

Flood Damage in Haileybury Was Worst For Years

Storm Sewers Overflowed and Cellars Flooded; Pavement Covered

Considerable damage was done in Haileybury by the big rainfall of Thursday and Friday morning. In many places the storm sewers overflowed and hundreds of yards of earth, gravel and stones were carried down the slopes and in some cases deposited on the pavement of the main highway. On Ferguson Avenue the overflow carried gravel from the side streets and from the upper stretch south of Main Street, spreading it over the pavement in the block between Main and Broadway.

The surface of Latchford and Brewster Streets was badly damaged, the gravel being washed off and carried down the hill. On Latchford Street a washout occurred when a section of the roadway was carried out. The biggest deposit of material was on the pavement on the Lake Shore road where Foster Street joins. The force of the water coming down the hill cut a trench about seven feet deep down the hillside at the north of the Erenhaus residence, carrying tons of the material right out on the pavement. A number of men were engaged during the greater part of Friday clearing this material, and incidentally filling in a small washout on the Nipissing Central tracks which had occurred at the same time.

In various sections of the town cellars were flooded, in a few cases giving considerable trouble and doing some damage. In the southern section the home of F. Dempster, on Meridian Avenue, suffered the worst damage reported, being badly flooded. It took some three hours before the trouble was overcome. The F. M. Connell residence in the north end had a flood in the basement that required pumping out.

The majority of the culverts and small bridges in town stood up under the strain, but the bridge on Meridian Avenue on the road to the cemetery went out completely. By Friday evening the greater part of the damage had been repaired.

den of the Lodge, conducted the service, and there were some 30 Masons present, including the District Deputy Grand Master, R.W. Bro. J. M. Coghill, of Elk Lake.

After welcoming the members of the Order to take part in the worship of Almighty God, which he said was the fundamental principle of Masonry, Rev. Canon Hincks outlined to the brethren some of the forces in the world which had to be overcome if the ideals of the Order were to be lived up to. The simple and fundamental truth was faith in God, the Order was not merely for the cultivation of its own mysteries, but rather to teach men to strive to fulfil His purpose and live up to the high ideals of life and character which formed the foundation of its principles.

"We believe," the speaker said, "that as God has His purpose, so has our Order in striving to build up a temple to His glory and in using our daily occupations for the building of character. We must look to God as the foundation in our efforts to build up a temple that will be acceptable to Him and will fulfil His purpose."

Following the sermon W. Bro. H. A. Seymour sang a solo and there were suitable hymns by the choir. The Masonic brethren marched back to the temple and the Lodge was closed after the D.D.G.M. had given a short address.
