A RAW DEAL
Mr. Black was seething with indignation when shown into the lawyer's office.

"Look here," he burst out, "you've charged me for two consultations on the third, and I was only here once."

"The third of the month," said the lawyer smoothly. "That was on a Wednesday, and if I remember rightly it was a very wet day wasn't it?"

"Yes," said Black shortly.

"Well, after you left you came back to ask if you'd left your umbrella here."

THE CARE OF CHEESE

A great many people are buying cheese for use during the Christmas season. Few if any of them know how to properly take care of cheese that has been cut.

Experts in the Dairy Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, issue these few pointers:

Never put cheese on ice. Keep it in a cool pantry or on a shelf in the cellar. The temperature of the room should not go below 50 degrees and the atmosphere where the cheese is stored should not be too dry.

If cheese is purchased in small quantities from a nearby grocery store, remove the paper and place it in a china cheese dish with cover. This permits air to get in.

However, if the cheese is purchased in three to five or six pound lots, and is not going to be used immediately, immediately after cutting a portion off, the exposed surface should be waxed over. This will prevent drying out.

To wax use ordinary paraffin wax similar to that used for jams or fruits. Heat the wax in a shallow pan and dip the exposed surface or the cheese in the melted wax. After it has dried, if it is to be kept for any length of time, re-dip it.

But above all things, never put cheese on ice.

EGGS CHEAPEST HIGH QUALITY
Any housewife looking for the cheapest high quality main-course dish should keep a good supply of eggs on hand these days. This is the opinion of C. F. Luckham, Secretary of the Poultry Industry Committee of Ontario.

To support his contention, he points out that retail prices for Grade A eggs in Toronto and Montreal have run at or below 50 cents a pound in recent weeks. The trouble is, he thinks, people forget a dozen A-Large eggs weigh 24 ounces or more, a dozen mediums weigh more than 22 ounces and a dozen pullets weigh between 18 and 22 ounces per dozen and average about 20 ounces. Now A-Grade eggs are all the same quality. The difference in price is simply because of size and right here Mr. Luckham has another tip for the buyer of eggs. At this season of the year pullet eggs are usually a particularly good buy. With the young birds just starting to lay, supplies of pullet eggs are heavy and the prices for them get lower than the difference in quantity of egg really warrants.

For example, on September 21st, A-Large were selling at around 75 cents a dozen in Toronto while A-Pullets were selling to consumers at around 55 cents. This meant you got more eggs for your money by buying A-Pullets. It also meant they were a good buy, for if compared with other products it means a cost of 44 cents a pound for eggs. That's not cheap, but there are few high-grade protein foods which sell that low these days. What's more, any poultryman will tell you the finest eggs of all are the pullet eggs so help yourself to health and keep the budget balanced with eggs as a main dish used frequently, advises Mr. Luckham.

Teacher: "And now, who can tell why we slay always be neat and clean?"
Little Lizzie: "In case of accident, ma'am"
