

Looks like a bad cigaret shortage on Luzon when you see the gals pulfing away on huge, back cigars. But stogie-smoking by the ladies is a long-established Filipino custom. In photo, a soldier gives a light to one of the native laundresses who keep Yanks looking spruce.

Many Fine Cattle

Saved In Holland

Farmers will be delighted to know that many of the fine herds of cattle in Holland were rescued from drowning, when the dikes were opened and the land flood-ed. Allied troops risked their own lives to get some of the prize cattle out of the danger zones.

There are some magnificent cattle in Holland and Denmark.

The dairy farmers over there have specialized in raising only the best herds. They have found that quality products gain the best markets and they have insisted on having

Penicillin Saves Prize Guernsey

The suspense which has been hanging over Dell Farm at Hardwick, Mass, is now almost ended, it is reported, and sighs, moos and even bellows of relief can be fancied as resounding through that frozen segment of New England where young Caumpsett Spitifie, prize Guernsey bull, had been gasping under an oxygen tent for eleven days, the victim of pneu-monia, says The New York Her-ald Tribune. Although but a weak shadow of his former self—his proud figure attenuated because his daily diet has been restricted to half a dozen raw eggs and three quarts of hot oatmeal-Caumsett Spitfire is regarded by his attendant physician as being "vastly improved." This magnificent recovery is believed to be the result of large shots of penicillin - for

University Courses For Ex-Servicemen

Canada isn't the only country where the "no children" sign is Universities in Canada are planhung out by landlords. The other day a Spokane couple placed this want-ad in a Spokane paper: ning courses to meet almost every need of ex-servicemen who plan to "House Wanted, also cage, take advantage of the educational garage, shed or wherever two grants provided for them after the war, according to Dr. W. J. Dunlop, director of extension studies

The all-over Canadian program plans to insert a third term into the usual two-term year so that veterans may begin their studies in early spring, studying through the usual vacation period and thus fit themselves to continue their next year when the fall term opens, he said. Thus ex-servicemen will have the equivalent of the full four-year course before degrees are granted, with a saving of one year in time.
