dent: country. The Council makes definite visits to see how these countries are being governed, what the trusteeship is doing with its trust, and they are advancing to some day become self-governing.

Another agency he described as doing great work is the Refugee Organization. It is their job to care for the one and a half million displaced persons which presents a complicated problem. Unless the government will open up places and help these people he did not see how the I.R.O. would be able to carry on such a task.

The World Health Organization, he said, has a positive approach to national health. Instead of the one-time policy of trying to confine a disease to one country, it now deals direct in trying to kill the disease. A great deal of time is given to mental health. In each of these cases he told of dramatic episodes where this agency had been responsible for saving life in the Orient or for looking after the distribution of food in various countries.

CANCER SIGNALS

- 1. Any change in the shape, size or color of a mole or wart.
2. Any sore that will not heal, particularly about the mouth or lips.
3. Any unusual discharge or bleeding from any body opening.
4. Any lump or thickening in any part of the body. A lump in the breast does not necessarily mean cancer, but it does call for immediate consultation with a doctor.
5. Persistent indigestion, especially after the age of forty.
6. Hoarseness which persists longer than two weeks.

Ontario Branch of the Society is campaigning for 150,000 dollar-or-more memberships to help fight cancer with knowledge. It also hopes to be able to finance more services to needy cancer patients, such as the provision of more dressings, clinic transportation, and nursing home accommodation for hard-ship cases.

People may support the crusade against cancer by sending their subscription to the Canadian Cancer Society, Ontario Branch, P.O. Box 409, Toronto 1, or mailing it to the nearest local Cancer Unit in the district.

"My husband plays tennis, swims and goes in for physical exercise. Does your husband take regular exercise?" "Well, last week he was out seven nights running."
