

Big Allied Victory No. 2 — R.A.F. In Sicily Campaign

Picture taken on an airfield taken over by the R.A.F. during the victorious Sicilian campaign. Captured airfields were put into service in a very short time, despite intensive "ploughing up" operations by the retreating enemy.

Picture shows: R.A.F. Servicing Commandos who are doing fine work in Sicily, going out to service a Spitfire on a newly captured airfield.

PITIFUL PLIGHT OF EUROPE'S WILD CHILDREN

Homeless and starved, subjected to unspeakable horrors by the invading "Supermen", fifty million vagabonds are devising astonishing ways of taking care of themselves. Ninon Tallon, former French newspaper woman, tells... in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (Jan. 9) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times... the tragic story of the suffering the roving children of Europe have endured.

Hitting the MARK

Suppose you threw a stone at a mark and missed it, what would you say? Would you say that there was no mark to hit, or that it couldn't be hit, or that the stone was so misshaped that it would not carry true to aim? Or would you be candid and say that the failure was due to your own lack of skill? And if you really wanted to hit the mark, would you make but a single throw? Would you not keep on trying until you hit the mark—probably as a consequence of improved skill in throwing stones?

Yet there are men who use advertising but once, and who, when the hoped-for results are not instantly obtained, declare that advertising is no good, or that the paper which carried the advertisement is no good.

Persistency and Skill Always Win
