Owen Sound—Owen Sound Collegiate and Vocational Institute honored its war dead last Sunday afternoon when more than 200 people attended the unveiling of the flag draped bronze plaque listing the names of 60 former O.S.C.V.I. students who did not come back. The service, conducted by Dr. H. W. Vaughan of Brantford, who was school chaplain throughout the war, was one of the most impressive of its kind ever held in that city.

Dundalk—Rev. Dr. McKenna, P.P., of Dundalk, left on April 14th for an extended trip to Western Canada. He went as the guest and secretary of the Prelate who baptized him 43 years ago, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Wm. A. McCann, D.F., P.P., of St. Francis Parish, Toronto.

THE VALUE AND PROPER USE OF PASTURES FOR POULTRY

The proper use of pastures has an important place in the rearing of poultry. It is a means of supplementing proteins, minerals and vitamins necessary for proper nutrition.

Feed costs can be somewhat reduced and better birds raised if proper judgment is used in the restriction of other feeds.

In addition to its nutritional value, pasture has the effect of improving the general physical condition of birds. There is also evidence to show that birds reared on good pasture are less subject to disease and infestation of intestinal parasites.

If the greatest value is to be obtained, consideration will be given to planning and subsequent care. Further information regarding planning a program and the crops used can be procured from the Poultry Department at the O.A.C.

Either annual or permanent pastures, or a combination of both, can be used. More land area is needed for permanent pastures, as birds should not be raised for consecutive years on untilled land. An interval of two years is probably the minimum.

Cereal grasses, corn and rape are used for annual pastures. There are different mixtures of grasses and clovers suitable for permanent pastures under different soil conditions. The use of Ladino clover has come much to the fore late.

Remember that pasture should be on good fertile soil and some distance from the mature stock.

Only the new young growth is of value. Frequent mowings may be necessary to maintain this condition.

Restricted feeding of grain or mash, or both, will force the birds to eat more green food. However, it should not be carried too far or their growth and development may be retarded. Opinions differ as to the amount of other feeds that can be saved. Probably a saving of about 15 per cent is the safe limit.

To avoid too many bare spots on permanent pastures, shelters should not be moved during the season. Frequent moving of feeding and watering equipment is essential.

TRUTHFUL

The occasion was an amateur musical. The kind-hearted hostess spied a lonely-looking little man huddled in a corner of the room, and paused to make conversation.

"Tell me," she finally asked, "do you play any musical instrument?"

"Not away from home," the little man replied.

"How peculiar," remarked the hostess. "What instrument do you play at home?"

"Second fiddle," the little man replied.
