are put in order with a speed that is almost unbe lievable. In one very important spot, half a mile of destroyed rail-way lines were repaired in three hours. At an important junctio work was carried on day and night. Fires were lit to give light and warmth for the men working on the trains and other equipment. Interminable supply columns move steadily along.

"Behind the technical and supply departments, come the people who used to live in the villages and towns. They came back most of them to find their homes destroyed or their property stolen. Government committees are there to give immediate assistance and within two or three weeks life begins to return to normal."

Dog-No Asthma No Dog-Asthma

Scientists may — and do — snicker in their beards all they please, but here is J. R. Mosley's story and he's sticking to it:-Five years ago Mosley, suffer-ing from asthma, borrowed a Mexican chihuahua from a friend and gave it the run of the house. His asthma disappeared.

But the friend's asthma returned, so Mosley had to return the dog. Between -asthmatic gasps, he ordered a chihuahua gasps, he or from Mexico.

The dog arrived, and Mosley's asthma departed. But the dog died, and the asthma returned So he ordered still another chihuahua flown to Memphis.

Pfft — away went the asthma.
Then the new dog ran away.
Presto, asthma! The other day the chihuahua returned. Pronto, no asthma!

London's Subways Emergency Hotels

A London Transport Combine A London Fransport Combine report shows how the war has caused the company to convert its subway stations into virtual emergency hotels and restaurants. The report said that during the last year the company had given shelter to 16,000,000 persons (including repeaters) seventy-nine subway stations. It installed eight and a half miles of three-tier bunks—beds for 7,600 persons - and served eleven tons of food and 221,000 gallons of tea, cocoa and other beverages nightly during the peak of the German bombing.

SCOUTING

The latest call for salvage war service by the Boy Scouts is a request for the collection of bottle caps by Scouts as far east as Quebec City and Ontario as far west as Windsor. The caps, known by the trade as "crown corks" are needed both for metal and the cork lining.

A new Good Turn by the Boy Scouts of Canada for their bro-ther Boy Scouts of Britain is announced in the January issue of the official Dominion Scout publication, The Scout Leader. This is the supplying of Government Approved vegetable seeds, for use in British Scout Victory Gardens.

One of the outstanding forms of war service rendered by the Boy Scouts of Canada during 1941 was the "shore leave" camp maintained near Halifax, on the "Lone Cloud Scout Reserve" for the benefit of sailors of the con-voy fleet. Some 1,500 ratings from ships of all types were given several rest days ashore, for which the warmest appreciation was expressed by men and officers. In a number of cases appreciation took the additional form of a substantial donation from a ship's canteen fund, voted by the men themselves.

The sailors were accommodated in eight Adirondack snelters, an officers' but and a mess hall complete with galley. Three of the eight shelters were paid for re-spectively by the Canadian Gen-eral Council, the Scouts of Montreal and the Halifax Rotary Club. Contributions toward other shelters were made by a number of Scout Groups in different parts of the Dominion, and the balance of the building cost was taken care of by Halifax Dis-

The first party to visit the camp were men from an armed mer chantman, and these were followed from week to week by detachments from battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and a hospital ship. One mixed party comprised crewmen from Free French and British corvettes.

The men enjoyed themselves swimming, rowing, sailing, foot-ball and softball. Rather oddly, from the layman's point of view, rowing about the lake in fishermen's dories was a favoured sport. Tramping through the woods also was popular; and several of the sailors "lost their bearings" for some hours, but were found by search parties, none the worse for the experience.

Winston Churchill Values Punctuality

Premier Winston Churchill is one of the world's busiest men and to such men punctuality is a virtue.
