VETERANS MEMORIAL

Fourteen years ago to-day the men of Canada jumped out of their assembly trenches and stormed the heights of Vimy Ridge to win one of the most glorious Canadian victories of the Great War.

Attacking together for the first time as a united Canadian corps the four Canadian divisions made the name of Canada ring through out the civilized world. It was a great victory but won at a tremendous cost for, when the smoke of battle had cleared away, thousands of the gallant sons of the Dominion lay on the fields never to rise again.

From coast to coast today the sacrifices of these gallant men are being remembered with gratitude. They gave all they had to give and died in defence of their country and Empire and the dear ones they had left at home. They are remembered with pride for they gave a new meaning to the word Canadian and today they are honoured with reverence by the comrades who were with them on that day and who were spared to come back.

Memorials, beyond number, have been raised to their memory but none quite so effective or so striking as the memorial which has been created in their honour by their returned comrades. It is not a memorial of brick or stone, it is a memorial of flesh and blood devoted to the service of those who were disabled and to the service of the widows and children of the men who did not return. It is a memorial which perpetuates the ideals and service for which those men died and which exists today, solidly established on a foundation stone of service for comrades, service for country and service for Empire.

The War Veterans Memorial to the fallen heroes is the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, Canada's great unified organization of War Veterans, an organization which has ever before it the sacrifices of comrades left in soldier's graves and the ideals for which those comrades gave their lives. As they served in War these men, of the Canadian Legion, are striving to serve in peace so that the debt which they owe to Canada and the Empire shall be fulfilled. It is a great and glorious memorial but one which shall reach its full effectiveness and significance only when every man, who wore a uniform in the country's time of danger, is enrolled in this ever growing membership.

Dogs and Deer

Citing the case of a Toronto man, who was sued for the price of a stray dog which he had picked up and which eventually became lost and had to be paid for, The New Liskeard Speaker had the following comment last week:

"The judge gave judgment in favor of the owner of the dog for $65 and costs. And right here we might say that placing a similar valuation on the thousands of hounds owned by deer hunters throughout Ontario will give you some idea of the monetary loss the proposed elimination of hounds from the deer hunting season will inflict on the owners of these animals. Does it look like a fair deal?"

Personally, we would say that in addition to the monetary loss, the sportsmen of the province will suffer greatly from the regulations, which have gone into force over a certain section of the country. In spite of many arguments to the contrary, we do not believe that the use of hounds in deer hunting has any tendency to reduce the number of these game animals. We have seen it proved, time and again, that still hunters in parties have just as good luck during the hunting season as those who use the dogs. Our experience applies to country which is somewhat different to Temiskaming, probably more in the nature of the southern part of the province, which is exempt from the new regulation, but still we do not believe that the use of hounds in this particular section would be at all likely to noticeably reduce the number of deer. It seems unfair to apply the restriction to the North Country in particular. If it is a good law, why not make it province wide? Or, perhaps, it is introduced as an experiment and if it is found that no improvement is made it will be abandoned. At any rate, there will be serious opposition, and an attempt made to show that it is an unwise law.

The Wild, Wild Women

From one of our exchanges last week we culled the following: "The town of _____ has been very free from disorderly conduct of late, Magistrate _____ not having had occasion to hold court here for some time. The spell was broken last week when Mrs. Lila Montgomery assaulted Mrs. Lillian Bird in the post office and on the steps of the Barrett Block. Mrs. Montgomery was taxed $5.00 and costs for taking the law into her own hands."

Docket is Shortened By Settlement of Two Cases

The docket for the assizes this week was shortened to some extent by the settlement out of court of two of the eight civil actions listed. These were the cases of Thomas Stalmack vs. D. Sorochan and Martha Leitch vs. Pierre Aubertin. In the first mentioned M. G. Hunt, of Kirkland Lake, one of the counsel, announced the settlement to His Lordship, Mr. Justice Gartow, while in the second, Crown Attorney Smiley, K.C., and Jos. A. Legris were the counsel who effected the arrangement.

The grand jury, summoned after it had been considered that their services would not be required, brought in a "true bill" in the case of Henry Stolz, Kirkland Lake man charged with causing grievous bodily harm to Horace Bailey, the outcome of a motor crash in the gold camp in July last. This concluded the session on Tuesday afternoon.

HELP THE NEEDY

The local corps of the Salvation Army is again appealing for help in the form of used clothing for some needy families in Haileybury and the district. Any article that can be spared will be thankfully received and will be sent where they are urgently needed. Citizens are asked to do what they can in the way of assistance. A call to Lieut. McFarlane will be greatly appreciated.
