

Six Places Entered In Epidemic of Burglaries

Meat Market, Grocery Store, Hardware and Barber Shop Are Among Sufferers; Losses are Not Heavy, But Marauders Get Some Money and Goods

A series of burglaries occurred in Haileybury on Friday night last, when about six of the business places in the downtown area were entered and in the majority of the cases small losses of money and goods are reported. In most of the places entered the burglars gained access through windows, but in one case, that of Austin's Meat Market, a neat hole was broken in the glass of the door, allowing a hand to be inserted and the Yale lock turned. Apparently the robbers made a tour of Ferguson Avenue, breaking in where it was possible and helping themselves to money or goods.

At Austin's some money that had been left in the till for change was taken, the amount not being definitely known but believed to be between eight and ten dollars. The next place to be entered was Carson's Grocery, where only a few cents in cash was secured, but where the robbers made off with a pound of tea and a 15 cent package of biscuits, after drinking a couple of bottles of ginger ale. They got in the store through the office window at the rear, and went out through the back door. They also broke into the passageway at the rear of the post office, leading to the basement, but apparently did not enter the main part of the office and nothing was missed there.

St. Louis and Woods' Barber Shop was the next place to be visited. It could not be determined just how entrance was gained there, but they went out through the back door, which was found open. The proprietors are quite sure that the door was closed when they left for the night. A small sum of money was missing, along with several packets of cigarettes and some cigar lighters.

At the Hardware store of Norfolk & Rochester, the marauders got in by placing a timber up against the east wall and crawling

Hold Session of Supreme Court Here Next Week

Two Divorce Cases on Civil List of Eight Actions; Three Criminal Charges

Two divorce cases, the first to be tried in a court in Haileybury, are on the list of eight civil actions for the spring sitting of the Supreme Court, which will open here on Tuesday next, April 7th, with Mr. Justice Garrow presiding.

The parties to the actions for divorce are Sonia Rosenberg vs. Samuel S. Rosenberg, and Arthur Thompson vs. Julia Thompson. Those involved are from points further north. The balance of the civil list is made up of various suits brought by people in different parts of the district, only a couple which involve local people.

There will be no grand jury for the assizes this time, as the three criminal cases have already been considered by that body and true bills returned. One case is a retrial of the charge of murder against Olli Maki, the Finnish woodsman who is alleged to have killed a fellow countryman in a drunken fight last June in a camp near Englehart. The jury disagreed at the trial last fall.

S. Alexander will again face trial on a charge of arson, laid following the burning of a store which he occupied at Kirkland Lake, and the third case is a charge of criminal negligence and causing bodily harm, against Henry Stolz. The injured person is Horace Bailey, who was struck while walking on the sidewalk at the time the defendant's car was wrecked in Kirkland Lake last summer. Stolz was tried and acquitted of the manslaughter charge in connection with the same crash, in which a passenger in the car was killed.

Mr. Gordon is Applauded In the House of Commons

The Ottawa Journal had the following to say a day or two ago in connection with the activities of Hon. W. A. Gordon, Temiskaming's representative in the House and a member of the Cabinet:

Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Mines, has a new job. He will act for Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, in the House of Commons and deal with everything pertaining to this department. Mr. Gordon was applauded by both Liberals and Conservatives yesterday when he announced in a very lucid manner the Government's policy in the matter of paying prevailing rates of wages on unemployment relief work.

Mr. B. W. Hartley exhibited to the Rotary Club at its regular luncheon on Monday a fine collection of gems, cut and uncut, which he has collected over a period of many years. His talk in connection with the exhibition was a very interesting one.

Thousand Feet of Gold Bearing Vein Uncovered

McNabb Brothers Have Likely Property in Night Hawk Lake District

The three McNabb brothers, Angus, Duncan and David, who have spent the past five months on their property in Macklen township, in the Night Hawk Lake area, have what they consider to be one of the most likely prospects that have been opened up in that district in recent years. They recently returned home after spending the winter on their claims, where they have uncovered a gold bearing vein for a distance of a thousand feet and, while their assays have not yet been completed, they believe that the property will prove of merit.

The property consists of eight claims, two of which they have held for several years and have patented. This winter they staked six more claims, rounding out the block and did considerable work. They state that they have gold showings across a width of some 25 feet and that they have stripped the vein for a distance of 500 feet. The gold is in carbonate quartz and porphyry, the ideal formation in which to find the precious metal, and they have hopes that it will develop into a mine. In the meantime, until the results of the assays are known, they have taken no steps for further development.

The property lies within a mile and a half of Night Hawk Lake and is 20 miles from the railway at Connaught, on the Porcupine branch. It is in a southeasterly direction from Timmins and is on the western extension of the Kirkland Lake belt.

HOLD CLASSES FOR PROSPECTORS HERE STARTING APRIL 9TH

Classes for prospectors will again be held in Haileybury this spring, under the direction of the Ontario Department of Mines. These classes will open on April 9th at Hotel Haileybury and will be conducted by Dr. E. M. Burwash, who has had charge of this work for the department for several years past.

The instruction given will be chiefly in elementary chemistry and geology, with special attention paid to the identification of minerals. There will be classes held each day for eight days, with illustrated lectures in the evenings and the course is entirely free of charge.

Prospectors who have attended these classes and lectures in the past have received much valuable information and will be glad to know that a similar opportunity is to be given this spring.

Last week a branch of the penny bank of Ontario was opened in the public school at Kirkland Lake and the first day's business resulted in $112.33 being deposited by 409 pupils who opened accounts.

Public Accounts Outline Expenditure in the North

Roads and Bridges Account For Great Part of Seven Millions Spent During Past Year; Ferguson Highway Still Takes a Lot of Money; Will Be Less Spent This Year

THE ROYAL ADMIRAL

Resplendent in a brilliant uniform of a British Admiral, King George is shown in the first official photograph made since his illness. It is an English tradition that the King hold the rank of Admiral of the Navy and Field Marshal of the Army.

With the recent announcement that the appropriation for the work of the Northern Development had been reduced to five millions, it is interesting at this time to get an outline of what was done during the past year. This can be secured from a study of the public accounts of the Province, which is issued in book form and covers the year ending with October 31st last.

From the book it is learned that, while the sum of ten millions was voted for the North last year, less than eight millions was spent, the exact figures being $7,912,097.59. From this is to be deducted the amount paid out in loans to settlers, creameries, etc., which reached $67,450 for the year, leaving a net expenditure of $7,844,647.59. Of this amount by far the greater part went in the construction of roads and bridges, over seven million dollars having been thus spent, besides an account of over nineteen thousand dollars which is listed under colonization roads.

Of the amounts spent in the districts of Nipissing, Temiskaming and Cochrane, the Ferguson Highway still accounts for considerable sums, although these are smaller than the previous year when more new construction was carried out. In the districts further south this highway cost a large percentage of the road money, the figures given for District No. 1, with headquarters at Huntsville, being $947,725.45 for the Ferguson Highway out of a total of $1,191,525.95.

In District No. 2, North Bay, the total expenditure was $562,038.91, of which $27,752.99 was spent on the Ferguson Highway. The proportion was greater in District No. 5, New Liskeard, with $226,542.00 spent on the highway out of a total of $512,136.41. For District No. 6 at Matheson, the figures are $171,938.22 and $590,974.28 respectively.

In the Cochrane District, No. 7, the total expenditure was $1,220,163.28. Of this $493,115.77 was
