George Poppleton Unearths An Interesting Relic Which Survived Big Fire

An interesting relic of the past century was unearthed recently by Mr. George Poppleton and brought to the office of The Haileyburian. It is an old souvenir memorandum book, published in London, England, in 1917, and belonged originally to one of Mr. Poppleton's ancestors, just which one he cannot definitely recall. The book was in his safe at the time of the big fire in 1922, but came through the conflagration with little damage. Since that time it has remained in the safe and has become dampened to some extent, but is still in a good state of preservation, although yellowed with age.

The first pages of the book are left partly blank and ruled for notes, two pages being devoted to each month with a line for each day. At the top of each page is an illustration, and included in these are pictures of famous castles, cathedrals and other scenes in the Old Land, interspersed with drawings of historical subjects. About half of the book is devoted to this purpose, the other half containing general information of that day and generation.

A calendar, or "almanack" as it is listed in the index, for the year is much the same as might be published at the present, with the exception that the church festivals are more prominently displayed. The book also contains a list of the Kings and Queens, from William the Conqueror to George III, giving the years of their reign up to the final King, whose name is followed by "Whom God Preserve."

There is a list of Mail Coaches giving the different routes out of London with the time of leaving, apparently covering all important points in England and as far north as Inverness, Scotland. The coach line to Portsmouth, running through Guildford, Godalming, Liphook, etc., recalls to the Canadian ex-soldier many familiar scenes.

Members of the House of Commons, the Archbishops and other notables are given, as well as long lists of the nobility from earls and dukes down to the more humble baronet. There are listed the great law officers, both British and foreign ambassadors, governors of British settlements, etc., and a fund of information valuable at the time. Some notes in the handwriting of Mr. Poppleton's ancestor give the book a personal value to him and he prizes it highly.

Inside the cover is one of Mr. Poppleton's own mementoes, in the form of a copy of the "Order of Parade Service (Church of En-

The opening hymn was "O, God Our Help in Ages Past," and a proclamation naming "Edward, the Son of Her Majesty the late most gracious Queen Victoria, as our undoubted King" was read by the minister.

These relics of a by-gone age are very interesting and are being carefully preserved.

THAT went out of fashion with the cars that buttoned up the back. Many motor oils are just as out of date. — But not Shell Motor Oil. Shell provides the utmost in the split-second lubrication which modern high-compression motors demand. Shell Motor Oil has kept pace with every development of the automobile. Made from Nature's best-balanced, low-carbon crude. Refined by the Shell low-temperature process. Filtered far beyond ordinary practice. Motorists everywhere are finding that Shell provides an extra margin of safety for any emergency. They are enjoying smoother engine performance and long trouble-free service as a result of the lively lubrication of Shell Motor Oil. Have you tried it?
