The Farnette!

A farnette started out to work early one summer's morn. And every animal on the place soon wished they'd not been born.

The farmer and his wife and kids each climbed the nearest tree. That farmer thought a farmer's life was just one great, wild spree.

They asked her once to milk the cow. She knew just what to do—The more she tugged, the more she pulled.

She said she'd like to feed the pigs (No lessons she had taken) She came back riding on the sow And thus brought home the bacon.

The sheep she thought she'd tackle next. It really was a pity. The old ram chased her round the field And right back to the city.

She shook the hens to make them The eggs out by the dozen, The rooster crowed: "How do you do, My simple city cousin."

They set her then to thresh the grain. She didn't even wince. That boiler burst and that is why They haven't seen her since.

Here's A Pleasing Platter

When it's frosty on the outside, you'll want to serve something that warms the insides—a good hot meal to do justice to healthy appetites.

A sausage roll, surrounded by tender brussels sprouts, and sweet apple preserves, broiled to a turn, may be the menu you've been looking for. With a combination of old-fashioned substantiality and goodness, it's practically a guarantee that there won't be any food left on the platter by dessert.

Stuffed Sausage Roll
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup chopped onion
2 cups chopped raw apples
1 cup All-Brans
2 cups sausage meat

Combine apples, onions, crumbs and All-Brans to form dressing. Pat sausage into rectangular piece about 1/2-inch thick. Spread stuffing over surface of meat. Roll up like a jelly roll, beginning at the long side of rectangle so that roll will not be thick. Bake in shallow pan, in a moderate oven (350 F.) about 45 minutes, or until done. Cut in slices to serve.

Yield: 1 roll (8-10 servings).

All-Brans Stuffing
2 cups 1/2-inch bread cubes
1 cup All-Brans
3 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 cup stock or water

Combine bread cubes with All-Brans. Saute onion in fat and add to bread mixture. Add seasonings and stock which may be made by dissolving 2 bouillon cubes in 1/2 cup hot water. Mix well.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

The Quality Tea "SALADA" TEA

CHRONICLES of GINGER FARM

Black-out—a complete black-out—as real and impenetrable as anything that could offer. That was my experience the other night when I stayed overnight at my in-laws' in Toronto.

It happened this way. I was taking a bath, the rest of the family went to bed and had left a light on for me in my room. I knew this had been done, so I was through, I switched off the bathroom light, opened the door, and to my dismay, found myself confronted with complete darkness.

There was a glimmer of light anywhere. Even at that I wasn't alarmed because after all it was only a six-roomed apartment and I had only gone from the bathroom to my bedroom. I started feeling my way... I had to pass through the dining-room—the dining-table should be a guide. But being-table should be something hard and cold—metal of some kind.

"Now what on earth..." I thought. I went a little further. The time came in contact with something bristly—a whisk or a broom. Then the handle of something—either the stove or refrigerator. I was sure which, but I did as if you were going to faint. Now I ask you, is that any way for a loving couple to act? Shall I leave? If that is what is embarrassing you...

"Oh, no, don't," Peggy pleaded. If she were left alone Harry might come back. Then what would she do? Stanley threw his hands in the air. "It is too much for me," he announced, walking back in the sun-room.

"You simply have no imagination," Peggy told him. "In spite of all your theories, you are not coming back for his ring. Naturally he doesn't want to ask for it because he knows naturally I don't want it until I have the ring to give him. Now do you see?"

There was enough truth in this statement to make Peggy feel all sorts of things. Perhaps it would be better to ask the young man. Probably he could tell me more about it.

Sapphires and Diamonds

DOROTHY TROWBRIDGE

CHAPTER XIII
"I suppose you're right," he sighed, seating himself beside her. "Take one thing at a time. Well, let's hurry and get it over. Now let's see, a ring is lost. By the way, what kind of a ring is it?"

"Yes, so I have been told, but you needn't rub it in. What's all this big idea anyway about so much secrecy? If it's your engagement ring why pretend to your grandmother's Miss Nancy?"

"We can go into all that some other time," Peggy told him coldly. "Well, that's a help. At least it holds a promise for another time. Don't worry, I won't forget," he assured her. Of course all this was no way for a detective to find any trace of a ring, but Peggy realized that she was not meeting his eye because she knew she would laugh with him if she did. And she knew that would never do.

"Having progressed so rapidly, suppose you describe the aforementioned ring." He took an envelope and a pencil from his pocket and sat forward evidently prepared to write.

"It's a big diamond—a square cut one." "Oh, I see, a nice juicy square cut diamond." "Yes, no—wait a minute. It wasn't just a square cut diamond. There were some other stones with it—sapphires. Yes, I remember there were several sapphires."

"Where they in a kind of a design or—just there?" "Heavens! I don't know. You find any square cut diamond ring with some sapphires in it, and I'll give you a jeweller's window!"

Greece Completely Cleared of Germans

The Germans have been completely cleared from Greece, Allied headquarters announced recently.

R.A.F. pilots on reconnaissance flights reported they were unable to find any traces of the enemy who occupied the country early in 1941.

"Who is he?" he asked, a puzzled expression on his face. "Could he be the thief?" "Heavens, no!"

At her tone, he turned to her quickly. "You don't mean that he is the man to whom you are engaged?" "Peggy remained silent."

"Well, now, isn't that just dandy! This beloved fiancé who is to be only appears from behind a hedge and at the sight of me beats it. And as for you, instead of rushing to the arms of your lover, you utter a terrified squeal of 'Harry' and look as if you were going to faint. Now I ask you, is that any way for a loving couple to act? Shall I leave? If that is what is embarrassing you..."

"Oh, no, don't," Peggy pleaded. If she were left alone Harry might come back. Then what would she do? Stanley threw his hands in the air. "It is too much for me," he announced, walking back in the sun-room.

Exodus Halted

When Henry Ward Beecher was minister at Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, his brother agreed to fill the pulpit on a certain Sunday. The Christian Science Monitor relates. The house was packed, but when it was noticed that the regular minister would not preach, many of the audience rose to leave. "Father Tom," as the brother Beecher was known, assumed command of the situation and announced: "All those who came to worship this morning may depart at this time. The rest will stay to worship God." The exodus ceased, it is said.
