

Stock Market is Alleged to Have Absorbed Funds

Kirkland Man Charged With Fraudulent Conversion On Three Counts

Alexander Mathew Soloway, formerly of Kirkland Lake, faced three counts of fraudulently converting to his own use funds entrusted to him by residents of the gold camp for the purpose of bringing relatives from Central Europe, when he appeared before His Honor Judge Hartman, in court here on Friday last. It was alleged that a part of the money had been used on the stock market by the accused, with the result that it had been lost. Soloway maintained that, if certain witnesses which he cited were produced, he could prove his innocence, and he has to April 14th to secure their testimony. On that date his counsel, Geo. Mitchel, K. C., will present legal arguments to back up a formal objection he entered to the proceedings, on the ground that cases are, if anything, breaches of trust and, as such, require the assent of the Attorney-General before prosecution can be made.

Soloway was formerly a merchant and steamship agent at Kirkland Lake but left last August to go to Flin Flon. He was arrested later in Regina and brought back to the North and has since been confined in the district jail here. Constable Wm. Byrne, of the provincial police, who brought him from the West swore that the accused had made a voluntary statement to the effect that he had received money for steamship tickets from various persons, but that Moysey had got part of it and his partner Thomas Stalmack, the rest. Inspector W. T. Moore corroborated Constable Byrne's evidence generally, stating that he had received a similar statement from Soloway in Kirkland Lake, adding that the accused had said he intended to pay back the money. Both statements of the officers were denied by the accused, who admitted to having received money in several instances for the purpose of bringing relatives from Europe, but claimed he had paid it over, either to a man named Klassin, said to be a representative of the steamship company, or to another party to be returned. Sales of goods in his former store were claimed to have entered into the transactions.

Three specific charges were presented before His Honor on Friday. In the first, Mike Bobus alleged he had given Soloway $152.75 to bring his wife from Jugo Slavia; in the second K. urina claimed that $221.50 had been paid by him to the accused for passage money for his wife and daughter from the same country, and in the third the amount was 157.75 said to have been paid by Mrs. Mary Markovitch on behalf of her niece, also in Jugo Slavia. In each case it was charged that Soloway had also collected $25 extra for securing immigration permits from Ottawa.

There was considerable evidence presented on each count and the accused explained his dealings with the claimants, some of whom he declared he had reimbursed in cash, while others had received goods and money to the full value of the amounts paid to him. He will have another opportunity to clear himself when the court sits on the 14th inst..

Orange Bread Pudding

1 1/4 cups St. Charles Milk
1 1/2 cups water
1 cup fine bread crumbs
2 egg yolks and 1 whole egg, beaten
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Juice of two oranges
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Grated rind 1 orange
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
4 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 tablespoon melted butter

Dilute the milk with water and bring to scalding point. Remove from fire, add the bread crumbs and let stand until cool. Blend the eggs, sugar, butter, salt, fruit juice and rind and stir into the bread and milk mixture. Pour into a buttered pudding dish. Cover the top with a meringue made with the beaten egg whites and four tablespoons sugar. Brown lightly in a slow oven.

BLOOD PURIFIERS

We often hear persons speak of their blood as being thin or in bad condition, and this, most frequently, in the spring of the year.

There is a popular belief that when spring comes, the body should be given a purge to rid it of the poisons which are supposed to have accumulated during the winter, and to follow this by a tonic to purify the blood.

It is true that by the time the spring comes, there are a number of people who do not feel well. They are all tired out, and their appearance answers the description they give themselves. No wonder they feel miserably and look it! For months, they have led the kind of life which would make anyone lose his health. They shut themselves into hot rooms with no ventilation, take no exercise, never go out in the fresh air, and eat just as much as they do when they are active during the summer. It is bad habits of living during the winter months which cause the trouble; the blood has nothing to do with it.

Prevention is better than cure, but if you have not been taking reasonable care of your health during the winter and you are now feeling the results of your carelessness, you will want to know what you should do.

The only way to get back what you have lost is by paying attention to the points you have neglected. Health which you have lost by your indifference will not be regained by the use of "spring tonics". Health is found in fresh air, exercise and attention to diet.

The body is quite capable of ridding itself of its waste material if it is given half a chance. Use water internally and externally. Take a warm bath at least once a week to help the skin to function properly. Drink a glass or two of water before breakfast and between each meal to help elimination. Cultivate regular toilet habits. Fresh cool air acts as a stimulant for the whole body and, together with sunshine, is nature's own spring tonic.

The body cannot be kept healthy unless it is kept in good running order by exercise. The big muscles of the body must be kept in condition by use. Whether it is work or play which brings them into use does not matter so long as they are used.

Eat according to the work you are doing. Let your diet consist of a wide variety of foods, and remember that milk, green vegetables and fruits should be used regularly.

The blood is as clean and pure in the springtime as it is at any other time. Alterations in the blood are brought about by certain diseases, but not by the seasons of the year.

Blood purifiers are not required. What is needed, and all that is needed is healthy living.

Special Easter Services Held in All Local Churches

All Haileybury Churches recognized the Easter Festival with special services, Easter music and earnest sermons on the Resurrection from all preachers. The churches were decorated with flowers for the festival, the Easter lily being predominant, and in general the observance of the day was much the same that has been the custom for centuries.

The holiday on Good Friday was quietly spent, so far as Haileybury people were concerned. Both on that day and on Easter Sunday the weather was fine and there was an opportunity for getting out into the open. Many families had a reunion, when members arrived from out of town points, and, although there has been considerable sickness recently, the holiday was generally enjoyed here.

Several cases of highgrading featured the courts at Timmins last week and three convictions were made.
