The reunion of the 147th "Greys" Battalion, which is held every two years in Owen Sound, will be held this year on Thanksgiving Day, Monday, October 10th. Former comrades are requested to sign the form at the bottom of the letter they will receive in a day or two, and return it at once to the secretary, Oscar Broadhead, Owen Sound, so that it will be possible to arrange for the banquet and entertainment after the parade.

Every former member of the old battalion in this district is urged to be present this year. ## Over 500 Attend New Garage Opening

More than 500 people attended the opening of the new garage of York Bros. on Friday evening. The visitors, welcomed by Pat and Stan York, inspected the new building, from the showroom and office to the large workshop.

Ferns and bouquets of gladioli, roses, and chrysanthemums decorated the showroom, where the centre of interest was a shiny, new 1919 Ford Custom Fordor. The entire building was brightly lit with its many ceiling fluorescent lights.

Stan York welcomed the large crowd, as he spoke into the microphone of an amplification system. He hoped they would have a good time. On behalf of his brother and himself, he thanked all who helped in the construction of the new building, and all who sent floral greetings.

K. E. Stockelbach of Toronto, sales manager for the Toronto district of the Ford and Monarch division of the Ford Motor Company, said Stan and Pat York were to be congratulated on the wonderful job they had done. "It is a tribute to the community," he said.

In the absence of Reeve Dr. R. L. Carefoot, Councillor Bert Hamilton expressed appreciation to York Bros. on behalf of the community.

Mac McKenzie of Owen Sound, special events director for radio station CFOS, was the master of ceremonies. The opening addresses were recorded for broadcasting later. Several spoke into the microphone afterwards for the radio broadcast, including Walter E. Harris, M.P. for Grey-Bruce, and W. G. Franks of Owen Sound, resident manager for the Imperial Oil Company.

Russell Hill's orchestra played for dancing, which was enjoyed by many on the large garage floor. Bill Stoddard was the caller for the old-time square dances, with Tom McKewen of Markdale and Harry Parker of Owen Sound playing their violins.

Lucky door prizes were drawn for by Mr. Franks of Owen Sound, assisted by Stan and Pat York. Eleven men's and six ladies' prizes were given away. The men's prizes were a tire, a set of fog lights, a back-up light, and eight flashlights. For the ladies, there were two dressers lamps, a box of candy, and three toilet sets.

Anniversary Services At Temple Hill Church

Anniversary services were held in the Temple Hill United Church on Sunday. Rev. H. L. Curry, the minister of Trinity United Church, Meaford, spoke in the morning, stressing the imperative necessity of both nations and individuals putting God first in their lives, and of making His kingdom the centre of their desires and activities. His text was "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

From these words of the Master, Rev. Mr. Curry showed how nations and individuals of the past have been blessed and have prospered, simply because they put first things first. The choir contributed to the beauty of the service with special numbers.

The congregation in the evening was almost as large as the morning one, and was characterized also by a spirit of responsiveness to the renderings of the choir and the sermon. Elwood Falls sang a solo, "The Stranger of Galilee." The minister, Rev. C. R. Leach, preached on "The glorious mission of the Christian church in the life of man."

Friends And Neighbors Honor Recent Marriage

Referring to Mr. Mills' work in shipbuilding, it said in part, "Now that you and Agnes are safely launched on the sea of matrimony, we wish you fair winds, a good voyage, and a safe return. We ask you not to forget your home port." The address was signed by Mary Bowles, Mrs. John Hatton, Mrs. Allan White, and Mrs. Lorrie Betts.

Harvest Celebration At Christ Church Sunday

Large congregations attended the harvest thanksgiving services in Christ Church (Anglican) on Sunday. The church was beautifully decorated with sheaves of grain and corn, baskets of autumn flowers, and fruits and vegetables. The rector, Canon R. S. Jones, B.A., conducted the services. Ven. Archdeacon J. N. H. Mills, B.A., L.Th., of London, the Diocesan commissioner for the Diocese of Huron, preached the harvest sermons.

Canon Jones welcomed Archdeacon Mills in the morning on behalf of the wardens and the congregation. Hymns appropriate to the harvest season were sung. During the offertory, the choir, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. F. D. Sawyer, the organist, and under the direction of Mrs. Tom Tuck, the choirleader, sang an anthem, "Thy Barns Shall Be Filled With Plenty."

Archdeacon Mills said he was pleased to see the lovely church property and the way it is being kept in good condition. He brought greetings of good will to the congregation from the Diocese. "It is good that we are endeavoring to build up in the Diocese of Huron," he said.

The text for the sermon was Romans 8:12: "Therefore, brethren, we are debtors." Archdeacon Mills said Paul makes many pronouncements on the business of living. He said war is not a solution, because today, after three wars in his lifetime, the world is in a chaotic state of mind. "We should all be concerned regarding living together in peace and harmony," he told the congregation.

"Paul says we should have a sense of gratitude, to realize our indebtedness," stated Archdeacon Mills, who explained that Paul had a wide and varied experience in his life. The world, said the speaker, is full of people who have a philosophy that they do not owe anyone anything. "Our forefathers made it possible to have these rolling farms. We owe a debt to those who have gone before that we can never repay."

The speaker said also, "The people of this country are living in the lap of luxury and do not realize it. The products of the whole world are brought to our door." He said there is Christian liberty today because "those boys stormed Dieppe, Sicily, Italy—36,000 didn't come back."

It would be a dark future, Archdeacon Mills said, if the Christian faith were taken out of life.

At the evening service, Archdeacon Mills chose his text from Romans 11:36: "For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things; to whom be glory for ever." He spoke about the man who is materialistic-minded only, and who cares nothing for the church. The choir sang a harvest hymn during the offertory.

In the afternoon, Canon Jones conducted a harvest festival service in St. Matthias' Church, Berkeley, and the sermon was given by Archdeacon Mills.

Edna Jaques said she was born in Ontario and went West as a child. "My mother always said transplanted tomatoes grew better," she commented. I hope you never see spring and summer come, and nothing grow out of the ground."

Continuing her address, she remarked, "I often wonder what would happen to all the churches in the world if all the women quit working and raising money." Then she read a poem, "The Faithful Few."

Berkeley In W.O.A.A. Semi-Final Series

Berkeley defeated Kilsyth on Thursday at Kilsyth, in their second game of the second round of the W.O.A.A. playoffs. The game was a splendid one to watch, and the score was Berkeley 7, Kilsyth 3. Both pitchers went the route. C. Nuhn for the winners and J. MacArthur for Kilsyth. The result tied the teams at one win each, necessitating a third game, and by mutual agreement it was decided to play this at Desboro on Saturday evening.

In the third game of the series between Berkeley and Kilsyth, at Desboro on Saturday, Berkeley was again victorious, turning back Kilsyth, 24-5. C. Nuhn, for the winners, was in great form, allowing only 6 hits in 9 innings. E. Garvie and MacArthur divided the pitching for the losers. Berkeley then went into the semi-finals, playing against New Dundee on Monday on the Drumbo diamond under the floodlights.

The Berkeley team took a fine shakedown at Drumbo on Monday, when the New Dundee team outscored them 19-1. This was the local boys' first experience under lights, and this had considerable to do with their one-sided defeat. The second game will be played at Berkeley on Friday, at 5:30 p.m. A win for Berkeley will make a third game necessary.
