TEEN TOWN PARTY ENJOYED

There were spocks galore who roamed about at the Legion Hall here last Pricisy night when Markfule Teen Town entertained as their guests Teen Town members from Meaford. Through the courtesy of the local Legion who gave them free use of the Legion Hall, the Markfule game conducted a turn gare them the use of the Legion mai, the Markdale group conducted a tour of the building to the tune of weird noises, moving shadors and all those scary things that are associated with Halloween. Among those who took part were Jim Perkins, Barbara Wright, Ray Hunt, Isabel Gould, Judy Sawyer, Naw Gillande, Lane Keepan, Pred. Ray Hunt, Isabel Gould, Judy Sawyer, Mary Gillespie, Jane Keenan, Fred Peters, Lynn Sawyer, Don MacMillan, as well as others in costume. Another interesting group was the Ladles' Ald, while the village choir was a group of "doods" who sported chin whiskers, derbies and tails. Miss Fern Harris played "ghost music" on the organ, and sound effects were by Don Kidd, Stewart Lucas and Joe Erskine. Ken Leaver and Don Kidd masterminded the evening with the help of Miss Jane Fair and Mr. Sherwood who acted as chaperones. It was truly a night that spirits roamed the earth and the Teen-towners et the earth and the Teen-towners heartily enjoyed the thrills and enter-tainment provided. Afterwards the happy band joined the crowd in the Armoury hall, and finished off the evening dancing.

WILL SPEAK AT FORUM RALLY

Three pupils of Miss M. McLoughry will take part in the public speaking contest which will be held at Flesher ton this Thursday evening in connection with the Farm Forum Conference. They are Margaret Harris whose topic is "Grey Kitty": Bert Lemon will speak is "Grey Kitty"; Bert Lemon will speak on "Using and Protecting Our Forests" and Raymond Douglas' speech will deal with "Thieves on the Farm." The sponsoring of these district contests by the Grey County Federaion of Agriculture is indeed commendable, and local friends will be wishing these representatives from Markdale "good luck" when they take their bow at Flesherton. The winners will go on to Guelph for the district competitions.

Marks Anniversary

Rev. S. E. Annis, a former pastor here, was welcomed back as guest preacher Sunday, Oct. 31, when Annesier United Church observed its anniversary. His subject at the morning service was "The Church Will Stand" and at the evening service "Giving Thanks for the Things That Endure", and both were inspiring and most appropriate for the anniversary occasion. The spirit of Thanksriving is the propriate for the anniversary occasion. The spirit of Thanksgiving is the most natural thing for Christians who appreciate the riches of God's blessing, declared the speaker. They come through the attraction of the thankful spirit. A Christian, he said, has learned to be content in everything, knowing that there are things much more enduring than material blessings. Rev. Annis said we realize in what measure we have been blessed when we see the countries in want. There is the danger, however, of believing we have been specially blessed. A Christian, he declared, is one who receives blessings. specially blessed. A Christian, he de-clared, is one who receives blessings, believing he has been blessed in order that he may share with others. Of all the enduring things for which people give thanks such as forgiveness, re-demption and justice. God's loving kindness is the most enduring thing. When we learn to count the blessings we already have we have a real spirit of thankfulness, and a grateful heart. He urged a spirit of thankfulness a-bove all for the things that endure. The choir under the leadership of

The choir under the leadership of Mrs. W. E. Harris rendered special music at both services which was much appreciated. At the morning service members of the Junior choir occupied a special place in the balcony as is their custom every Sunday morning.

Mrs. W. B. Allen of Owen Sound wa guest soloist at each service and in the morning sang with Mrs. L. Dennison the duet "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" and also took a solo part in the evening when the choir sang "Seek Ye the Lord". At the morning service 'Great is the Lord" was also sung, and in the evening "Shadows of the Even-ing" and "There Were Ninety and Nine" were both pleasing numbers.

The pastor, Rev. W. M. Lee was present both morning and evening, since Rev. T. M. Murray was conducting service in Division Street Church, Owen Sound, in Mr. Annis' absence.

A thank offering amounted to over $700 with some contributions still to come in.

