Directors Meet Tomorrow Night To Make Final Plans For Annual Exhibition

The dates for the annual show of the Haileybury Horticultural Society this year are August 27th and 28th, and as the time draws near the prospects for a good display of flowers, fruit and vegetables are fairly good, in spite of a somewhat discouraging season. Recent weeks have seen great growth among flowers and, although the vegetable gardens are perhaps not up to the average there should be sufficient to make a good showing.

The directors of the Society have been notified of a meeting to be held tomorrow, Friday, evening, at 8 o'clock, in Hotel Haileybury, when it is hoped that final arrangements for the holding of the exhibition will be completed. The show will be held either in the arena or in the new community hall, the latter place being favored by some of the directors. It is believed that the hall will be sufficiently large for both the floral and vegetable exhibits and the display of needlework, cooking and canning held annually by the Ladies' Branch of the Society.

Those who wish to enter their vegetable gardens for the exhibition should do so now. Names and addresses may be left with the secretary of the Society, Mr. H. Clifford, at the town office on Ferguson Avenue.

As in past years, there will be good prizes for Children's gardens. These are confined to pupils of the public and separate schools in town and the children are asked to leave their names and addresses at the Haileyburian Office before August 20th, to insure that their entries will be made.

There is, as usual, a large number of special prizes to be awarded in the main show. These are set out in the prize list. Members of the Society, or those who wish to become members, if they have not received copies of this list, may secure them from the secretary at the town office. All entries should be made either on the day previous to the opening of the show, or early that morning.

Imperial Airways On Northern Route Through Canada

Imperial airways spanning the North Atlantic Ocean and Hudson Bay may some day link Canada with the other aerial routes of the British Empire, according to Maj. Gen. J. H. MacBrien, the president of the Aviation League of Canada.

A trial flight is now being planned across the northern route via Hudson Bay to Europe in 1931. Gasoline for this trip is now, through the courtesy of the Hudson's Bay Company being placed along the route for the trip.

General MacBrien also predicts that valuable as this connection may be in the imperial scheme of things, a great portion of the air traffic between the United States and Europe may have to traverse the same route.

Plans for the linking of the British Empire were first laid at the Imperial Conferences of 1923 and 1926 and as a result of these the British-India route has been established and with it a feeder line running from Cairo across Africa. On this feeder line the gold of South Africa is already being taken to Europe and put into circulation weeks before it would otherwise reach great centres of population. This means a saving of much in interest.

According to General MacBrien Canada's geographical position is a most fortunate one and he says that Canada needs a Canadian operated service to control all the routes. Aircraft will develop Canada's great northlands more than one hundred years earlier than would otherwise have been the case.

Fifty occupations in Canada are embraced in aviation development. Flying is dividing itself into natural classes, such as sport, medical, business and commercial aviation. Commercial aviation, again, divides into mail, express, passenger, arterial survey and government flying which includes forestry protection and military work.

Development in Canada today is being backed by municipal, provincial and federal govern-

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaels

Time is a Tree

Time is a tree,
Sweet flowering
The whole year round,
From Spring to Spring;
Its blossoms are
For you, for me
To pluck from time
The flowering tree.

So bright and fair
Always it gleams,
It seems to bear
Not blooms, but dreams;
And even as
Its gifts we take
Each changes to
A form we make.

Time is a tree;
Night, day, its flowers
It gives us dark
Or shining hours.

A Soprano

Supremely clear and pure it rises
This voice beyond all others
sweet,

To soar above Earth's sad surmises
And dim defeat.

It lifts on its unfaltering pinions
The spirit up to hidden things
Of love, to faith's serene dominions
Its message wings.

The golden flames of candles
flutter
Back to the darkness whence they came,
The incense drifts while echoes
flutter
Sounds pure as flame.

When through the fragrant dim-
ness ringing,
The music cleaves the silence
there,

It is as though white souls were
winging
In lyric prayer.

As though white souls rose up,
exploring
Fairways where never men
have trod,
Still seeking, in their joyous soaring,
The face of God!

Cancer in Women

The question is sometimes asked as to whether more harm than good results from articles on cancer. We are told that through reading these articles, people are needlessly worried, and that a number of them go to their doctors in fear of cancer, who have no real cause for their fears. We, however, can place against this statement, the number who, because of what they have learned, have gone for treatment in the early stages of the disease, and who have been cured.

With our present knowledge, it is possible, to a great extent, to reduce the number of deaths from cancer, providing cases come under treatment early. It is obviously impossible, however, for physicians to go out and look for such cases; the patient must come to the physician.

If every person were to go to his doctor regularly, once a year, for a health examination, this would allow for the detection of many early cases. That is one of many reasons why the periodic health examination is a good habit that should be cultivated by everyone—men as well as women.

Failing the health examination, what brings the woman to her doctor? Symptoms. The earliest signs and symptoms should therefore prompt every woman to consult her doctor. The early symptoms of cancer are the same as those occurring in other conditions, and the physician will decide as to what the actual condition is.

More than one-third of all cases of cancer in women develop in the uterus. We do not know the cause of cancer, but we do know that chronic irritation predisposes to its occurrence. During childbirth, injury to the lower end of the uterus—the cervix—is not uncommon. If such injury is not properly repaired, there is a part subjected to chronic irritation which apparently predisposes to cancer, as it is in the cervix that most cancers of the uterus begin.

The attention of women is frequently and rightly drawn to the need and value of pre-natal care. We would like to add that post-natal care is about the best form of life insurance for women. By post-natal care, we mean proper medical and nursing care after the birth of the child, and, as a part of that care, an examination by the physician, after a period of some weeks, to determine if all the parts are normal or if any treatment is indicated.

Proper post-natal care and prompt attention to any discharge or irregular bleeding, particularly after the menopause, will do much to control cancer of the uterus. A complete examination by a physician is the way to secure such care and attention.

If, in addition to the above noted points, women would promptly consult their physicians about any lump on, or discharge from the breast, there would be a different story to tell about cancer. Early treatment of cancer is successful in a large percentage of cases. The real problem is to bring cases under treatment early, and the solution of that problem rests with the patient.
