When he rerains consciousness, he is in his apartment, being nursed by Ann.

Chapter XXIII He walked toward the Common, conscious that it had grown darker and wetter. There was a grim smile around his mouth
Of one thing he was sure. Curt court had really loved Veronica Bigelow. Start with that fact. He had burned his bridges, carefully and conscientiously. Including what love will do for a guy. But he must have been aware of his an-tagonists — of their viciousness if what he intended doing became known. He was certain that he knew of his danger.

McCale was silently deriding the philosophizing he had been indulg-ing in when he came abreast of his own doorway. Just when it was, that the first warning came, he couldn't afterwards recall. He had just looked up to see the lights of his office gleaming faintly. He was only a few feet from the doorstep when it came—that intuitive message from his nerves. He started to turn; then thought better of it. Then he began to run.

The report came like a firecracker, last night, you looked pretty dead to me. I fainted. Rocky had the two of us on his hands. Of course, he simply let me lie there. With hard by on his right. He heard the sound of running feet. He felt a ghastly blow near his heart. He eled, stopped in his tracks A low whisper escaped his lips. He thought, "Oh, God, this is how Curt Vallaincourt died. I wonder what went through his mind-crawling up those He was conscious of wrenching himself upright against the door, of

After a thousand years, the door swung open. Ann stood there. She seemed far away in the dark. He forced a smile.
"You're tight," she said. "No." His own voice sounded different and from way back somewhere. "I don't drink. You know "Yeah-all the way home, I'll bet. What have you done with Veronica "Don't tell me you're jealous of Lyour Family Counselor -• PASSION OR LOVE?

It is not to be expected that a young girl can distinguish between passion and love. She thrill's to caresses, her awakened emotions de-clare this is what she was made for.

There may be nothing in common between the two except this physical magnetism, but to her it seems love itself. She does not know (and would resent being told) that she would react to almost any other presentable young man in the same exciting way. To her he now appears as the only one with that magic glamor—and so she pictures their marriage as just one long life of

New suspension, almost doubling the transverse space, eliminates sway and complete articu and start as one unit.

One can telephone home or to ships at sea while slipping along at 100 miles an hour, enjoying meantime an extraordinary bird's eye view of the route from the "astro-domes" which have been built into cach car by the producers, Pullman Standard, to General Motors' speci-fications. These observation roofs, thirty feet long and ten feet wide, seat twenty-four persons. A host of other features of air control and insulation bring the train far indeed from the cinders and the clicketyclick of the 5:18 local. Its perform ance lends substance to the ca names of these first four sample units: "Moon Glow." "Skyview." "Dream Cloud" and "Stardust.

"Limeys"

As we understand it, the Botish long ago discovered that citrus fruits were about the best thing to use to combat scarry. All British merchant ships carried limes, which were issued regularly to the crew to pre-vent outbreaks of the disease. Sallors of other nations began to speak or of other nations began to speak of 'lime juicers' when they referred to the British merchantmen. From 'lime juicers' to 'limeys'

was not a long step.
