Presentations To Young Couple At Rocklyn

At a gathering held in the Township Hall at Rocklyn on Tuesday, March 21st, friends and neighbors made a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gordon, recently married. The following address was read:

Dear Jean:

Our president has lost her daughter and New England W.I. has lost a valued member. We do not doubt that a good beginning for our address, but we members know that our president has not lost her daughter but has gained a son, and we feel sure the Institute has not lost a member. Experience has proven that girls brought to W.I. meetings from cradle days gain interest in that organization. So we say to you, keep up the good work as actively as you are able.

Since the Institute motto is "For Home and Country" we are glad to see a new home established and we trust you may have many happy years together and that this address may be over too soon to affect your home. We have no doubt we shall miss you from our meetings while gas rationing holds forth but "humble" is not so bad between Temple Hill and New England.

We ask you to accept this gift as a slight remembrance of the days we spent together and may it speak to you often of the Institute where you will always be welcome.

Our feelings may be expressed best by saying, God bless you and your husband in your new home and don't forget to come back to the old home often.

Signed on behalf of New England Women's Institute.

Rural Service Extensions in Wartime

War demands come first. Many of the materials needed in providing Hydro rural service, that are plentiful in peacetime, are now required in the manufacture of war weapons. Likewise, many trained Hydro men have taken up war duties in the Army, Navy and Air Force. This results in a shortage of manpower, materials and equipment.

Although working under great difficulties, created by these wartime conditions, Hydro will continue to provide essential rural services as rapidly as possible. However, it can be readily realized that with smaller construction crews, coupled with the scarcity of supplies, it is not possible for Hydro to effect extensions of power lines and services to farms as promptly or on the same scale as in peacetime.

Hydro will make every effort to provide service to the more essential farm and other rural users connected with the production and processing of food. Those farmers and other users requiring electricity to assist in the production of food and for the replacement of labour will be given preference. Farmers located along existing lines will be given priority over those in areas where lines must be constructed. In any case, only extensions of limited length can be considered. All other rural residents on new or existing lines will be supplied with Hydro service as and when conditions permit.

Hydro trusts that this, along with the previous messages, will enable rural consumers to more readily understand the new uniform Hydro rural rates and the influence of wartime shortages of manpower and materials on power extensions. Upon your request, further information on these matters will gladly be supplied by any Hydro Rural District Superintendent.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

This completes a series of messages explaining the new Rural Rates, and the problems of electric supply to farm and hamlet consumers served direct by The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario. We suggest you clip and keep these explanations.

Before you blame your telephone... CHECK THIS DISTANCE

Engineers designed the mouth-piece of your telephone to give best results at one-quarter of an inch from the lips. When your lips are farther away than this, your voice is transmitted less strongly . . . less clearly. Failure to remember these simple facts accounts for the great majority of "trouble" reports.

Help avoid needless service check-ups, and at the same time let those you talk to hear you without strain. Just remember: Talk clearly, normally, directly into the telephone, with your lips just one-quarter of an inch from the mouthpiece.

Smoking while you talk may cause distorted reception. It also prevents your voice from being heard as clearly as it should be. Don't "talk across" it.

If you need to read across your desk at you talk, hold the telephone in correct position, close to the lips.

A well set can't be too close to the lips. Free transmission, always keep your feet on the floor and close to the mouthpiece. Don't "talk across" it.
