Speak up, North Grey, for EQUALITY OF SERVICE AND SACRIFICE

AND A FAIR DEAL TO THE FARMER

GARFIELD CASE

You spoke up before, when 87 out of every 100 of you voted in the plebiscite to clear the road for equality of service and sacrifice. You wanted it and you said "yes," but Mr. King's government ignored you with his half-measures in support of the armed forces. Now is your chance to say it again, with emphasis, by voting for Garfield Case—the one candidate in this election who insists that your wishes should be carried out. His is the only party with a clear and emphatic policy on reinforcements.

Garfield Case is also the only candidate who backs up Bracken, the farmer leader, in his demand that agriculture should enjoy a larger, fairer share of the national income. And he is the one candidate who is a North Grey man, pledged to present your case at Ottawa. Elect Garfield Case—and let outsiders run for Parliament at home where they are known.

"All those selected to serve in the Armed Forces should be available for service wherever required."

—John Bracken and the Progressive Conservatives

That plank was written into the Progressive Conservative platform at the party's inception in 1942. It is still there. Garfield Case is for it. He's against under-handed, coercive pressure. He's dead against attempting to fill the ranks of the Armed forces by unfair discrimination. He believes, with you North Grey electors, that it's long past time to call a halt to hedging half-measures and party expediency. He stands for all-out war to win all-out Victory—with service and sacrifice levied equally upon all. Garfield Case is with John Bracken all the way on this most vital issue.

"The right of farmers . . . to a fair share of the national income."

—John Bracken and the Progressive Conservatives

Garfield Case backs Bracken and the Progressive Conservative Party to the hilt on the urgent necessity of correcting "Canada's greatest social inequity"—the inferior economic position of almost one-third of the country's population, engaged directly or indirectly in agriculture. It is the responsibility of the nation and the determination of this party to "establish parity between farm prices and the cost of goods and services farmers must buy".

North Grey farmers receive no fanfare of acclaim for their vital production achievements . . . no medals, no mention in despatches. Yet their quiet loyalty to the unremitting task is the basic mainstay of armed forces and civilian life alike. It isn't easy—especially under staggering shortages of manpower and machinery—but North Grey farmers continue to meet the need.

Such efforts, both in war and peace, are entitled to a better reward—a higher standard of living. Garfield Case's voice is raised with that of all Progressive Conservatives to this end. John Bracken has already outlined the 30-point program of the Party designed to assure a reasonable standard of living for farmers. Ask your local party headquarters for a copy of this Progressive Conservative commitment. Put one more member into the House at Ottawa to implement this program. Elect Garfield Case, pledged to fight for prosperity on the farm as well as in the city.

Eggs

This year a heavy production of eggs is again expected and will be far greater than our home market can absorb. No doubt you all know that enormous quantities of eggs were exported to Great Britain last year in powder form to conserve shipping space. Now, the people of the British Isles would sooner have eggs in shell. Since this is our only available export market it is up to the producer and the shipper of eggs to give them the best possible product.

Since it takes considerable time for transit, the duty of the producer is to use every means to keep the eggs clean and to market as frequently as possible. Our duty is to put the eggs in the best possible containers to assure clean and safe arrival. Every egg has to be stamped by us with the word "CANADA" in order that its source will be known. In this way a future market, and we hope a permanent one, will be established for a good product.

Till further notice the Creamery will be closed Saturday nights
