the casualties suffered by the nrmies of the British Empire in all the campaigns of 1940 and 1941 were suffered by United Kingdom troops.

To the five committees in which Canada and the United States previously have joined economic and military resources for the most efficient prosecution of North American war effort has been added a sixth, the most important of all, perhaps, in its ultimate bearing on United Nations victory.

It has been named the Joint War Aid Committee, United States-Canada, and through the medium of Cabinet committees at Ottawa and Washington, to all intents and purposes will direct and control the flow of surplusses from the vast arsenals and agricultural fields of the two nations. . . .

Chairmanned by an American, Major-General James H. Burns, Munitions Assignment Board, it is manned by Canadians and Americans, experts in the fields of military strategy, diplomacy, and munitions production. Its decisions while not to be law in themselves, will decide the course of action of Canadian and American Cabinet directing bodies in the disposition among United National Cabinet directing bodies in the disposition among United National Cabinet direction of supply. Billions and billions of dollars' worth of munitions and foodstuffs will be routed around the world on this committee's recommendations. Just how many bil-lions of dollars' worth of supplies no one at the Canadian capital cares to estimate. But Canada's Mutual Aid program alone in-volves a billion dolars' worth of supplies, and United States Lease-Lend schedules visualize distribution involving many more billions. . . .

The committee really consti-tutes a liaison between the two North American Governments—a body of experts to co-ordinate the various requests for aid of needy United Nations members. If a United Nations member asks Canada for machine guns, for instance, the committee will de-cide whether the need can best be filled out of Canadian or American stores and munitions plants; if a United Nations member asks for tanks, or aeroplanes, or guns, or wheat, the question of who will supply, and what country can best provide the ships, will be determined in the light of the knowledge and experience and appropriate the two nations. circumstances of the two nations.

Dr. H. H. Young, Swife & Co., chemist, declared that animal tissues, glands, inedible fats, hoofs, horns, bones, hides and wool "are going to war in many forms and packages."

The chemist said in an interview that in the field of phar-maceuticals, research has made what he described as astounding ingredients produced from meat developments, with many of the animals saving lives on the battle fronts.

He listed among these lecithin

in treating poisonous reptile bites and promoting blood clot-ting; intestines used in making sutures; and adrenalin, derived from suprarenal glands, which makes bloodless surgery possible.

A special soap necessary for synthetic rubber manufacture has come out of the meat indus-try laboratories and the chemist estimated 100,000,000 pounds eventually will be utilized annu-
