The sport world mourns the loss of Geo. L. (Tex) Rickard who was buried in New York yesterday, following his death at Miami on Sunday. Rickard it was who brought the boxing game back from the slough of suspicion, and made matches which drew attention and spectators from all parts of the world. His life story was just a succession of adventures, from the time he left his home on the plains of Texas, through years in the Yukon and Nevada gold fields, to his taking charge of the great Madison Square Garden in New York. He will be sorely missed by all connected in any way with the boxing racket.
