

TANK BECOMES A FORT

From the house in the background of photo above, German snipers were popping off men of the First Army's famed 1st Infantry Division as they fought through St. Andreasburg, Germany. So up rolls a tank, swings broadside across the narrow street, and makes a nice little "fort" behind which our soldiers take cover, while the tank's cannon blasts away at the sniper-infested houses.

THIS WAS A KRUPP PLANT

FRENCH COMMANDER

Gen. Edgar de Larminat, above, commands French troops operating in southwest France in the vicinity of Bordeaux and the Gironde estuary. This is one of the "forgotten fronts" where large German garrisons have held out hundreds of miles behind the main battle front, blocking Allied use of France's great Atlantic ports.

BOOMERANG

Nazi Chief of Police looks disgruntled. He was making fast getaway from 7th Army, forgetting he had ordered road block erected across main highway. His car crashed into it and now he waits for aid. German medic offers comfort.

THE LIVING DEAD

A former prisoner of the Nazis at the infamous concentration camp in Belsen, this man sits helpless in the prison grounds after liberation, his face a grotesque mask of suffering. After months of starvation and mistreatment, he is too weak to walk.

ROYAL VISITOR

Abdul Illah, above, 31-year-old regent of Iraq, is making his first visit to the U. S. He is an uncle of Iraq's 10-year-old King Feisal II.

TO PEACE CONFAB

Richard H. Wells, above, of Pocatello, Idaho, president of Rotary International, represents Rotary as consultant to the United Conference in San Francisco. He will be the representative of nearly 250,000 members of 3354 Rotary Clubs in over 50 countries.

TRIPLE THREAT

"Produced by Constance Bennett, starring Constance Bennett for Constance Bennett Productions," will be the triple-header screen credit on "Paris Underground," the new film vehicle for — you guessed it — Connie Bennett, above. It's her first effort as a producer.
