EASY TRICKS No. 87

One You Can't Do

This puzzle or trick is intended primarily for the confusion of that friend who prides himself upon his ability as a puzzle solver. Youmay, yourself, get some fun out of trying to prove that what is said about this trick-puzzle is not true.

The diagram A is composed of 16 lines. For your guidance they are numbered in the diagram but you need not number them in the diagram you draw for your friend.

The idea is to draw one continuous line which will cross each of the sixteen lines once and once only. It doesn't seem to be a difficult problem. B shows a solution that seems at first glance to be correct. A closer examination will show that the line fails to cross lne number 10.

You may try as long as you like, but you will be unable to cross all of the 16 lines. Until you have tried several times, however, you will not realize how fascinating is this puzzle "which cannot be solved."

18th Century Canoe Lock

71SITORS to Sault Ste. Marie during Discovery Week, August 4th to V 11th, will no doubt find time to visit the first lock built in North America. Built by the North West Fur Company in 1797, this interesting relic of the oneer days was restored by F. H. Clergue in 1896. The original was used by the fur traders to step down their canoes and batteaux at the rapids where the fall is 20 feet.

Discovery week is to commemorate the 800th anniversary of the Sault by Etienne Brule and Grenolle. Ojibway Indians will play Hiawatha on two afternoons, General Sir Arthur Currie, will unveil a memorial cairn to the discoverers and a program of gaiety for the whole week has been arranged which will attract visitors to this old part of Canada from all over the continent.

French Court Gives Ruling After 50 Years.

After considering the question for fifty-one years, the French courts have finally ruled that wife-beating is not legalized in France.

A domestic quarrel in May, 1872, resulted in a beating for a Parisian woman who immediately lodged a complaint with the authorities at Chambery. If the husband who did the beating were now alive he might in principle face a jail term. Both litigants are dead, however, but the Supreme Court of France ground out the decision just the same.

He who runs into debt has run out of sense.

There are, incredible as it may seem, sugars that cost from $75 to $375 a pound. There are sugars for which such prices are asked, and which people buy. The most expensive of them is called dulcitol, and brings $375 seem cheap. Mannose, for example, costs only $140 a pound. Marnose is made from the scraps that are left over in the making of vegetable ivory

The costliness of these sugars is the result of the excessive care that must be exercised in making them, for the presence in them of any impurity or of any other kind of sugar unfits them for the important uses to which they are put.