Anniversary Concert on Monday Night Was Exceptionally Fine; Much Enjoyed

On Monday evening following the anniversary, a musical concert was held in the church where Mrs. Paul Rhame, a dramatic artist from Plint, Mich., was the main attraction. She has a most charming manner and her presentations drew hearty applause. Mrs. Rhame who has made the study of Mrs. Rhame who has made the study of of dramatics a hobby, and is now in the professionals class, is a niece of Mrs. Dave Foster of town, and a cousin of Mrs. Bert Armstrong. Her numbers vaired from a story entitled "The Happy Prince" to musical readings entitled "The Naughty Little Clock", a five-year-old reciting "Moo Cow Moo", "Husbands" and encore, "A Good Girl". Her final number entitled "A Denominational Garden" was very fine, and thanks to this American lady the evening was thoroughly enjoyed, and local trianks to this American lady the even-ing was thoroughly enjoyed, and local people are hoping they may have the opportunity of hearing her again. Her young son also contributed a cornet solo which was exceptionally good.

Several local people also contributed numbers which included a solo by Mrs. Bert Armstrong "A Little China Fgure", song and bagpipe selections by Mr. E. Langman, duets by Mary Gillesple and

The Forum felt that the appeal of farm life and rural living was not so much the monotory return but the more or less independence and the pleasure derived from working with and watching the development of plant and animal life, and the most important qualities a farm wife should have is a love of these things. The Forum was definitely in favour of farm young people being given training to prepare them for marriage and parenthood and there was a spirited discussion on how to develop a better understanding of rural problems on the part of city people. Will Ratcliffe presided. Billie Johnston acted as discussion leader and H. I. Graham read the correspondence Johnston acted as discussion leader and H. I. At a meeting of the Grey County Hog Producers' Association held in the Department of Agriculture on Tuesday afternoon, the special speaker was Mr. Charles McInnis from Iroquois, Ont. Who is president of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association. His address, "Making Canada Great," was of much interest to the sixty farmer in attendance, as well as to farmers throughout the province. he province.

Referring to the strike at the packing plants last year, the speaker began by saying. "We are reminded that last year when we met we were faced with a great problem. This year we are facing an even bigger problem. If Canada is going to become great, Canadian Agriculture will have to make it great. It has been Canadian Agriculture that has placed Canada so high in the field of trade. Had it not been for the longer hours Canadian farmers put in when labour and industry were asking for er hours Canadian farmers put in when labour and industry were asking for shorter hours, we would never have won the war," the speaker declared. Because of this sacrifice, we were able to produce food for those who were unable to do so for themselves." "Canada," he said, "rates third place in the world in the world of the products but the said, "rates third place in the world in the export of food products, but we cannot retain this enviable position if we sit back and let the rest of the world go by. Agriculture rates highest in Can-ada's industries, as it not only produces food, but also the raw materials that supply secondary industries. "Farmers have a far-reaching stake in Canada." he declared.

Going on to explain that agriculture and industry must go hand in hand if Canada is to become really great, Mr. McInnis said, "We must have an everbalance, with agriculture on one side, and secondary industry on the other." Thinking of this proper balance we must set up, we hear the cry of the high cost of food from the city. "Let's face the facts," the speaker said, "Is the cost of food too high?" He compared the rise in the cost of food in Canada with several other countries. and showed that Canada had retained the lowest cost of food index among them. While the cost of food increased about 45% in Canada; across the line in the United States it had jumped 69%. Newfoundland had an increase 69%. Newfoundland had an increase of 205%; in France food costs went up 300%, and Switzerland which was neutral during the war, had an increase in the cost of food to the extent of 207%. On the other hand while the cost of food in Canada had been kept at a comparative low, the cost of farm machinery had jumped 97.6%, building materials have gone up 122% and labour had soared to a high of 283.1%. "And still." Mr. McInnis said, "There comes the cry of the high cost of food from the city." He suggested city folk, or "eight hour day men" as he called them, wanted the farmer to work an extra hour and a half in order that they might have more money to spend in their leisure hours. He said that in spite of the fact that people complained 300%, and Switzerland which was neutspite of the fact that people complained about the cost of food, and that food primarily comes from the farm, "we do not see many city folk giving up their jobs to take up agriculture. "Last year," he informed the gather "Last year," he informed the gathering, "we exported 230,000,000 lb. bacon to Britain, 50% of which came from Ontario and Grey County. This represents $65,000,000 of Canada's export trade. Whether we are going to hold this market or not," he said, "depends on whether we are going to do the marketing job or not. It is essential that we do this," he declared. "We campet control the price of hors in Britain not control the price of hogs in Britair if we lose control of our hogs at outhog pen door. In conclusion he state that Ontario and Grey County must give greater consideration to the markspoke on the power shortage in Ontario and warned it will be four years before the shortage is overcome.

