... JUST IN FUN ...

Good Morning! An American travelling in Italy on behalf of his Government stop-ped at a small inn for the night and instructed the native courier who accompanied him to enter his name in accordance with the local police regulations. Later in the evening he asked the servant if he had complied with his orders.

"Yes," was the reply.

"How did you write my name?" asked the American. "Well, Signor, I can't pronounce it," was the reply "but I copied it from your portmanteau."

The American could not remember having affixed his name to hi luggage, but, being very tired, decided not to press the matter. The next morning he saw the light when upon coming downstairs he was greeted by the desk clerk with "Good morning, Signor Warranted Solid Leather."

The Chinook is a peculiar "ani- | 15,000 feet - Mount Cleveland in mile" whose habitat is Southwestern Alberta. It appears in Winter when it is very welcome. It comes, too, in Summer, when it is one of those very unwelcome hot winds which wither crops in 48 hours it they haven't a lot of moisture at their roots, relates the Lethbridge

It's in Winter, of course, that we brag about our Chinook wind. It may be 40 below in the morning and 40 above by mid-afternoon. Not long ago the mercury here above with 36 hours while the rest of the Prairie West was left shivering. It's little wonder we boast. Standard Oil of California bought

Last week we had a Chinook. from King Ibn Saud a concession Before it got under way in all its glory and vigor South Alberta's foothill range country was largely covered with snow, and ranchers were worrying whether they would have enough feed to carry their cattle through till Spring. The Chinook wiped the snow out within rels a year. At Dhahran on the Persian Gulf Coast, every drilling four days, and the cattle left the in the past year has brought in a gusher. The result is that the ranchers have been given a breather, and they will be hopeful now of grazing for the rest of the Winter so that their disappearing hay supplies will be saved for use during possible

Spring blizzards. Men of the meteorological services and scientific experts do not always agree about the Chinook. Where does it come from and how does it get to prairie level after apparently coming across the mountains at 10,000 to 15,000 feet? We fearned in our high school physics classes that air when heat ed rises and cold air flows in to take its place. But the Chinook appears to operate in reverse. Here that Chinook is the name of a tribe of Indians who held the area river in Oregon, and as the Chin-is warm air coming down from above to displace the heavier frigid air. What has happened to our physics in that case? Chinook, the Encyclopaedia Britannica tells us, "is a name given to a wind which blows from west or north over the Rocky Mountains, where it descends as a dry wind, warm in Winter and cool in Summer. It is due to a cyclone passing northward, and continues for a few hours to several days. It moderates the climate of the eastern Rockies, the snow melting quickly on account of its warmth and vanishing on account of its dryness, so that it is said to 'lick up' the snow from the slopes." In the same authority we learn in practically all metallurgical in

His explanation looks as logical as that of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, at least. At any rate we have often seen the Chinook reach Cardston or Pincher Creek, there to run u pagainst an immovable mass of frigid air, and hang along that front for hours on end, 40 de-grees above on the western side, 40 below on the eastern side, and neither side apparently able to win out in the battle. And airmen have told us, too, of going up from Leth-bridge airport during a sub-zero day on the ground and finding the Chinook 40 above at 2 000 feetook 40 above at 2,000 feetwhich may or may not be what the physics teachers taught us. . At any rate, we're in the Chinook helt which brings us Spring on oc-casion in the middle of Winter. Perhaps we shouldn't worry so much about the physics of it—let are catching rats."

Smokeless Logs

A process for making a new type of smokeless fuel from West ern soft coal is now being tested in Salt Lake City. The New York Times reports. If it fulfils expec tations, the smoke nuisance can be eliminated. K. L. Storrs is the inventor of the process. He passes finely divided coal continuously through a vibrating heated horizontal retort. At a temperature of about 500 degrees centigrade the coal becomes semi-plastic, so that it can be compressed and extruded in the form of long, hard "logs" about two inches in diameter. Only three minutes are required to convert the powdered coal into smoke-less logs ready to use in stoves, furnaces or open fireplaces. The chemical by-products are recovered during the heating process. By a this process a coke can be obtain ed that would be especially useful

Pressed into rescue service, an Army tank evacuates people stranded in Windsor, England, by flood

To the unbiased onlooker it is interesting to note the air of puz-zled bewilderment currently being worn by various prominent sports figures, such as Messrs. Leo Du-
