Little Laurien is of the same belief for she and her black dolly are inseparable companions. Because of an unusual stomach ailment, Laurien can only digest a few foods. The Hospital has worked out a special diet for Laurien that is gradually rebuilding her strength. It is to take care of more babies like Laurien (there are 200 children on the waiting list) that the Hospital for Sick Children is appealing to everyone in Ontario for $6,000,000 for a new building.

OTTAWA REPORTS

That Two Empire Statesmen Praised Canada's Part at San Francisco Conference

Once impleable enemy of the British Empire, now one of its greatest and most trusted leaders, Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts was greeted by thousands when he visited Ottawa.

In the red-tabled uniform British Field Marshal, he laid e wreath for the Union of South 'Africa at the National War Memorial, inspected service cluding a group of South African War veterans, and decorated nine returned Canadian nursing sisters representing a group of 300 who responded to the call of the South African government in 1941 to serve with the forces of that country. Later he spoke vigourously and hopefully of the events of Sar Francisco from which he had just Despite his 75 years General Smuts steps along with the brisk ness of an athlete. His physical fitness is attributed to a fruga life on his farm near Pretoria where he spends most of his time. His mother was of French Hugue not descent, his father a Dutch farmer and minor politician. Once destined for the ministry, General Smuts became a lawyer,-late soldier and statesman.

Lord Crauborne, British secretary of state for the Dominions also came to Ottawa from San Francisco, said in an inter view that the conference and London talks which preceded it, were good examples of how the relation untries works under the Statut of Westminster. "There is no question of the coercion of one member by the others. We are all enstant consultation with each other, we are able very often to reach common view. By maintaining that view we can exert great influence in the affairs of the world." Lord Cranbourne said of the Canadian delegation to San Francisco "The amendment which they put forth were always constructive and helpful, and the contribution which they made left

China Plans 100.000 Miles Of Railways

During the war China has lost she plans to build a railroad sysem with 100,000 miles or rails, 20,-00 of which is to be built within ten years after the war.

The Chinese railroad engineer and personnel have been the last o retreat from places taken by the enemy and they are now the first to enter regained areas. They have moved rails by hand over long distances. They built bridges where it was tho They have built ordges where it was though bridges could not be built. They have improvised with equipment never before thought of in rail-road building. But in spite of all this, China is left with less than a tenth of the railroad line she had before the war, which was approximately 13,000 miles

Churchill 'Choppers'

How desperate was Britain's Britain's defense situation at one time is evidenced by a new Churchill story in Guy Eden's new book "Portrait of Ch. chill." At the close of his famous chalbeaches and in the streets," th Prime Minister turned and mur-niured something to the Cabinet members. It was this: "I do not know what we shall do it withchoppers, I suppose."

Choppers were the instruments wardens carried to help them break into burning buildings.

CHRONICLES Gwendoline P. Clarke of GINGER FARM

Expectation is better than real- | added considerably to our comisation—so they say — but this week's events have been the exception that prove the rule. We fort and enjoyment.

Now preparations are underway for the departure of our guests. There is a scurrying around from place to place, a picking up from have been living on expectation fo one room and then another. I am began. Yes, hydro power was really turned on at last. It was about two o'clock that day when one of the linesmen came along and said,

"Are your lights all right?"
"Are they?" I answered stupidly, credulouly--"Do you mean the upstairs so I guess they're right."

"All right"—what a mild way to put it. And yet after all it was a very conclusive description; I am not sure one could find anything better. We turned on switches here, plugged in there, wandered from room to room trying out the lights, switched on the pole lights, and turned on the ones at the barn, and finally we agreed that, just as the linesman said, everything "was ali right".

But that wasn't the only excitement. Two days later our hard-ware man phoned to say my washing machine had arrived. That was almost too good to be true and yet there was really no doubt about the matter. In due time the machine arrived home and I'm telling you it is like something out of fairyland . . . a magic whirligig that makes drudgery vanish into space; takes kinks out of backs and makes any wash "the whitest wash" brand of soap bars or soap chips.

On the same day that the washng machine came to brighten our lives, there also arrived a letter from my brother in England, with news that son Bob had been to a wonderful piece of news because we knew then that Bob was one step nearer home though we had not yet heard from him to tha And for the holiday weekend six visitors arrived-four adults, one little girl and a baby five months old. It is a long time since diapers flapped in the breeze from our clothes line! But it was good to see them there. And that baby he was just the goodest and the sweetest wee thing you ever

As for farm work-on Monday there was hay to draw in and our guests supplied Partner with plent of help for one day, inexperience -but help none the less. Daughter did her part by driving the horses n the hayfork.