TRAVERSTON

Hog Producers Here

At a meeting of the Grey County Hog Producers' Association held in the Department of Agriculture on Tuesday afternoon, the special speaker was Mr.

While all the long way from the Soo to Quebec last week they were enveloped in pea soup fog, we inland counties reveiled in the sunshine of quiet days, the silence broken only by the falling leaves as they nestled quietly on Mother Earth.

R. T. Cook turned over a 10-acre field of stubble for your scribe in a little over two and a half days last week. A big rock, an ash tree and two big stone piles kept him jockeying at times to boot.

For some weeks we have been long-ing to get over to see the building of For some weeks we have been longing to get over to see the building of the new cement and steel bridge at lot 5, con. 8, at W. R. Jack's corner. On Sunday Joe ran us over in the car. Twas a marvelous surprise we got. A beautiful structure, about 20 feet long, 25 feet wide and over 20 feet high, with steel and cement railing the full length more than surprised us. It excells in fine workmanship and too much credit cannot be given to County trajineer. Wm. Holley, contractor, Jim Reid, Boss over workmen and the men on the job. It would be a credit to any town or city in Ontario. What adds to its beauty is the deep flowing, springfed waters of the Rocky Saugeen, noted for its speckled trout, its swift flowing waters, its rockbound mourtain banks, crowned with forests of changing beauty. See it and be entranced by its beauty. See it and be entranced by its beauty. Reeve Herb. Timmins must have some "pull" at the County Council to secure such a structure.

Then, said son Joe, "Till give you a run north Dad to see some of the Then, said son Joe, "I'll give you a run north Dad, to see some of the township." So we went through the hamlet, where husky bachelors. Stan. Baker, R. J. Torry and Harold Banks have erected a new rock-faced, cement platform in front of Mrs. Jas. Hastie's and Essel's cost home. On to the 19th platform in front of Mrs. Jas. Hastie's and Essel's cosy home. On to the 10th we sped passing the fine cultivated farms of Wadby Baker, R. J. and W. G. Torry, Carman Baker, Ne'son Schaeffer, the former Will Ellison's home, Revel Boyce's, where the county officials have swept the stone fence away from in front of the attractive brick home; cut the hill down and made a wonderful change in road; on past Dave Young's and the Laughlin farms, both showing improvements.

if farms, both showing improvements.

We turned north at the neat well-cared for Baptist Church, passing by Jerry Sullivan's herd of cattle and Pat Malone's cottage, noted for its violin melody, on past the cosy homes of the Coffey Bros., on north turning east, winding up at George McLung's where we couldn't go any further east. Returned back to the 14th con. to sideroad leading to Townsend's Lake, noting the many fields where flax has been grown and harvested by combine on the Moran farm and others. Some the sheaves stooked, others lying flattened on the shoked, others lying flattened on the fields. On past Will Henderson's cosy home and the school with its enlarged playground, back to the 10th con. and playground, back' to the 10th con. and through the hamlet, where the mill pond forms a long lake. In the mill yard are rows of neatly piled slabwood, up past Jim Peart's well-cultivated fields, past Will Sweeney's cottage and his bevy of ten bright boys and girls, over Paddy's Creek, with its shining pebbles and home to the 6th con., the best in the township. Home in time for a tempting dinner, provided by Joe's gifted partner. Some day, if November keeps fair, we are going to induce him to give us a trip to Bell's Lake district.
